

Parent's Day Presentations Feature Awards for Corpsmen

Another of the many customs to be revived this year for the first time since pre-war days is the Parent's Day Awards presented each year on Mothers' Day to outstanding members of the Cadet Corps by various donors over the state.

The Military Department has been working for the past few weeks on various preparations that must be made to reactivate these awards, and have so far succeeded in the renewal of the ones listed below.

The Caldwell Trophy—Presented to the most outstanding cadet of the Corps based upon scholastic, military proficiency, and extra-curricula activities.

The Field Artillery Medal—Presented to a junior of the Field Artillery Regiment by the Field Artillery Association for military proficiency and general excellence.

The Coast Artillery Medal—Presented to a junior of the Coast Artillery Regiment by the Coast Artillery Association for military proficiency and general excellence.

Ordnance Medal—Presented to the honor student of the ROTC Ordnance unit by the Army Ordnance Association.

The Daughters of the American Revolution present a cash sum to the Honor Man of the junior class.

The selection is based on scholarship, military proficiency, leadership, and character.

The Albert Sydney Johnson Saber, presented last year to Chester J. Reed, commanding officer of D Troop Cavalry, is given annually to the outstanding cadet of the year by the Texas Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

At present, several other awards are being considered and will probably be announced later.

and reporters as Sanders stated his views regarding Gilchrist's performance as A. & M. head. Sanders flung specific instances of suppression of student opinion at the board, and voiced the opinion that Gilchrist spends too much time in Washington and Austin "politicking" when he should be concerned with the affairs of the college.

Sanders said he had no specific evidence of political corruption with him, but warned that stockpiles of information were being collected by two local men. He declined to name the men, but stated that one had been connected with the college until three years ago.

"Someday those stockpiles will be exposed and will provoke the public to clean up down here," he warned.

'School of the Air' Features Radar

From working in deep secrecy on radar apparatus, to broadcasting about it on the Texas School of the Air program—such was the transition completed by Vick Lindley this week. Lindley, as narrator in a School of the Air Transcription made this week, told about contributions made by physics during the war, including radar and loran, as well as the atom bomb. As a naval radio technician, Lindley had worked with radar and loran gear at a time when their very existence was unknown to the public.

The Texas School of the Air programs are broadcast every Thursday at 11:15 a. m. over the Texas Quality Network.

speakers were allowed on the platform. They were Rep. Searcy Bracewell, '38, from Harris County, who introduced the resolution calling for a legislative investigation; Bill "Jitterbug" Henderson, famed Aggie athlete, who asked for a "real good cleaning-out," and Robert E. Hyde of Harris County, father of a junior in the corps, who scored the administration's stand on hazing.

speech, let slip a naughty word to the great consternation of the wire-recording people. It became necessary to erase that part of the wire (ain't science wonderful?) and let him have another try at stirring the multitude. The second time, he succeeded.

After two and a half hours, silence and quiet returned to the campus, but not serenity.

Climbing down from the rafters and beams, the wrought up members expressed mixed views of what had just occurred. Some were enthusiastic beyond all bounds. The four bosom buddies might be a cross-section of opinion.

The intellectual element, represented by clean-shaven, bored-looking Caruthers T. Shelley, said, "Duh... purty good."

Jedidiah Plowe, the homespun philosopher from Dry Gulch, thought that "you can't talk no tree into falling over."
Walter Frisbee, cool, level-headed, perspicacious, mused that "this is what we have needed to do all along. No one will clean house for us, especially if he gets a wrong slant from the one-sided propaganda that's handed out. Let's go all the way!"

Horace McSwartz said he was sorely disappointed that there were no refreshments served.

Is all this the handwriting on the wall or is it merely the doodling of some idle lounge? The answer only God knows, and He won't tell.
