

State School Administrators' Conference Will Begin Monday

The Twelfth Annual Texas School Administrators Conference, sponsored by the Education and Psychology Department, will be held on the A&M campus Monday through noon Wednesday.

Joe Humphries, first vice-president of the State Teachers' Association, will speak on "Needed Legislation in Texas." Executive Secretary B. B. Cobb, will lead discussion on the subject. Other discussion leaders are H. L. Foster, president of the Texas Association of School Administrators and R. E. Harris of the Lockhart County Superintendents and Supervisors Association.

H. F. Alves, Office of Education, Washington, D. C., will speak on "State Educational Reorganization: Patterns of Successful Programs."

Terrell Ogg, superintendent of Freepoint Schools, is president of the conference and B. B. Wilcox, head of Education and Psychology at A&M, is secretary.

Mrs. J. H. Moore of Depert, president of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, will speak on "What Parents Want for their Children from the School."

N. E. Viles, U. S. Office of Education, Washington, D. C., will lead the discussion on "Programs for Training School Custodians."

State Senator James Taylor of Kerens, Texas, will discuss the "Proposed Reorganization Program for Texas." A dinner will be held Tuesday evening at 7. Tickets may be purchased at time of registration for $2.

Registration for rooms will be conducted in the lobby of the YMCA from 8 a. m. until 2:30 p. m. Monday. Late arrivals should apply at the desk of the Aggield Inn for room assignments. Unless otherwise announced, all meetings of the conference will be held in the YMCA chapel.

Sleeping quarters for men will be located in Walton Hall and Dormitory 15.

More than 300 are expected to attend with leading educators of the United States on the program.

A highlight of the meeting will be the premiere of the technicolor film, "Building for Learning." The film, produced by the Architecture Department and the School of Engineering, A&M, is the only one of its kind ever filmed and ready for showing.

The United States' first commercial chewing gum was resin from spruce, cherry, sweet gum and tamarack trees.

Hierth to Conduct Panel Discussion

H. E. Hierth of the English Department will conduct the regular Panel and Discussion Club on the topic of "The Texas A&M Research Foundation" at 4 p. m. Monday over Radio Station WTAW.

The discussion will be carried on by James Hoy, Clyde Wilson, and B. V. Thornton.

9 Cadets Training At Summer ROTC Camp in Maryland

Nine students are representing A&M at the Ordnance ROTC summer camp now in session at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, under the command of Brigadier General Elbert L. Ford, commanding general of the Proving Ground and Lt. Col. Frank R. Swoger, executive officer of the camp.

The A&M cadets are James H. Berry Jr., Joy G. Carroll, Emory P. Curry, Harry T. Hamwell, Wayne B. McLaughlin, Leslie L. Powers, David E. Sheffield, Forrest M. Sparks, and Albert M. Vincent.

The training program features practical application of the theories learned in the college ROTC courses. This practical application includes, as a highlight, three weeks of actual proofing and testing of Ordnance equipment at the Development and Proof Service division of the Proving Ground.

In addition to the Ordnance training, the cadets are participating in scheduled organized athletics during a part of the day and eliminating their evening social activities with three formal dances during the six weeks period.

The cadets undergoing this training, who upon the satisfactory completion of summer camp and a total of two years of advanced ROTC college instruction, will be eligible for commissions as second lieutenants in the ORC.

Aggies at Aberdeen Inspect Arsenal, Armories, Cities

By MORGAN VINCENT
Camp is well under way here at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds and all Aggies are well into the routine of camp life.

The first three weeks were taken up with orientation and field trips with several Aggies having leading roles in camp administration. The first week found David Sheffield and Wayne McLaughlin on the battalion staff and Jim Berry as the hard-working First Sergeant of Company A.

The third week opened with Leslie Powers as battalion commander, Morgan Vincent as company commander of Company A, and Preston Curry as one of the platoon leaders.

One of three field trips made was to Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, where the huge Letterkenny Ordnance Depot is located. Here the group saw the latest methods in army storage and maintenance.

Another trip was to nearby Edgewood Arsenal where a tour of the chemical corps post was made and chemical warfare techniques demonstrated. The third was to Frankford Arsenal near Philadelphia. Here the group saw one of the largest ammunition manufacturing establishments in the nation and a complete inspection tour was made of the many different shops.

At camp Aggies have learned to pilot two and a half ton trucks over driving ranges that might well be called truck commando courses.

One of the highlights of the day was an impromptu cross-field chase between Jim Berry and Forrest Sparks in a couple of trucks—there were no court-martials or sunrise executions.

Two more days were put in on the firing range where everyone fired familiarization with the M1 and the 50 caliber machine gun and then qualified with the carbine on the 100 and 200 yard ranges. All Aggies qualified, with two making expert.

Another day was spent on one of the tank courses driving tanks of all classes. Though no broken bones were reported, some Aggies were wondering if maybe a little too much is expected of a tank—after all, they weren't designed to fly.

A tour of the one hundred square miles of the Aberdeen Proving Grounds brought out countless points of interest to approximately 250 cadets from all over the country. They have been broken up into their own school groups and for the last three weeks will approach twenty-five different problems.

One of the problems presented the Aggies was to study the effects of sub-zero weather upon ammunition. After donning heavy fleecy-lined clothes and going to work in the cold room, the Aggies found a quick appreciation for warm sunshine as the experiment called for test firing a 105 howitzer at 20 degrees below zero.

The Aggies are progressing well in the athletic program so far, being undefeated in one volleyball game and two softball games. The program here has been set up as strictly elimination play, with one loss the school is finished in that sport.

The Aggies have terminated all athletic aspirations of Oklahoma A&M in both volleyball and softball and came from behind in the last inning to stop Clemson 7-6 in the second softball game.

With the weeks passing by the Aggies are having troubles with a cramped bilfold situation but are doing their best to keep it from slowing them down. The major cities have been visited regularly, and everyone attended the Washington Aggie party and midnight yell practice at the Roosevelt Hotel and contributed much toward shocking a quiet and slumbering Washington.

Albany, Ga., July 23 (AP) First Lieutenant John R. Gaddis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Gaddis of Fort Worth and graduate of A&M was killed Wednesday night when his army pursuit plane crashed near Dothan, Alabama.

The plane's engine failed and it crashed in an attempted emergency landing.

54 Reserve Army Officers Apply For Active Duty

Applications from 54 Reserve Officers desiring three years extended active duty with the Army have been received during the last week, the office of the senior instructor of the Organized Reserves in Austin announced today.

Even with this rapid increase of applications, Colonel Oscar B. Abbott, Senior Instructor, said that the Army is still in need of officers to initiate the expansion program of the various posts, camps, and stations throughout the United States. He stated that especially anti-aircraft officers are needed at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Colonel Abbott also announced that all regular army non-commissioned officers who hold a reserve commission have been advised that the Army desires that they state whether or not they choose to return to their former officer status and go on extended duty as such or remain in their present non-commissioned officer status.

Without doubt, many of the present regular army non-commissioned officers that are stationed in Texas will take advantage of this new regulation, Colonel Abbott said.
