Fluorescence Unravels Role Of Sunlight, Noyes States

Mysteries of photochemistry, embracing the role of sunlight in promoting plant growth and providing food for man, are being unraveled by the study of fluorescence, Dr. W. Albert Noyes, Jr., president of the American Chemical Society, told a meeting of the A. & M. Section Thursday Night. Sunlight provides the energy necessary for plants to manufacture sugar from water and the carbon dioxide in the air by the process known as photosynthesis, which is a typical photochemical reaction. The sugar is later converted to starch, cellulose, and other materials which constitute plant tissue.

Fluorescence is the glow that is given off by some substances when they are excited by energy in the form of heat, electricity, or visible or invisible light, Dr. Noyes explained, pointing out that such substances are used to coat the inside surfaces of the long bulbs employed in modern fluorescent lighting and are also essential to the reproduction of images on television screens. When a molecule, the basic unit of a chemical compound, is irradiated by light, it receives a store of energy that is manifested as heat, fluorescence, chemical energy, or fluorescence, according to Dr. Noyes, who is chairman of the department of chemistry in the University of Rochester.

'47 Longhorns Arrive; Line Forms At Goodwin Tomorrow Morning

MISS NANCY DURIE, "Easy Acres," Waco, will represent Baylor at the Aggie Rodeo October 24-25. MISS DURIE, a junior at Baylor, is a member of Delta Alpha Pi and the Waco Longhorns (Saddle) Club and president of the Baylor-Waco Club.

Weary Aggie Fans Return From 'Lost Week-End' in Cowntown

By JIMMIE NELSON
A. & M. and TSCW students—several thousand strong—invaded Fort Worth last week-end for their joint annual corps trip. Literally "taking over" the town, they flooded the Texas Hotel lobby, headquarters for both schools, and poured into the streets among the milling crowds.

Early arrivals wandered over "Cowntown" Friday, some visiting an informal TSCW style show at the "Fair" department show; a few making quick trips to Dallas for a glimpse of the state fair; and the majority just out seeing the town.

Activities started Friday at midnight when the Aggie yell leaders climbed on a trailer in front of the Texas, and as traffic was diverted through side streets, led Aggies, Tassies, and other school supporters in the customary yell practice preceding conference games.

One saturated, and quite drunk "Damsyankee" from Chicago, milled cheering for FCU. Not content to be the lone Horned Frog supporter in the assemblage, the tipy reveler searched long and with negative results for "just one white man from Texas Christian." When last seen, he was weaving toward the yell leaders to "exercise his privilege of free speech."

Saturday morning the Cadet Corps paraded through downtown Fort Worth, as townspeople and visitors lined the streets. After a quick lunch, the rush started for Horned Frog Stadium. During half-time activities—the most enjoyable part of the afternoon for Aggie fans, Aggie Sweetheart Laura Sessions was presented to the Cadet Corps by Colonel Bill Brown.

Post-game enjoyment was found by many at the dance in the Texas Hotel sponsored by Fort Worth ex-Aggies. Others, perhaps seeking to get away from it all, went to Dallas for the state fair.

Sunday, weary Aggies and Tassies trekked back to College Station and Denton after a gay, but disheartening, week-end.

'Best Book Since Forever Amber' States Reviewer

No book in recent years, except perhaps "Forever Amber", has caused as much comment as the 1947 Longhorn. That much sought after volume, long delayed by the printers to sharpen the subscriber's appetite, has arrived!

Social Chairmen To Select Dates For '48 Calendar

A meeting of all social chairmen of clubs, organizations, or classes which plan to have dances or other major social events this year will be held tonight at 7 p. m. in Room 309, Goodwin Hall.

Grady Elms, club advisor, stated Saturday that all such organizations should be represented so that a date may be assigned for the social event. Since there is a limited number of week-ends available, social chairmen should have in mind a primary and secondary choice of dates, Elms said.

If the club or group does not have a social chairman, the president or a delegated representative should be present tonight.

The following schedule of major events, sponsored by the Student Activities Office, has already been set for the fall semester, Oct. 25, Western Style Dance, Sbis Hall, and Little Aggrieland Dance in Student Center; October 24-25, Aggie Rodeo, Bryan Arena; Nov. 1, Dance with NTSC Orchestra, Sbis Hall, and Stage Shows at Little Aggrieland (8 p. m.) and Guion Hall (7:30 p. m.) with NTSC Variety Troupe.

Also listed are: Nov. 10, Christopher Lynch on Town Hall; Nov. 22, Stage Show, Guion Hall; Nov. 26, Dance in Sbis Hall, and Pigskin Parade in Guion Hall, 6:30 p. m.; Dec. 5, Girls Choir, UT Glee Club at Little Aggrieland, 7:30 p. m.; Dec. 6, Girls Choir, UT Glee Club at Guion Hall, 7:30 p. m.; and Dec. 13, Stage Show, Guion Hall, 7:30 p. m.

Parnell Attending Feed Manufacturer Meet in Chicago

E. D. Parnell, professor of poultry husbandry, is now in Chicago attending a meeting of the Midwest Feed Manufacturers' Association being held there October 15-16. Professor Parnell is a member of the Southwest College Feed Survey Committee, an organization set up for the study, survey, and analysis of poultry feed feeds in the Southwest for the coming year.

The Mid-West Feed Manufacturers' Association holds two meetings annually which are attended by members of College Feed Survey Committees from all over the nation to compare and coordinate estimates of poultry production and poultry feeds needed to meet such production estimates.

Dr. J. H. Quisenberry, head of the poultry husbandry department, pointed out that Professor Parnell was sent to the Chicago meeting as an economic specialist; his work in this phase of the poultry husbandry department, in line with a plan now under way to make every member of the department a specialist in his particular field of poultry husbandry work.

Poultry feed manufacturers are anxious to accurately determine the annual poultry production, Dr. Quisenberry pointed out, because at least 60 per cent of all manufactured feeds goes into poultry feed production.

From the combined reports of the regional college feed survey committees, the Mid-West Feed Manufacturers' Association is able to determine whether or not to curtail or expand certain kinds of poultry feeds.
