GOP LEADERS PREDICT TWO-WEEK SPECIAL SESSION

WASHINGTON, July 28 —(AP)—House Republicans predicted after a meeting of their policy committee Tuesday that the present session of Congress will end in about two weeks. While speaker Martin (R-Mass.) chairman of the committee, withheld comment until a later meeting with Senate leaders, House members said the policy group is "in general agreement" that Congress can go home perhaps late next week or the week after. That would leave little time, they conceded, for action on President Truman's anti-inflation program.

Rhapsody In Blue To Be Heard On Symphony Hour

Music in a lighter vein will be heard on the "Symphony on Wax" hour tomorrow evening at six. Two compositions by George Gershwin, Rhapsody In Blue and An American In Paris, are scheduled to be played. The Rhapsody began as a purpose, not a plan. Jazz, the critics said, had to be in strict time and had to cling to dance rhythms. Gershwin resolved to kill that misconception with one sturdy blow. It was during a train ride to Boston, with its steady rhythms and rattles, that Gershwin suddenly heard—and even say on paper—the complete construction of the Rhapsody as a sort of musical kaleidoscope of America.

A&M Graduates Monopolize Ag Field, Cotton Tourist Decides

"A&M graduates have a monopoly on agriculture, or so it seems," says Dr. Luther H. Jones, Agronomy Department, in a review of the annual Cotton Study Tour from which he has recently returned. "Regardless of where we were, there were former A&M men successfully engaged in agriculture, business, and even politics." "Some of the men that we met and who extended the old Aggie brand of courtesy were Percy Lee Bell, '43, manager of the largest cotton plantation visited by the group; Francis Leo Gerdes, '28, chief cotton technologist for the Delta Branch Extension Service in Stoneville, Miss.; Dr. M. E. Sturges, '25, head of Agronomy at Louisiana State University; and Percy Redfern, '38, member of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange. "In Washington, D. C., we were met by Representative Olin

New Associate At Methodist Church Trained Football Team

Rev. Ferris Baker, new associate pastor of the A&M Methodist Church, was the trainer of the SMU football team for two years. Baker, a slim, brown-haired man, says that he has a new outlook from that he had on his previous visits here. He says the people are some of the most hospitable he has ever met. "Having the fortune, or misfortune, to work his way through college, Baker was manager of the basketball team and director of housing for the athletic dormitory. His interest in sports dates back to a letter in track from Central College in Fayette, Missouri, where he graduated with an A.B. degree in 1943.

Rev. Ferris Baker, new associate pastor of the A&M Methodist Church will assume his duties here in September.

Seemingly non-compatible with his sports interests are his ability to play a violin and to sing in choral groups and the men's chapel quartet at SMU. Baker hails from the corn-hill country of the Missouri hills around Cainsville, where he says his main interests were "crawdad-in, swimming, and fishing." Giving up these activities, he attended high school in Blytheedale, Missouri, before going to Central College, where he preached part time in the DeWitt circuit. Graduating from Central in 1943, he entered SMU where he sang in the glee club, worked in the chapel and the theological committees, played basketball and football, and acted as librarian for the circulating library.

He graduated from SMU with a B.D. degree in 1944 and began working on his master's while teaching Old and New Testament literature and history. Baker met his wife, the former Marian Jane Laird, in the dean's office at SMU where she was a secretary. Mrs. Baker graduated from SMU in sociology in 1944 and was a resident of Dallas.

Ex-Student Opens Insurance Office

Bill Mitchell, a graduate of the class of '42, has returned to A&M to occupy an office in the Casey Sparks Building above the Aggeland Pharmacy. Monday morning at 8 he will begin as an agent for The State Farm Life Insurance Co. As their agent, he will sell fire, life, and automobile policies. Mitchell lettered in track while at A&M, his specialty being hurdles. After he received his degree in Rural Sociology in '42, he accepted his commission and went on active duty with the army. He served with the 88th Infantry Division as a Field Artillery officer, receiving the Bronze Star and the Air Medal with six clusters. After the war, he went with his division to Korea to serve in the Army of Occupation. He was Assistant Director of Information and Education, with the rank of first lieutenant. Mitchell will be at his office daily from eight to five, and he invites all Aggies to bring their insurance problems to him.

"Tiger" Teague, '32, who personally conducted us on a tour of the Capitol. At Ames, Iowa, we encountered three former Aggies—Frank Bortle, '31; "Red" Thompson, '35; and Dr. Charles E. Friley, '19, now president of Iowa State College. "Dr. Friley, while a student at A&M in '17 and '18, became the first registrar. Later he was appointed the first Dean of Arts and Sciences, and initiated the grade point system." On the itinerary for the Cotton Study Tour were visits to state colleges, experiment stations, cotton exchanges, and mills as well as side trips to points of interest such as Niagara Falls, the Naval Academy at Annapolis, the Bowers in New York, and others.

"One of the high-points of the trip," continues Dr. Jones, "was the honor paid us by the porters and elevator girls of the Jung Hotel in New Orleans when they turned out in special formation to welcome us. They were repaid in the A&M manner for this honor." Virgil Caraway, L. E. Crane, Wallace Hackler, and Arnold Nowotny accompanied Dr. Jones on the tour which is sponsored by the Agronomy Society and paid for by the proceeds from the annual Cotton Pageant.

high humor combined to make it my favorite movie." In the opinion of Ray E. Dittmar, senior electrical engineering major from New Braunfels, "GONE WITH THE WIND is the best movie of all time. "I am interested in American history," says Dittmar, "and this epic depicting the changes in the southern way of life wrought by the Civil War is a moving story. The transition from book to picture is good." An agricultural education major from Sealey, Texas, Joe E. Burtschell, favors "The Jolson Story. "This show is a good life story of my favorite singer. I like Jolson's voice. I saw the show four times." Snow White and the Seven

Snow White is strictly entertainment." "The movie I enjoyed most?" HENRY V, says Ivan Nevill of Houston, an M. E. major. "Historical pictures are best. Farm Safety Week Proclaimed To Curb Accidental Injuries

President Truman and Governor Jester have proclaimed the week beginning July 25 as National and Texas Farm Safety Week in order to lessen the large number of disabling accidents occurring on American farms. The immediate goal of National Farm Safety Week is to eliminate 30 million hazards which exist on the farms throughout the United States. Farmers can make their farms much safer by accepting personal responsibility for the elimination of one farm hazard per farm resident during this week. The long range purpose of National Farm Safety Week is to make every American farm and every American farm resident as safe as possible, to cut the annual toll of needless deaths and injuries to an irreducible minimum, and to make farm life a safer, happier and more prosperous way of life.

The use of identification card for A&M students will be discussed by the Student Senate at tonight in the Assembly Room of the YMCA. All members of the Senate were asked by N. R. Humoresque To Show At Grove

"Humoresque" starring John Garfield and Joan Crawford, will be shown at the Grove tomorrow night. No admission charge will be made for this show. Past records show that unless extra precautions are taken, one out of every four farms will be the scene of a disabling injury to a farm resident in the next 12 months. They also show that accidents, on the average, will kill 11 farm residents every day unless these extra precautions are taken. Except in rare cases, the safety measures the farmers are asked to take are not costly. In fact, many times it has proved to be more costly not to have them. To advise the farmers on what type precautions can be taken are the following ten tips for farm safety.

1. Never grease, oil, unclog or adjust a machine that is in gear.
 2. Keep tools in a safe place.
 3. Don't wear floppy clothing that can catch in machinery.
 4. Keep ladders and stairways in good repair.
 5. Apply first aid promptly, even to minor injuries.
 6. Don't smoke around the barn.
 7. Keep all safety devices in place.
 8. Be careful not to startle animals.
 9. Use a staff when leading a bull.
 10. Teach others safe practices.
- A survey made for the meeting of the Texas State Farm Safety Committee last year showed that agriculture ranked third among industries in the number of people per thousand workers killed each year by accident. Of course it is true that some industry has to rank first, second, and third in the number of accidents, but if the members of each industry continue to strive for last place the total number of accidents will rapidly decrease.
