gests that they acquire a new gag writer.

The plot in this cinematic endeavour is of little consequence. There is some sort of story that is secondary to the crudely comic antics of this hammy duo. Therefore, I shall not bore the sensitive ears of the readers with the gruesome details.

There is positively nothing outstanding about this flicker. One can only say that it is typically Abbot and Costello.

The only redeeming feature of the entire program at the Queen is the extremely humorous cartoon. The Tom and Jerry offering is one of the best yet.

"The Noose Hangs High" is recommended as family entertainment.

"Raw Deal" (Eagle-Lion), starring Dennis O'Keefe, Claire Trevor and Marsha Hunt. An Edward Small Production, Palace Theatre, Bryan.

Edward Small again lives up to his reputation as a better than average producer in the current offering at the Palace Theatre. Using an old and overdone Hollywood plot, he weaves it into an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

The plot deals with the efforts of an escaped convict (Dennis O'Keefe) to even things with the gang leader who put him "up the river" for a slight vacation. On the other hand, the gang leader strives to liquidate O'Keefe, the only one who can spill the proverbial beans.

The love interest is supplied by two very attractive partners in crime, Claire Trevor and Marsha Hunt. The story drags on to a blazing, but tragic ending which might not appeal to the more sentimental fans in the audience.

Small makes excellent use of somber photography to further create the elements of suspense and danger.

On the whole, it is an enjoyable thriller, well acted by a convincing cast. Your reviewer recommends it as adult entertainment.

Graduate Seniors Have Until July 15 To Apply for Exam

Graduating seniors who plan to do work toward advanced degrees have until July 15 to register for the graduate examination to be given August 2 and 3, C. H. Bernard, a member of the examining committee, announced today.

The examination, which consists of two four-hour periods, is a series of objective tests in eight basic fields of the undergraduate curricula plus an advanced test in the student's major subject.

Bernard is to handle the details of the examination this summer in the absence of Dr. W. A. Varvel. Registration will be in Room 24 of the Physics building.

The examinations are prepared and scored by the Graduate Records Office in New York and are given four times yearly. Reports of test results are furnished the student and the school he intends to enter.

A fee of $5 is charged the student and is to be paid at the time of taking the examination.
