

Brazos ROA Plans Observance Of Security Week, Feb. 12-22

Plans for Texas' first "Atomic Age" observance of National Security Week were announced today by Lt. Col. Sidney L. Loveless, president of the Brazos County Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association, sponsors of the traditional observance.

Loveless said the local observance, along with that throughout the nation and its territories and possessions, would be held February 12-22.

"For obvious reasons", Loveless said, "the matter of our nation's security under current world conditions is vastly more important than it has ever been before in peacetime. We hope that every organization and every individual citizen will make plans now to join with us in this tradition observance."

Loveless pointed out that the National Security Week aims have been expanded to meet the demands of the "Atomic Age" and is in keeping with the non-partisan aims of national leaders.

Loveless said that Major Wm. G. Breazeale was selected as general chairman for National Security Week.

"There will be a place in National Security Week of 1948 for every citizen," he said, "just as there is a responsibility every citizen has, particularly in this age, for the security of our nation and her traditional liberties."

The ROA has observed National Security Week, beginning with Lincoln's birthday and closing with Washington's birthday, each year since the passage of the National Defense Act in 1920. This will be the twenty-first annual observance, there having been no observances during the war years, 1941-1945.

Pearson Elected Chairman of A&M Chemical Society

Professor P. B. Pearson, head of the department of biochemistry and nutrition and dean of the Graduate School, has been elected chairman of the A&M Section of the American Chemical Society.

He succeeds Professor William M. Potts.

Bryant R. Holland of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station, was named chairman-elect and F. W. Jensen of the department of chemistry was chosen secretary.

Born in Oakley, Utah, in 1905, Pearson received the B. S. degree from Brigham Young University in 1928 and the Ph. D. degree from the University of Wisconsin in '37.

He served on the teaching staffs of Montana State College and the University of California before joining the A&M faculty in 1937.

A member of the National Research Committee on Animal Nutrition, Pearson is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a member of the American Chemical Society, the Biochemical Society of London, the American Institute of Nutrition, and the American Society of Biological Chemists.

Chartered in 1939, the A&M Section comprises chemists and chemical engineers of Brazos County.

D. H. Team Places Second in Contest

announcer. Then, in March, 1947, he assumed the duties of assistant sports director working with Dick Gottlieb who was sports director at the time.

Since then Frenkel has participated in almost every sporting event covered by the local American Broadcasting Company outlet and is largely responsible for the full sports coverage that Aggies enjoy from their home station.

Sports are not the Tyler man's only campus activity, however. He is president of the Aggie Players and has participated in every production presented by that group since last fall. Currently, he is busy working with the actors on the play, "Hedda Gabler."

A geology major, Frenkel is active in the geology club. He has also done much work with the A. & M. chapter of the Hillel Foundation.

At present the sportscaster is busy working on his weekly broadcasts of the basketball games from DeWare Field House. He hopes to be able to broadcast all the remaining home games on both WTAW and its FM affiliate, KAMT, which operates from the same studio.

Future plans of the new sports director add up to complete coverage of all sporting events for the people of the 25 counties served by the radio station. Plans, now complete, call for play by play accounts of all the home baseball games and, if arrangements can be made, some of the more important out of town contests. This fall Frenkel wants to broadcast all the home games of the Aggie freshman football team.

Through this schedule of complete sports coverage with interviews of the leading sporting personalities in the Southwest, Frenkel hopes to do much to further the cause of A&M in the state and the nation.

There are approximately 35,000 dealers who sell and service the products of the American automotive industry.

PRODUCTION.....

Here's the word that will be synonymous with progress during the year 1948, no matter what your point of view. The crying need of the world for more goods and foods can be met only by production. The answer to the threat of inflation can be met only by more production. And production in the quantities that will be required can be achieved only through teamwork—teamwork that starts right here on the A. & M. Campus. Your position on the team is that of preparation—for tomorrow you become the producer. Let's work together in our preparation for the future.
