CALIFORNIA FIRE UNDER CONTROL

SANTA ANA, Calif., Nov. 12-(P)-Weary crews, ending a week long battle, Thursday brought un-der control a brush blaze which burned over 47,000 acres in the Santa Ana mountains east of here. Supervisor Hamilton Pyles of the Cleveland National forest said however, large crews would be re-quired for several days to fore-stall any possible revival.

A new blaze in woods canyon, behind the artists colony of Laguna Beach, also was reported controlled by E. F. Austerman, asso-ciate state ranger. He estimated the burn at approximately 300 acres.

Residents returned, meanwhile, to Silverado and Modjeska Canyons 10 miles southeast of Los Angeles, from which they were evacuated Monday during the height of the
