Three Delegates to NSA Chosen by Student Senate

Bonfire Wood Secured, Donuts And Coffee for Guards, Says Penberthy

N. R. Leatherwood, E. C. Buntyn, and Joe Cullinan were chosen by the Student Senate to represent A&M at the regional meeting of the National Students Association scheduled for December in Dallas. The delegates were selected last night at the first session of the senate since its organizational meeting last month.

A committee was appointed to choose three additional men to complete the six-man delegation the school may send to the convention. It was recommended that these others be juniors in order that they will be on the delegation next year as experienced representatives.

The senate resolved to uphold the Battalion's editorial policy to discontinue the throwing of "aggie confetti" at yell practices and football games.

Other business discussed at the session were the support of debate, rifle and other teams representing the college by payments from the student welfare fund; the placing of permanent numbers on the dormitories; and more telephone booths on the campus. A sub-committee was created to investigate this latter condition.

Reports from committees included the Mess, Welcome, Hospital, and Exchange Store groups. The Hospital Committee has been studying the possibility of a college ambulance, and reported a favorable reception of the idea. Dean of Men W. L. Penberthy announced that an ambulance will be available for service in the near future.

Speaking to the members of the Senate, Penberthy made a brief report on the progress of the bonfire. He said that sufficient wood had been secured and will be brought in by the freshmen at the Annex as soon as possible. Provisions for the serving of donuts and coffee to the bonfire guards during their watches have been made, he added.

"There are improvements that can and should be made and it seems that this newly inaugurated Student Senate will be the medium to accomplish these things," Penberthy stated.

"Working with the student body and the members of this student government is one of the best jobs that I have," Penberthy told the senate, adding, "we have made much progress already this year but we have a lot more to do."

A&M Consolidated Employs Modern Teaching Methods

By JAMES A. HEATH

A special effort is being made at A. & M. Consolidated School to discover and develop hidden talents and interests among the students according to A. M. Whittis, school superintendent.

At the beginning of this school year the faculty adopted a number of measures that they hope to have accomplished by the end of the year. They hope to instill in their students the desire to become good citizens, as well as the knowledge of what constitutes a good citizen.

Reading, writing, arithmetic and spelling will be given more attention than in the past, but health and safety precautions will not be neglected. Special emphasis will be placed on music, arts and handicrafts. New courses have been added for choral music, chemistry, sheet metal, iron and foundry.

Every effort is being made to emphasize functional English, and visual education will be employed wherever possible as an aid to faster and better learning.

College Station X-Ray Survey To Begin by Zones, Nov. 22-26

A tuberculosis survey will be conducted in College Station on November 22, 24, 25, and 26, according to Dr. Jessie Whitacre. The unit will be set up in the music room of the A&M Consolidated School on the College Station community.

College Station has been divided into zones, and sponsors will help get the people out for the survey, Dr. Whitacre said. All persons in each zone are urged to come at the time listed. However, those persons who cannot come at the scheduled time should come at some other time of the survey period.

This survey is for the benefit of all people in the community. All people are urged to cooperate in every way possible to make the survey a success.

Students of A&M will be surveyed at a later time. The college has arranged to have the unit on the campus sometime in January.

Saturday morning, November 22 is set aside for residents of the campus and North Gate. This zone is sponsored by Mesdames Gibb Gilchrist, C. N. Shepatson, Garland Brown, and Paul Andrews.

Aggie Players To Give 'Driven Snow' Last Time Tonight

By FRANK KNEUFFER

"This play by any other name would smell," muttered one disgruntled member of the audience. "I understand that it is supposed to, but why must it do it with such feeling?"

"Pure As the Driven Snow," Paul Loomis's satire on the trials and tribulations of a working girl, satirizes all too realistically the corn presented to early twentieth century audiences. Not progress but change of taste accounts for the cool greeting which this "Driven Snow" piece received.

The first five minutes of vigorous gesturing and pathos-filled voices quickly satisfied all the accumulated appetite anyone might have worked up for corn. From the five-minute mark on, it cloyed.

All was not rotten in Denmark however. Jeanne Kerndle, one of the saving graces, seemed to feel that she was playing in a satire and played accordingly. Her grand gestures and her grandmother's clothing were downright clever.

Bill Krause jumped into his "Mortimer Frothingham" role with both feet. As a villain, he was villainous. Every performance he puts out has a zest as well as some understanding about it.

In and out through the play ran a thin line of humor which can be located by boiling down all the absurdity. Several amusing situations found their way to expression even if slightly absurd expression. One such situation was Bill Krause entry as a woman in the third act with his handkerchief mustache intact.

We have hesitated to write this review because it cannot be altogether happy and still be true, but we don't want to discourage the idea behind it. A&M needs even more activities of this sort providing the choice of plays can be improved.

Daughter of Coach Norton Operatic Production Ballerina

The opera "The Bartered Bride" was presented last Monday night in the Corpus Christi High School Auditorium with Mrs. Evelyn Norton Lee, daughter of Coach Homer H. Norton, as ballerina of the corps de ballet.

Mrs. Lee, who opened the Evelyn Lee School of Dancing this fall at the Civic Center in Corpus Christi, studied in the School of Ballet at Ward-Belmont, Nashville, Tennessee. Upon graduation, she trained with Muriel Stuart at the American School of Ballet, New York City, and with Louis Balcom at New York University Last Summer. Mrs. Lee studied in Chicago and joined the National Association of Dancing Masters.

She was named queen of the Saddle and Sirlin Rodeo in 1937 and Sweetheart of A&M at Texas University the same year. Her husband, Ed Lee, was cadet colonel in 1937, and captain of the basketball team, making all-conference. At present he is serving as sales manager of Fordice Company.

The opera, written by the Czechoslovakian composer Smetana, is the first opera of this type to be presented in Corpus Christi. The cast was headed by Marita Farrell, soprano with the Metropolitan Opera Company and like the composer, a native of Czechoslovakia. The Corpus Christi Symphony under C. Burdette Wolf, director, furnished the accompanying music.

Three ballet numbers were done by the corps under Mrs. Lee's direction: "Polka" with Mrs. Lee and Hyden Griffin as soloists; "Furiant" a waltz by Barbara Sanderson and Virginia Altgelt; and "Scene of the Strolling Players" or "Circus Scene," by the entire corps with Miss Sanderson and Miss Altgelt in the leading dancing roles.

Yantis Camps on Westminster Steps, Waiting for Wedding

By IVAN YANTIS
Battalion Correspondent
In London to cover the royal wedding

BULLETIN—LONDON, Nov. 20 (Spl.)—Princess Elizabeth, heiress presumptive to the British throne, and Philip Mountbatten, newly elevated Duke of Edinburgh, were married this morning in an impressive and colorful ceremony at Westminster Abbey. They returned to Buckingham Palace after saying their vows before the Archbishop of Canterbury.

LONDON, Nov. 20 (Spl.)—Last night, as I started down toward Westminster Abbey on a scouting mission, I noticed groups of people gathering with all their belongings. They could have come there for only one purpose—to get ahead of me to see the wedding.

Hastily I ran back to my hotel, gathered all the blankets I could find, a thermos bottle filled with canned heat, and an old army cot. Then I ran back to the Abbey. What I had mistaken for waiting crowds was a Salvation Army squad serenading one of Bacchus' legions who was at the time flapping with the curb for his pillow.

But I didn't feel in the mood to carry all that gear back to the hotel, so I set up light house-keeping next door to the Inebriated One. He was a fellow who felt so happy for the Princess that he has been making the rounds for the past week, drinking her health in any pub that would admit him.

Therefore I am ensconced and ready for the wedding to come off. While the Tippler holds my makeshift fort, I am running to get this filed. In tomorrow's paper you will have the results, batting averages, and errors of this glorified splicing.

Chamber of Commerce to Assist Formation of High School Band

The Board of Directors of the College Station Development Association voted Tuesday night to cooperate with the Kiwanis Club and Mothers and Dads Club in the formation of a high school band for A. & M. Consolidated.

Also considered was the possibility of securing mail delivery for the residential districts of College Station. In this respect the directors voted to write Congressman Olin E. Teague to investigate the matter.

The board voted unanimously to support the tuberculosis chest X-ray survey which will be conducted in College Station on November 22, 24, 25, and 26. Sieck reported. The X-ray unit will be returned to the campus in January to conduct surveys among A. & M. students.

Francis Vaughn, chairman of the traffic committee and assistant city manager, stated that new code of traffic regulations would be announced soon.
