Cadets to Sing For Methodists Wednesday

The Singing Cadets will be the main attraction of an outdoor musical treat to which the public is invited tomorrow evening at 7:30 p.m. on the lawn behind the parsonage of the Bryan First Methodist Church.

Sponsored by the newly organized choir of the First Methodist Church, the program will include both solos and group numbers by the choir. A silver offering will

The program, interdenominational in scope, will consist of local talent from Bryan and College Station in addition to the Singing Cadets, who will make their last appearance for the spring season.

In case of inclement weather, the program will be held in the church sanctuary.

Awards Given Winners In ED Contest

Awards were presented to winners of the annual Engineering Drawing contest Thursday morning by Dean of Engineering H. W. Barlow, and winning drawings were exhibited in the Academic Building Saturday as part of the A-E Day shows. J. W. Canning, V. G. Rollins, W. G. Schick, and Alfred J. Marek were first-place winners in the four classes.

Entrants in Class A were required to make a working drawing in pencil on tracing paper, with choice and treatment of views, dimensioning, and execution as part of the problem. Canning, a graduate of Breckenridge High School in San Antonio, was presented with a Commander Drawing Set. Second place winner was A. J. Otte of Pear Valley, who received a box of drawing pencils and a drop pen. His hometown is Gonzales.

In the Class B competition, a complete solution of a descriptive geometry problem was involved. The competing solutions were judged for correctness, arrangement, lines, lettering, and general appearance. Rollins, first place winner from New London, received a drafting instrument. Second prize in this event went to E. C. Michels of Vernon, who was presented with a triangle protractor.

Class C was a lettering contest, in which a paragraph was lettered freehand once in pencil and once directly in ink. Lower case and upper case inclined letters were used. Judging was based on technique of style, work and letter spacing, arrangement, and general appearance. Schick, winner from Houston, received a Dietzgen Protractor-angle. T. B. Carrrens was presented a draftsman pencil for his second prize lettering.

Freehand drawing on plain white heavy drawing paper with pencil and without the use of any mechanical aids was the Class D event. Choice of views, proportion, and dimensioning were included in this judging. Marek of West, first place winner, received a master bow pencil. Second prize a contour pen, was awarded to E. J. Stanton of Highlands.

Consumers Co-Op Director Addresses Ag Ed Students

At the invitation of the Agricultural Education Department, Donald W. May, Educational Director for the Consumers Cooperatives Associated, lectured to various sections of Agricultural Education classes Monday through Friday of last week.

Since farmers in Texas are showing a keen interest in the cooperatives, vocational agriculture teachers are expected to provide the farmer with organizational guidance and factual information relating to the cooperatives. In order to provide prospective vocational agricultural teachers with the necessary details, May, editorial adviser of the Battalion in 1943-44 was invited to give students first-hand information.

May pointed with pride to the effectiveness of the work done by the Co-ops in the Southwestern United States. They handled over $8,000,000 worth of products resulting in savings amounting to $344,277.26 for the farmers of this area.

Seventeen years ago the Consumers Cooperative organized with seventeen members. Today that cooperative serves 207 member associations and a score of patron associations in seven states Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi.
