

JESTER, GILCHRIST AT BAYLOR CEREMONY

WACO, April 14.—(AP)—Dr. William Richardson White, inaugurated as ninth president of Baylor University, yesterday announced plans for enlarging the institution and for re-emphasizing religion in education.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, former president of the California Institute of Technology and Nobel Prize winner in physics, was a guest speaker at the inauguration.

Governor Beauford Jester was here as head of a delegation representing the state. Dr. Gibb Gilchrist, president of Texas A&M, was at the inaugural ceremonies in behalf of the 100 colleges and universities represented by official delegates.

LE TOURNEAU DEDICATES FACTORY AND SCHOOL

LONGVIEW, April 14.—(AP)—The need for combining academic education with practical work was reiterated here yesterday by R. G. LeTourneau, manufacturer of heavy earthmoving equipment, as he dedicated his Texas plant.

LeTourneau Technical Institute at Longview, which is operated in conjunction with the big $5,000,000 factory, is one of America's pioneers in this theory. Its students study academic subjects during half of each day here and work half a day in the plant in pursuit of their course objectives.

NO NEGROES ENROLLED AT SMU, SAYS HAWK

DALLAS, April 14.—(AP)—There are no Negroes enrolled at SMU, Dr. Eugene B. Hawk, administrative vice president of the school said Monday.

He commented on a statement made at Austin by Dr. George D. Kelsey, Negro director of the School of Religion at Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., that SMU had admitted about eight negro students to its school of religion and one to its school of engineering.

"For about two years we have been conducting separate afternoon classes in the school of theology for negroes. These negroes are not enrolled in SMU, they pay no fees, they get no college credits. Our instructors handle these classes outside their regular schedule," said Hawk.

B-29 FLEET FLIES OCEAN TO GERMANY

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass., April 14.—(AP)—One of the mightiest fleets of U. S. Air Force bombers ever sent overseas took off yesterday for Germany—possibly other stops abroad.

While officials here said the number of B-29's was "classified" information, it was learned that about 30 Super-Forts make up the fleet attached to the 15th Airforce.

Regional AIEE Meet Begins Here April 19

The A&M chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will be host to representatives of the national institute at a regional meeting on the campus, Monday and Tuesday, April 19 and 20.

Announcing the meet, local counselor Norman F. Rode said there would be delegations and faculty representatives from 14 colleges and universities here for the meet.

Included in the schools sending groups are Arkansas University, Kansas State College, University of Kansas, Missouri School of Mines, University of Missouri, New Mexico State College, University of New Mexico, Oklahoma A&M, Oklahoma University, Rice, SMU, Texas Tech, University of Texas and Washington University.

W. W. Ward, chairman of the local branch of the AIEE, gave an outline of the two-day program. Monday morning, head of the A&M electrical engineering department M. C. Hughes will open the session with the welcoming address. The remainder of the day will be devoted to the reading of technical papers by visiting delegates.

Monday night there will be a barbecue and program at the Bryan City Park for the delegates, accompanying faculty members, and their wives will be entertained by the local department's faculty and wives in the YMCA.

Tuesday morning there will be a continuation of the technical paper presentation and at noon Tuesday a luncheon for the institute's branch chairman and other visitors will be held at the Aggeland Inn as well as a luncheon in Sbis Hall.

Tuesday afternoon the entire party will inspect the labs and buildings of the college. At 7 p. m. Professor J. Wheeler Barger, of the agricultural economics department, will speak on "Industry and Agriculture."

Among the regional AIEE officers attending the meet are R. F. Danner, vice-president and general superintendent of Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company, W. B. Stephenson of Southwestern Bell Telephone of Oklahoma City, and Professor J. S. Brown of the University of Arkansas.

Rode stated that each of the colleges was sending from five to twenty delegates as well as their faculty sponsors and that this attendance and the type papers to be presented should result in highly successful sessions.

Architects Will Become Associates Of Dallas AIA

Forty members of the Architectural Society attended a banquet and business meeting of the Dallas Chapter of the American Institute of Architects last night, Pat Spillman, president of the Architecture Society, announced this morning.

The purpose of the meeting was to complete plans for the sponsorship of the Dallas Chapter of the AIA. Until the present time, student architects have not been affiliated with any national group, but plans have now been completed which permit members of the Architectural Society to become student associate members of the Dallas Chapter.

All members of the Society are eligible for membership and will be required to fill out applications and pay dues.

Negotiations for becoming student associates was started last year by Al Peury, former president of the Society. Pat Spillman completed the plans this semester. Herbert Tatum, President of the Dallas Chapter of the AIA, conducted the meeting and introduced the student architects to the members.

Following the business meeting, a round table discussion, "The Professional Architect and the Graduate Student," was led by Frank Bryan, Dallas architect. Langford opened the discussion by telling what the student learns under the present curriculum at A&M.

Units of the Fourth Regiment which will participate are the A and B Engineers; A Composite, consisting of the Signal Corps, ASA; B Composite, made up of Transportation and Quartermaster; and C Composite, composed of Ordnance and Chemical.

Colonel Adcock will be the reviewing officer.

US Must Act As Arbitrator Of World Peace, Says Chevalier

"We have got to take over as the arbitrator of world peace," Col. Willard Chevalier told Kiwanis Club members and guests at the Tuesday luncheon meeting in Sbis Hall.

"From 1815 to 1914 England was the arbitrator of the peace of the world. We developed during that period, England today is no longer able to maintain that peace. We must be willing to foot the bill of our foreign policy," he said.

Col. Chevalier, vice-president of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company of New York, was brought to A&M to talk before the Great Issues class. He was introduced by Dean H. W. Barlow of the School of Engineering.

"There is an old saying that it is time our country had a foreign policy. If we are going to have a foreign policy we must have a national policy that is devoid of politics. Our representatives abroad should know that they have the backing of the people back home."

"The Russian problem is a three fold problem," he said. "First it is the communistic ideology versus the capitalistic ideology. I do not think there should be conflict along these lines. I don't think there should be war over such an issue."

"Second, it is the technique employed by the totalitarian state that disturbs the United States. It also has its impact on the Russian people. There is the technique of infiltration, of using the minorities in other nations to undermine the national well being. The Czechs, the Poles and the Hungarians conquered their own countries.

"If Italy falls to Russian technicians it will be because Italians themselves fell for it," he pointed out.

"Third is the matter of Russian imperialistic expansion policy. As long as I have been reading history it has been the policy of Russia to expand toward the warm waters of the Mediterranean," he said.

"The speaker said that the United States 'must not become isolated. We must have friends like Britain, the longest-time defender of democracy on earth. We have got to strengthen our friends, so that they may keep alive the spark of democratic liberty. We can't afford to be unduly critical of our friends.'"
