Married Veterans Just Do Not Call Wives 'Old Lady'

By H. C. MICHALAK

Life in College View (Hungry Heights) for married veteran students is far from a dull affair. The chief difference between cadet life and the married veteran's life is this: The cadet usually has a roommate whom he refers to as "old Lady." The married veteran has a roommate too, but he does not call her "old Lady."

Transportation is a problem for the College View dweller. Chief mode of getting about from apartment to the campus is by bicycle. Another trusty form of transportation is the age-old custom of walking. Just pick 'em up and put 'em down. Eventually this slow process gets the book totter to his classroom in time to keep from being tardy.

Of course the boys who drive cars are not to be forgotten. If it were not for them, the Hungry Heights dwellers—future executives now mind you—would have to do more walking than they do. These student car owners drive japsies ranging from the almost antique Model A Ford to classy Cadillacs. Buicks and Olds are very common models, too.

However, some of the View dwellers do not rely upon walking, the bike, or chance hitchhiking. These other future executives ride a two wheeled gadget with a motor—it is called a scooter. Where traffic jams up during rush periods, these scooter riders just weave in and out among the congested conglomeration and get away from it all. Now these boys in College View have to study just like any other students and their problems are very like those of dormitory dwellers. Whereas the campus dweller may have to listen to some gabby guy telling his room mate about his latest female discovery, the married veteran has his little troubles too.

Some of these are in the form of little future Aggies or little future Tessies. Or just about the time he gets that chemical formula figured out, a wee voice from the kitchen will say, "Honey I'm baking a lemon pie. Go down to the store and get some lemons."

On Sunday morning when it is nice to sleep late, one of the little Aggies in the neighborhood will be running around the corner shouting "The British are coming." His bedtime story the night before was a story taken from History 105 about some Revolution in 1776.

While all apartments seem the same from the outside, that is where all similarity stops. The ingenuity of these married girls in arranging college furnishings is something amazing. No two apartments are alike, and practically every one has some article of furniture which is home manufactured, adding to the homey atmosphere.

Curtains and drapes of every color, design and shape adorn the windows; pictures, pennants, mirrors, and souvenirs occupy various wall surfaces.

Cadets eat in the mess hall family style and non-cadets eat in the cafeterias, but the married veterans can vary the fare by helping his wife cook if he wants to. And sometimes he will dry the dishes whether he wants to or not!

Such is life in College View, Veterans Village, the Annex and in the Trailer Camp, but what a life . . . then graduation and maybe a job . . . then a vacation!!

Demonstrations, Films to Feature Various Weapons

A demonstration of firearms will be given in the assembly hall Tuesday evening, January 18, at 7:30, Lt. Colonel Frank R. Swoger branch instructor of the Ordnance Department, said today.

The demonstration will include a film on the cycle of operation of a typical small arm, and skits to show the proper method of handling firearms under all conditions. Exhibits will include the 57 mm recoil-less rifle, the M-3 sub-machine gun, the M1 carbine and many other weapons.

Army enlisted personnel who are experts in the ordnance field will be in charge of the demonstration, Swoger said.

The demonstration is open to the public.

Our Story Points a Real Moral

Our campus story has a definite purpose: to make you realize the genuine DIFFERENCE that PHILIP MORRIS possesses. We have full proof of that, but too extensive to be scientifically detailed here. We cordially invite interested students engaged in chemistry and pre-medical work, to write our Research Department, Philip Morris Company, 119 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
