Joe McCarthy Out Mainstream Opens Of Retirement To Handle Red Sox Annual Literary Student Contest

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, announced yesterday that Joe McCarthy, former boss of the New York Yankees, had signed a two-year contract to direct the Boston Club with Cronin becoming the general manager. McCarthy, who left the Yankees in May of 1946 because of ill health, takes over his new job at once. Cronin, who also takes over immediately, refused to divulge either his or McCarthy's salary. Eddie Collins, who has been general manager of the Red Sox, continues in an advisory capacity and as vice president.

Collins has directed the Boston Club since October, 1934, and brought the club into the world series last year. This year a slow start dropped the Red Sox to third place behind the pennant winning Yankees. McCarthy is the only manager over to win pennants in both the American and National Leagues. He was in charge as the Cubs triumphed in the National in 1929 and then directed the Yankees during their long reign at the top in the 30's.

Cronin said he called McCarthy at Buffalo last week and asked him to meet him here last night. "We met up all night discussing it, and Joe finally accepted," he told reporters. McCarthy will have complete charge of the team and will have the power to make any deals. McCarthy said "I am glad to be with the Red Sox organization. I could have gone with other clubs, but I chose the Sox."

Fighters Try Dry Ice to Rain Out 96 Forest Fires in East Tex.

CONROE, Tex., Sept. 29 (AP)—More attempts to produce rain by the use of dry ice will be made in an effort to quell nearly 100 forest fires sweeping East Texas woodland, J. O. Burnside, fire chief of the Texas Forest Service, announced. One such attempt yesterday failed. Burnside said that Paul Alexander of Conroe dropped between 25 and 50 pounds of dry ice on a cloud and succeeded in lowering it 1,800 feet, but did not produce any rain. He quoted Alexander as saying that weather conditions were not right. He declared more attempts would be made. As 96 individual fires swept over four East Texas counties, officials of Oklahoma and Louisiana offered equipment to fight the blazes. Thousands of acres of trees have been burned in five counties, but in one, Walker, the blazes have been brought under control or have burned themselves out. "At times we think we're getting ahead and at other times we think we're losing ground," Burnside said. Pilots of the Texas Forest Service and of the 111th Texas National Guard Fighter Squadron took a count that revealed these fires: Liberty County, northwest portion, 29. Montgomery County, 54. San Jacinto County, southwest portion, 12. Harris County, north portion, one. The fire chief declared that apparently the fires were maliciously set. He reported yesterday 10 fires were set in one tract, 15 in another and 12 in still another section. He said a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone setting the fires still stands. The sum was offered by a group of landowners. Gov. Beauford H. Jester Saturday had said he believed the fires were caused by the burning of fields by farmers. Montgomery county schools were to close today to make available 300 high school boys as firefighters. No one has been injured and no homes have been burned, Burnside reported. He said the blazes were "group fires," and very destructive to young seedling growth. Large timber has escaped serious damage, he said, but declared heavy damage to large trees might take place unless it rains or the fires were controlled.

Third-Generation Minister Leads College Methodists

By Kenneth Bond "Ours is a two-fold purpose in College Station," states Rev. James F. Jackson, minister of the Methodist church. "We are here to serve the church, the constituency, and the members of the church, and through the interested members of this church—to serve the A&M College." If someone had asked Rev. Jackson's father what vocation he expected his two sons to follow, without thinking he would have replied, "Methodist Ministers." The father has carried on services in the Methodist Church for the past fifty-five years; his brother was a Methodist minister, and their father was also a Methodist minister before them. Rev. Jackson was born the fourth of five children in Cordoba, Georgia in 1908. He attended various schools in Georgia and received his high school diploma at Bainbridge, Georgia. After working as a salesman and attending the University at Oglethorpe, Georgia, for a short time, he decided to enter the ministry. While attending Mercy College in Georgia, he acted as student minister for several churches. Majoring in Christianity, he received his Bachelor of Arts in 1934. After working on his master's degree for a while at Mercy College, he transferred to Duke University and received his Bachelor of Divinity in 1936, majoring in church history. He attended the University of Edinburgh, Edinburgh, Scotland, where he spent a year working towards his Ph.D. Church in Eastman, Georgia, buried and Rev. Jackson was sent there to rebuild and dedicate a new church. He was in Eastman for two and one-half years. He transferred to Houston, Texas, and became the assistant minister to the Rev. Paul Quillian who is pastor of the Houston Methodist Church, the largest Methodist Church in the world with 7500 members. After spending two years at Carthage, Texas, he was transferred to College Station where he has been the past three months. Rev. Jackson has great plans for the Methodist Church in the building program as well as working with the college. He will hold identical services at nine and eleven each Sunday to accommodate everyone who wishes to attend. The Episcopalians, Presbyterians, and the Methodists are combining to give services for the freshmen at "Little Aggeland." Regular services will be held in the chapel, Bill Watts, a student preparing for the ministry, will be available at the Annex for counseling. The Methodists are undertaking a great building program, sponsored by the Wesley Foundation which is locally represented by Rev. Carlos Davis. These buildings, when completed, will be landmarks in College Station for many years. "I am greatly impressed by this great college," asserted Rev. Jackson, "and I am very proud to be able to work with such a fine faculty and such a many group of students. Such a combination cannot fail."
