

MASONIC BODIES MEET IN WACO

WACO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The annual meeting of Masonic Bodies of State of Texas opened here yesterday.

The grand chapter and grand council are holding sessions today. Wednesday morning grand master Horace K. Jackson of Gatesville will open the 113th grand communication of the Grand Lodge of Texas.

Grand High Priest Curtis B. Hay of Dallas opened the 99th annual convocation.

JAP LEADERS APPEAL TO US SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Two wartime Japanese leaders, condemned to hang as war criminals, asked the United States Supreme Court today to save their lives.

Petitions for court reviews of their sentences were filed on behalf of General Kenji Dohihara, known as "The Lawrence of Manchuria," and Koki Hirota, former premier. No appeals were filed on behalf of Hideki Tojo and four other Japanese leaders who also were sentenced to be executed.

American attorneys for Dohihara and Hirota questioned in the petitions the legality of the trials conducted by an international military tribunal. They asked that the executions be stayed, that hearings be held before the high tribunal here, and that the Japanese then be released.

FRANKLIN COLLEGE USES 'NUDE' METHODS

FRANKLIN, Ind., Nov. 24.—(AP)—A minister from neighboring Brown County claimed today a Franklin College fraternity marched its 20 pledges naked around the girls' dormitory several nights ago. He said he will demand prosecution.

The Rev. John Boyer, pastor of the Baptist Church at Helmsburg, said he would ask the Johnson County prosecutor to charge the fraternity members with public indecency.

The minister said the upperclassmen marched two-deep around the nude pledges in the frosty night air and spectators crowded the dormitory windows. He declared the group disappeared before police arrived.

GENERALISSIMO'S WIFE DISTINGUISHED GUEST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The State Department announced yesterday that Mrs. Chiang Kai-Shek will be received as a distinguished guest upon her arrival from China.

President Truman's former personal plane the sacred cow—its being dispatched to bring her from San Francisco to Washington. She is due to arrive here at 9 a. m. Wednesday.

The generalissimo's wife has been invited to be the House guest of Secretary of State and Mrs. Marshall. She has indicated she will accept. Marshall's home is at nearby Leesburg, Va.

Diplomatic authorities look for Mrs. Chiang to make an urgent plea for new American aid to China.

'VIGOROUS' PROGRAM PLANNED FOR EUROPE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—President Truman and top foreign affairs advisers yesterday talked over what one called a "vigorous" European recovery program for next year.

Those taking part in a 45 minute conference at the White House with Mr. Truman were Secretary of State Marshall, W. Averell Harriman, Roving Ambassador for the Economic Cooperation Administration, and Paul G. Hoffman, ECA administrator.

Afterwards, Harriman told the newsmen: "We had a general talk about all the problems of western Europe and a vigorous program for carrying on the European Recovery Program."

Hoffman described the conference as "very interesting." He said it covered general ECA affairs in Western Europe.

Harriman told reporters, in reply to a question, that the discussion did not touch on the situation in China.

The ECA Administrator said he plans to return to Western Europe in about a week.

COMMUNISTS LOSE VOTE IN LOWER SAXONY ELECTION

HAMBURG, Ger., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Communists lost votes in Lower Saxony's communal elections yesterday, final returns showed.

The trend was the same as in other British Zone states of North Rhine-Westphalia and Schleswig-Holstein.

The Communists polled only 3 percent of the votes in Lower Saxony compared to 5.1 percent in 1946. The main political parties held their relative positions.

WEATHER

East Texas—Fair this afternoon and tonight. Not so cold in east and south Wednesday. Increasing cloudiness, extreme south portion. Moderate east to southeast winds on the coast.

Fighting Aggies Tie Texas, 14 to 14

Campbell: 'Sob' . . .

As 'Lizzie' Echoes Through Austin, New Jinx Is Formed

By FRANK WELCH

As highly elated Aggies streamed out of Memorial Stadium, cries of "Beat it—outa Villanova" rang out through the capital city of Austin. Never in the history of Texas University's present gridiron structure had the Aggies left that field without the sting of defeat.

The season could be recorded as a success, and the Farmer ball players had the congratulations of every supporter, student, and extension of A&M. It was also a perfect first term for A&M's new head coach, Harry Stiteler. Never in the history of the 54 year old tradition steeped rivalry between the two big state schools had a Turkey Day battle ended so satisfactorily for the Aggies. The reasons for this are numerous.

It hasn't been often that A&M's ball team has gone to Austin for the yearly classic as such decided underdogs. T. U. was a three touchdown favorite.

But by sheer spirit, drive, and determination, the Aggies rose from the ranks of the defeated to play their most outstanding game of the year and gain the greatest moral victory in a record, a tie with the Longhorns on TU's own once highly jinxed home field.

Some of the Texas students felt that the jinx remained the same, but the favorite Aggie comeback was, "If we didn't break the thing in steps, the shock would kill you!" (From the reports published in the Dallas Morning News, the Teahound ball players didn't share the students' complacent attitude.

Eye-salt flowed freely in the Longhorn locker room after the game! One thing all Texas supporters would have to concede: the old jinx that they had leaned so heavily upon for so many years would never be the same again after the severe cracking, it received last Thursday.

Besides breaking the air-tight jinx, the Aggies brought to a halt the unbroken string of losses suffered at the hands of Texas. The last victory occurred in 1939 when A&M won the mythical National Championship.

Crossing Texas' goal stripe in their own field no longer was something hard-sought. Of the five touchdowns that A&M has made in Austin Thursday's number accounted for over a third.

Most Aggies felt that the yelling of "Lizzie" at TU was the epilogue to the lean years that A&M has had in the win columns for the past few years.

Fellowships Open For Americans At English Schools

The Henry Fellowships for 1949-1950, grants of about $2,400 for five American students to study in English universities, were announced last week by the American Committee of Management for the Charles and Julia Henry Fund.

Open to both men and women, the fellowships provide for a years study at Oxford, or at a bridge University. Recent college graduates and students graduating from American colleges this spring will receive preference in the selection.

This fund, established under the will of the late Julia Henry, also provides fellowships for English students to study at Harvard and Yale.

Applications must be submitted on or before February 15, 1949 to the Office of the Secretary of Yale University or to the Secretary to the Corporation of Harvard University.

Methodist Bazaar Set for Thursday

The annual Bazaar of the A&M Methodist Church will begin at 5 p. m. Thursday in the lounge of the new Educational Building, Mrs. Robert M. Pinkerton general chairman of the Bazaar, has announced. Supper will be served at 6 p. m. in the Fellowship Hall, Mrs. Pinkerton said.

Section committee chairwomen for the Bazaar include Mesdames W. G. Brazzale, C. B. Godbey, W. R. Horsley, F. W. Barker, Rudolph Leighton, Petris Baker, and I. W. Ripley.

The tie seemed to be a symbol of greater things to come.

One thing everyone was sure of. If the Teasips had intended to keep their highly vaunted jinx alive, they never should have altered their concrete gridiron horse-shoe, for by now it was too late.

A new jinx had been established: TU has never defeated the Aggies in the newly dedicated Memorial Stadium!

Academy of Science to Meet In San Antonio December 9 - 11

The Texas Academy of Science will meet at the Plaza Hotel in San Antonio on December 9, 10, and 11, according to Dr. L. S. Paine, executive vice president of the Academy and member of the Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology Department here.

The work of the San Antonio meeting will be carried out through general and sectional meetings of the Texas Academy of Science and through meetings of the Conservation Council, the Collegiate Division and the Academy Division, all of which are sub-divisions of the Texas Academy of Science.

In addition to Paine, other A&M staff members holding official positions in the Texas Academy of Science are Charles LaMotte of the Biology Department, G. E. Potter of the Biology Department, S. W. Blasing of the Entomology Department and V. A. Young Range and Forestry Department.

Members of the college staff who will have a part on the organization's program include D. G. Steinicke, Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology Department, Trends in Relative Emphasis upon Natural and Social Science; W. L. Hughes, Education and Psychology Department, Development of Scientific Attitudes in Public Schools; C. M. Rowell, Preliminary Report on Floral Composition in Sphagnum Bog in Robertson County and C. C. Doak, head of Biology Department, Reciprocal Crosses in Cupressus.

Others are William C. Rasmussen, Geology Department, Sands of the Texas Gulf Coast

Farm-Market Road To Tabor Planned

The construction of a farm to market road from U. S. Highway 190, north of Bryan to Tabor, about 9 miles, has been announced by the Texas Highway Department.

Construction is subject to the condition that Brazos County furnish all required right-of-way free of cost to the state.

—A Review: Roy L. Donahue, Extension Agronomist, Soil and Water Conservation—An Economic and Social Necessity; Vernon A. Young, head of the Range and Forestry Department, Certain Conservation Phases of our Range and Forest Resources; and James L. Liverman, vice president of the Collegiate Division, The Part Played by Undergraduates in the Activities of State Academies of Science.

L. W. Blau, resident consultant of the Humble Oil Company, Houston, is president of the Texas Academy of Science. Miss Gladys H. Baird of Huntsville is secretary-treasurer.

Jester Predicts State Ownership Of Tidelands

HOUSTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Governor Beauford Jester of Texas yesterday predicted the Democratic eighty-first congress will recognize state ownership of submerged tidelands.

Jester was joined in his prediction by Nebraska Attorney General Walter J. Johnson, chairman of the National Association of Attorneys General Committee on tide lands.

Both spoke before the opening business session of the Association's forty-second annual conference.

Johnson said that of members of the House of Representatives returning to Washington in January, there will be 198 who voted for state ownership in the eightieth Congress and only 26 who voted against the measure.

Both spoke before the opening business session of the Association's forty-second annual conference.

Four Graduates Of A&M Enter Regular Army

Four distinguished military graduates of A&M have been appointed to the Regular Army according to information received from the Texas Military District.

They include Walter N. Higgins, William I. Compton, Jere J. Lewis, and Robert A. Mumford.

Regular Army commissions as second lieutenants have been given 88 distinguished military graduates chosen from among 456 ROTC students of 85 of the nation's colleges and universities who were graduated last June as Distinguished Military Graduates.

As Distinguished Military Graduates, these former ROTC students are eligible for selection for appointment in the Regular Army upon application, provided they are physically qualified. Those remaining among the 456 who have not yet applied for or accepted the tender of a Regular Service commission may do so at any time not later than six months after graduation.

Professors of Military Science and Tactics base selection of such students on outstanding qualities of military leadership, academic leadership or extracurricular activities, and the standing in military subjects.

CO-CAPTAIN JIM WINKLER gave a brilliant defensive performance as the Cadets tied TU, 14-14. Winkler earned the plaudits of his opponents and the spectators with his fine play.

Baty's Passing, Turley's Toe Halt A&M's Losing Streak

By ART HOWARD

A confident Texas University football team ran all over Memorial Stadium before 68,000 fans last Thursday, but when the smoke had cleared, the Aggies had won a 14-14 tie game.

That night the orange of victory and the white of defeat shone on the Memorial Tower, but as far as the Aggies were concerned, their team had defeated the highly-favored Longhorns and broken the jinx of Memorial Stadium.

Coonhound Trials To Be This Week

By TOM CARTER

The State Coonhound Field Trials and Bench Show will be held here next Saturday and Sunday with the Brazos County Coonhunter's Association as hosts, C. H. Neatherly, secretary of the association, said.

The Texas championship trials will be in Brazos County for the first time and will be held on the Miller and Longmier ranches along Highway 6 near A&M, Neatherly stated.

Elimination heats begin at 9 a. m. Saturday, and the bench show will be held at 1 p. m. Sunday.

Semi-final races will start at 8 a. m. Sunday with the finals scheduled for 3:30 p. m.

For the benefit of those not acquainted with coonhound field trial procedure, members of the Brazos Association explained that the race course is approximately a mile and one-half in length, over which a live coon is dragged behind a horse to leave a fine trail before each heat. The coon is transported over the course in a specially constructed box which allows its fur to drag the ground without harming the animal.

The "Line" is placed several yards in front of the "Tree" which marks the end of the course and in which another coon is placed during the competition.

In many cases the dog taking the first "Line" prize is also the first to "Tree," particularly after the field is narrowed down to the semi-finals and finals, and it is probable that a single dog will win both field trial championship cups, as well as the entire $500 championship purse.

Championship cups are on display this week in the window of the First National Bank in Bryan. They include a cup for the "Tree" Championship, one for the "Line" Champion and one for the Bench Show Champion. A championship purse of $500 is guaranteed.

The local association reported last week that some 50 coon dogs already were entered from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

Realtors Plan Meeting Here Friday Evening

A rent de-control meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. Friday at the district courtroom in Bryan, the Bryan-College Station Real Estate Board said Monday.

George O. Buckhaults, president of the Board, asked all renters and owners of rented property to attend the meeting. Realtors are prepared to submit proof with their arguments for de-control, he said.

The continued vacancy of about 40 houses in Bryan is due to the inability of the owners to rent them for enough to pay for essential repairs and upkeep and to return a small revenue on the initial cost, Buckhaults claimed.

Gordon L. Benningfield, rent control director for Brazos and Walker counties, has indicated that, in his opinion, the rent situation here is virtually unchanged from December a year ago when the Rent Advisory Board was unable to recommend the lifting of controls in the Bryan-College area.

Benningfield said "general statements" would be of little value at the Friday meeting unless supported by facts or written evidence.

Aggie Dressing Room All Smiles As Longhorns Weep After Game; Texas Sports Editors Pen Comments

This is a summary of the dressing room stories as reported by various sport writers.

Jimmy Banks covered the story from the Longhorns' locker room, which is as follows:

Teas flowed freely in the Texas Longhorn's locker room after their 14-14 tie with the Aggies.

Contributing only slightly to the moisture content of the musty atmosphere was their slender, 22-year-old quarterback, Dismay dominated the expression of mixed emotions on Paul Campbell's face.

Campbell, like other Longhorns, felt they had lost Thursday's game. Temporarily, at least, the Longhorns failed to realize that A&M still had not beaten Texas since 1939. They forgot that the Aggies had still never beaten the Longhorns in Memorial Stadium.

Typical of their comments was that of End Ben Proctor.

"We drove them back all afternoon and then . . ." he said, "his voice choking into a sob on the 'when.' I thought I had knocked it down," moaned Bobby Coy Lee. He was talking about the pass Aggie End Charles Wright caught for 72 yards and the touchdown which enabled A&M to salvage a tie. Lee had played a terrific defensive game all afternoon.

Tom Landry, Texas co-captain and one of the fourteen Longhorn seniors who wound up their careers Thursday, cried unashamedly. "I wanted this one more than any one of the others," he muttered. Morris Frank, sports editor of the Houston Post, went back 24 years to recall a pass play similar to the one in which Wright scored for A&M.

"Texas Aggie partisans who saw the game, Thursday night were saying that justice had come to the Aggies at Memorial Stadium after 24 years.

In 1924, when Memorial Stadium was officially dedicated, Stookie Allen of the Longhorns grabbed a pass hit into the air by Aggie Bob Berry to score the touchdown that defeated A&M 7-0.

Thursday, when Charley Wright caught the pass that was batted into the air by the Longhorns in the last two minutes, Aggie followers contended the count even.

Stookie Allen, a resident of New York, was said to be in the stands.

Jinx Tucker of the Waco News-Tribune who watched Stiteler coached teams in action at Waco High School recounted the similarity between Thursdays game and the high school contest in which Stiteler's 1945 Waco High team tied for the state championship.

That game of Thursday in Austin in which Harry Stiteler's out-manned Aggie team tied the great University of Texas team reminded me of the game between Harry Stiteler's Waco High team of 1945 in the State championship game against the powerful and favored Highland Park High team. It also resulted in a tie.

Against Highland Park Waco High was completely outclassed in the first half, but by battling in sensational manner Waco held the Scotties to a one-touchdown lead for the half. When the teams went to rest between halves, it seemed that Highland was going to win by a most decisive score. It apparently had the power to do so.

Waco seemed outmanned with little or no chance, but between halves Stiteler had something to say to his boys. In the second half it completely outplayed Highland Park, tied that team, 7 to 7, and had the Scotties on the ropes at the end with the Highland fans praying for the last shot to end the game.

So it was in Austin Thursday, Stiteler's Aggie team was roundly outplayed in the first quarter and got behind, 7 to 0. In the second quarter the Aggies did not have the proverbial "Chinese" man's chance. For almost the entire period they were backed against the goal line, and the fact that Texas did not score in that period is a tribute indeed to the remarkable fighting spirit of the Aggies on that day, but as the teams went out to rest, it seemed that it was going to be slaughter in the second half.

Without capable reserves, it did not seem that the Aggies could continue to hold on, but something happened between halves.

The Aggies came out with spirit dash and brilliance, and against the wind in the third period roundly outplayed Texas and kept the ball away from the Longhorns most of the period. Then early in the fourth period the Aggies staged a great drive for the tying score. Once more the Texas power asserted itself for a brilliant 56-yard drive, a score, and apparently the game. On one play the Aggies tied it. It was the same kind of pass that was made to Froggie Williams for Waco's score in the game against Highland Park, but this one was batted in the air first.

Thereafter Texas, like Highland Park, had to fight savagely to hold on and get out with a tie.

Flem Hall, Fort Worth Star Telegram sports writer commented on the Aggies playing the game safe in the waning seconds of the fourth quarter.

Why did quarterback Buryl Baty of the Texas Aggies use run plays in the last 80 seconds of the game here Thursday, with the score tied at 14-14; A&M had the ball on the Texas 35 yard line?

Because he was under orders to do so.

"I felt a tie was as good as a victory for us," Coach Harry Stiteler of the Aggies said in the wildly happy atmosphere of the A&M dressing room after the game.

"You'll recall Baty passed incomplete at Bob Goode on the first play of the series. I sent in a player with instructions that time-consuming run plays were to be used on the next two plays, if there was time left to play, to gamble for a touchdown on the fourth down."

There was time left and Jim Cashion, trying to pass into the end zone, was rushed so hard he barely got the ball away for a short incomplete toss.

Texas had time for two plays in the last 15 seconds.

"We could have lost the ball game if our second down play had lost the ball," Stiteler recalled.

The Aggies could hardly have been any happier if they won. (See DRESSING ROOM, Page 3)

A&M, winless in nine starts, stopped the wanted Steer ground attack except for the running of Ray Bormeman. Texas owed its orange lights to Bormeman, and its white lights to quarterback Paul Campbell, who connected with Farmer interceptors three crucial times.

But the real difference in the game was the performance of the A&M line when the chips were down. Spearheaded by Jim Winkler, Carl Molberg and Jimmy Flowers, it stopped the Steers six times inside the Aggie twenty-yard line.

The initial score of the game came with only one minute and 25 seconds remaining in the initial quarter after A&M had repulsed one threat. The ball changed hands so fast that it was hard to keep track. Cashion's pass was intercepted and TU drove down to A&M's 16 when Jimmy Flowers intercepted one of Campbell's tosses and returned it 31 yards behind fine blocking by Bob Goode.

Then Goode lost the ball on a fumble, and Bormeman went over at least the officials called it over.

This was the only time the Aggie line failed to hold a goal line threat the entire game. But the Aggies still failed to shine in the first half, racking up only two first-downs and making eight yards by air and 35 by ground.

A&M's deepest penetration in the first half was its own 38-yard line, once on Flowers' interception and once on a pass from Cashion to Hillhouse. Most of the time A&M was operating in the shadow of its own goal posts, and Bob Goode was kicking from the end zone.

Aggies could hardly believe the scoreboard at the half when it read: Texas 7, A&M 0. When the stout Farmer line held at the goal stripe, Paul Campbell's publicized passing failed to come through in the pinch. It still looked as if the Longhorns would run over A&M in the second half.

But something went on in the Aggies' dressing room at the half-time rest for they came out full of fire and outplayed the Steers for the remainder of the game.

Usually a poor second-half team, they tied the game twice and had Coach Blair Cherry praying for the game to end. A&M controlled (See FARMERS, Page 3)

Williams Attends Annual Vocational Meet in Wisconsin

E. L. Williams, director of the Industrial Extension Service, and two members of his staff are attending the annual meeting of the American Vocational Association in Milwaukee, Wis.

Attending with Williams are M. D. Darrow and D. L. Belcher. Darrow, associate professor and teacher-trainer will speak on a college cooperative curriculum for auto-mechanics teachers. Belcher, member of the supervisor training staff will discuss the Texas program of supervisory training conducted under the direction of public vocational education.

The American Vocational Association is a national organization with 25,000 members who are teachers in agriculture, home economics, industrial arts and industries. Williams is a vice-president representing trade and industrial education of the Association.

New officers of the College Station Kiwanis Club will be installed at a banquet in Sibus Hall Wednesday at 7 p. m., according to Sid Lovelace, president.

Next year's officers are Ralph W. Steen, president; Joe Motheral and A. C. Magee, vice-presidents; F. M. Cleland, secretary; and Walter Manning, treasurer.

Comic Books Banned In Fifty Cities

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Nearly 50 cities have taken steps to ban the sale of comic books deemed objectionable, the United States conference of Mayors reported yesterday.

The conference said in a statement that this is the result of "increasing and persistent" demands by parents and church.
