

Sports Day Plans Shape Up As Visiting Teams Lists Enlarged

By BILL POTTS

Saturday, March 12th, has been designated as Sports Day at A&M by the T Association. This day is observed annually by the students of the college and is sponsored by the T Association, the organization of men on the campus who have earned varsity letters in some phase of Southwestern Conference sports.

Sports Day will really live up to its name that day. First on the agenda is the final game scrimmage of the varsity football squad. Baseball will also be in the air if tentative arrangements with the Houston Buffs come through. If they do, the Aggie baseball team will be playing them while the scrimmage game is going on.

Another event of interest to many people will be the proposed swimming meet in Downs Natatorium. Pensacola Pre-Flight is tentatively scheduled to bring its tank squad here for a meet with Art Adamson's Aggie swimmers.

To provide even more interest to Sports Day, and to make it the success it was meant for, outstanding high school athletes from over the state will be here to view the proceedings and to get an idea of Aggieland.

These athletes will come here as the guests of their various home town clubs on the campus. They will stay in the dorms on the campus and eat in the mess halls.

E. G. Bilderback, president of the T Association, has announced that any clubs on the campus that wish to invite athletes from their home town are urged to do so.

Moudy Will Speak At World Day Of Prayer Services

World Day of Prayer services for the Bryan-College Station region will be held at the A&M Methodist Church at 3 p. m., Friday. Rev. James Moudy pastor of the A&M Christian Church, will be the principal speaker.

Devotional music will be furnished by the Women's Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Grace Krug, and accompanied by Mrs. Elizabeth Pounds. Mrs. William Schenk is general chairman for the local service.

More than seventy different countries will observe Friday as World Day of Prayer, Rev. Moudy said.

"The services are international and interdenominational. In a thousand different tongues prayers will rise. Some will pray for bread, some will pray for clothing, but all will pray for Peace."

Irvin R. Lisbony Added to Staff Of Extension Service

Irving R. Lisbony, retired naval officer, has joined the staff of Industrial Extension Service. He will conduct courses in supervisory training for the personnel of the Texas state hospitals.

This is part of the hospital education program and is conducted by the Industrial Extension Service in cooperation with the State Board of Control and the State Board for Vocational Education. The first classes started Feb. 28 at the Austin state hospital.

Lisbony did his pre-medical work at Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois, and completed navy service schools in pharmacy, chemistry and administration. He has had 27 years as administrator in the medical department of the U. S. Navy.

Job Calls Increase For Ag Journalists

Job opportunities for students with a combined journalism and agricultural background are increasing, requests received in the past few days by the Journalism Department indicate.

A large city chamber of commerce is seeking a man with such a background to write publicity and help edit a magazine. One of the principal manufacturers of farm implements wants a man to write advertising copy, edit a house organ and write leaflets. Two radio stations are in the market for farm editors.

All of these jobs will pay above average starting salaries and offer opportunity for advancement, according to Donald D. Burchard, head of the Journalism Department.

Wildlife Seniors To Attend Conference

Six seniors from the Wildlife Management Department will attend the 14th Annual North American Wildlife Conference March 7 to 9 in Washington, D. C., Dr. W. B. Davis, head of the department announced.

Those attending are Lytle B. Blankenship, Bob F. Conger, James R. Fielding, Ben D. Oliver, James D. Steiner, and David L. Taylor, reported Dr. Davis.

Outstanding leaders in the wildlife management will be present, he said.
