Best Hard Luck Story To Rate Prize In Tournament

MIAMI, Fla. — (P)— There's one fishing competition in which you can win a prize if you lose.

It's the Metropolitan Miami tournament and more than 300,000 anglers are expected to participate.

The $15,000 worth of prizes includes a tough luck trophy awarded by Author Philip Wylie to the unfortunate fisherman with the best

Among the more cherished awards are four perpetual trophies—for the heaviest sailfish, the longest sailfish, the heaviest white marlin and the heaviest jackfish.

The 106-day tournament runs into April and is open to everybody—there is no admission fee—and the eager school boy with dime store equipment is just as eligible for a prize as any elaborately outfitted wealthy sportsman.

Already entered are rod and reel experts from 44 states, the District of Columbia, Europe, Canada and South America.

How do you win the tough luck trophy?

Well, Collins L. Carter, of Albion, Mich., got this award at the last tournament when a shark bit off the tail of a white marlin he was about to boat after an hour's struggle. The bite was estimated at 13 pounds and the remainder of the fish weighed 107 pounds.

The ultimate winner of the class scaled only 104 pounds, but mutilated fish are not eligible so Carter joined the tough luck group. The first tournament was held in 1936. The idea was started by a group of sportsmen-businessmen in Miami and Miami Beach who group of sportsmen-businessmen in Miami and Miami Beach who formed an association known as Anglers, Inc., to encourage sport fishing in the metropolitan Miami area. All members donate their services and refuse to accept prizes.

The tournament committee say the rules are kept as simple as possible. All catches must be made unaided on rod and reel and must be weighed in at one of 53 official weighing stations. Thirty one different species of fish may be entered.

Just in case the avid angler needs encouragement the committee points out that of 58 world records charted between 1874 and 1947 no less than 20 of the top fish were taken in Florida waters.
