council provides teachers for the religious classes.

The organization is made up of representatives of the Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths. It contended the materials used in religious instruction were non-sectarian because they were collected from many sources by many persons.

Mrs. McCollum, wife of a University of Illinois professor and mother of three children, complained that her oldest son, James Terry, 12, was "embarrassed" being the only child in his school room who did not take religious instruction.

She asked the courts to stop the whole thing. That is what the Supreme Court's decision means: the Illinois authorities must do.

Veterinary Magazine Okayed By Student Life Committee

By CHARLIE MURRAY

Publication of a semi-monthly magazine for students in the School of Veterinary Medicine was approved and commended by members of the Student Life Committee yesterday afternoon.

The first issue of the magazine, will be published in May.

Upon the recommendation of Dr. R. C. Dunn, veterinary medicine dean, and approved by Roland Bing, manager of student publications. The magazine will serve as a guide for

There are only a few veterinary magazines being published in the U.S. now, it was pointed out.

The Student Life Committee also approved the granting of $5,552 of Exchange Store profits for the erection of a "shell" construction at the Grove.

This amount will be supplemented with $4,000 of concessions profits and $5,842 of an already existing fund to erect the shell, similar to that pictured in the '47 Longhorn.

Total cost of the shell was estimated at $15,000. It will consist of a stage large enough to present plays, two rest-rooms (dressing rooms), a projection booth, concessions stand, and ticket booth.

The request submitted by the six student managers of apartments to receive the Guion Hall pass privilege was disapproved.

It was felt that the privilege was intended for those students who were faced with the greatest responsibility in their extracurricular jobs.

A four-man publications awards committee was appointed to assist Bing in selecting members of the publications' staffs worthy of receiving awards.

With Bing as chairman, the committee will consist of C. G. "Spike" White, director of student activities;

Bill Brown, cadet colonel of the corps; Cotton Howell; and W. L. Penberthy, dean of men.

Two men, Billy Vaughn, corps executive officer, and Cliff Harris, corps chaplain, were appointed to serve on the Library committee to fill positions left vacant by mid-term graduates.

A student activities point system committee was also appointed to check into the present system. Composing the committee are White, Grady Elms, assistant director of student activities; Bing; Lt. Col. Joe Davis, representing the military department; Jimmie Nelson, Battalion editor; Elmo Livingston, Senior Class president; and Bill Brown.

Regulations governing the dorm lounges as proposed by a subcommittee were approved by the Student Life Committee.
