

Frost Takes Over New Job

By TFX PASLEY
Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—Another Texan is taking over a big job here. S. L. Frost of Bryan is about to become executive director of the American Forestry Association.

Only 38, he'll be the youngest man to hold that office since the association was organized 73 years ago.

Born and reared in Connecticut, Frost went west soon after finishing Yale. He's been 13 years with the Texas Forest Service.

A staff of 30 is ready for him when he takes command here July 1.

Founded in 1875, the American Forestry Association has as its primary purpose the conservation and development of American forests and related resources of soil, water and wildlife.

Some 24,000 persons and groups have membership in the organization, about 65 percent of whom are lay individuals with purely personal interests in forest. The remaining 35 percent are those with a professional interest in preserving one of the nation's principal resources.

The organization occupies a 4-story building near the center of downtown Washington, next to the Army-Navy Club. Standing on a small grass plot between the sidewalk and the building entrance is a cross section of a giant California redwood log. It is from a tree which was 230 feet high and 800 years old when cut in 1936. The tree was 79 years old when the Magna Charta was signed and 356 years old when Columbus discovered America.

Two Texans are on the board of directors of the association. They are E. L. Kurth of Lufkin, and O. D. (Dooley) Dawson, Houston banker.

Dewey Receives Nomination In Rolling Bandwagon Finish

By C. J. CAMERON

Amid the cheers and applause of 1094 weary delegates Governor Thomas E. Dewey stepped to the speakers platform of Philadelphia's Convention Hall last night to formally accept the Republican presidential nomination.

Dewey thus became the first man ever to receive a second nomination for the presidency from the Republican party after having failed to gain that office in a previous election. In 1944 he rolled up a total of 22,066,278 votes to come within 3,596,227 votes of the fourth term winner, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

After taking a good lead on the first ballot, showing a marked gain on the second and then coming through on the third ballot driving the victory bandwagon, Dewey showed that the vast majority of Republican voters were solidly behind him.

In his acceptance speech, Dewey thanked the delegates for the trust they had put in him and said that he accepted the nomination "in all humility." He expressed his appreciation to his opponents and commented that never before had so many well qualified men campaigned for the Republican nomination.

Dewey first gained fame as a racket-busting attorney in New York City. Later he became a prominent contender in the 1940 Republican convention which nominated Wendell Willkie. In 1942 he became the first Republican governor of New York in two decades. After his defeat in the 1944 presidential campaign, Dewey returned to New York and began laying the groundwork for 1948.

The thoroughness of his preparations paid off last night and from the activity of the delegates and the audience the Republicans are glad that he did return to try again.

-DRAFT-

in five counties if each county is represented by a member on the board.

The draft bill had been passed by Congress in its hectic last-day rush Saturday. It had to be signed by Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg (Rep.) of Michigan and House Speaker Joseph Martin (Rep.) of Massachusetts before going to the President.

They were both in Philadelphia, Pa., attending the Republican National Convention. The bill followed them there, where they signed it.

It reached the White House late Wednesday. Before signing it, Mr. Truman conferred with Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal and Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall.

In light of the last-minute rush to join the National Guard or an organized military reserve unit and thus avoid induction into the regular army, the question of timing became important. The law provided that those who were members of such organizations at the time the President signed the bill would be exempt.

While no formal opinion had been handed down Thursday night, it was the consensus of legal advisers to Defense Secretary Forrestal that the law became effective at midnight. Thus enlistments in civilian components up to that time (presumably Washington Daylight Saving Time—10 p.m. Dallas Time) would be exempt.

New Legislation May Strengthen Reserve Corps

By DUDLEY BURRIS

With the passage of new legislation by the present congress, the Reserve Corps is expected to soon become one of the strongest components of the Army.

The new legislation permits the reservists to be exempt from the draft if they are active; to receive inactive duty pay for their two hour armory meeting, and to retire at the age of 60 on a percentage basis of their past service.

All types of training are to be offered, for periods of from two to 90 days and in sites selected by the reservists. Until this time any one wanting training in their special field could get this training only by taking refresher courses in his particular arm or service.

Now the army has initiated a special course system whereby the various arms and services will bring their courses to the organized reservists.

Until this time, Reserve officers and enlisted men have volunteered their time and service to keep themselves informed and refreshed on all military matters. The inactive duty training program which has been offered to Reservists has not been of the best due to lack of training facilities, training aids, and a scarcity of good instructors. But, even with this handicap, many reserve units throughout Texas have joined in to the armory training program and in most cases have held the interest and attention of all participants.
