George C. Willman, Jr. has been cast in the role of Oscar Hubbard, Countess Jones will appear as Alexandria Giddens, and Robert Swinney will portray Leo Hubbard.

Willman has much experience prior to joining the Aggie Players, for he participated in all of the school plays which were presented while he attended Smithville High School.

Willman is now doing graduate work on his master's—having received his BS degree in economics from A&M in June, 1948.

'49 Fat Stock Show
Officials Named

Ted Martin, F. Z. Beamblossom, and E. D. Parnell, have been appointed division superintendents in charge of poultry at the 1949 Houston Fat Stock Show.

Commenting on the present period of postwar uncertainty, Swing has said, "It is an odd fact that conditions change more quickly than ideas, and we are in the precarious position of teetering on the brink of the dangerous folly of trying to live by truths of 1919 in 1948. The trouble is we are not living in a 1919 world. The world of Wilson is gone, and a new one is upon us."

Active in reporting on world affairs since before the first war, Swing served as a foreign correspondent for 13 years.

Born in Cortland, New York, Swing attended Oberlin College and Conservatory of Music. He entered journalism at the age of 19 as a reporter on the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In 1934, he became a member of the board of editors of The Nation. That year also saw him turn to radio as a career, a career in which he received international acclaim.

His is the first radio commentator to have won both of the "Oscars" of that profession, the Dupont and Peabody Awards. During the war he broadcast over NBC to the British Empire and shortwaved to Latin America.

Swing's talk, the second program on this year's Bryan Artists Series, will start at 8 p. m. Season tickets for the series are $6 for adults and $3.60 for students and students' wives.
