LeTourneau Will Speak At Baptist Installation Banquet

R. G. LeTourneau will speak at the annual installation banquet of the Baptist Student Union which will be held at 6:45 p. m. Saturday in the Banquet Room of Sibus Hall, according to Prentiss W. Chunn, Jr., director of the organization.

LeTourneau is an inventor, manufacturer, business man, and evangelist.

"Several years ago, in a time of great personal crisis, LeTourneau turned his entire life and business over to God," Chunn said. His addition of that since then LeTourneau's story has been remarkable enough to be told by Robert Ripley in "Believe It or Not," and by many of the nation's major magazines. The industrialist will speak here on evangelism as the business of the Christian layman.

LeTourneau's son, Roy, is at A&M Annex as a student this year. Roy has been chaplain of the Freshman Regiment and is now commander of the regiment.

The other major program feature is the BSU Quartet from TSCW. Composed of Misses: Sue Moody, Bettye Coker, Mazie Crews and Marjorie Hollis, and accompanied by Miss Billie Cramer, this group will provide the special music for the evening.

David L. Fort, local BSU president, will serve as toastmaster. Robert E. Moore will install the newly elected BSU Council. Dinner music will be provided at the piano by Tommy Roxburgh, Hiram Smith, and Bob Mitchell. Lytle H. Blankenship is general chairman of arrangements for the banquet.

The 1949-50 BSU Council, which is to be installed at the banquet, includes: Earl E. Ross, president; C. O. Smith, enrollment vice-president; Stanley L. Rogers, social vice-president; Floyd E. Kernes, devotional vice-president; and Edwin A. Apel, stewardship vice-president.

Other officers are: Tommy C. Duffie, secretary; Al Johnston, missions director; Bobbie W. Davis publicity director; and L. E. Stark, faculty adviser.

Anyone may attend the banquet, Chunn said. Tickets are on sale at the Baptist Church or from any member of the BSU Council. Price of the tickets is $1 for students and $1.50 for non-students, he said.

Foxy Fox Fails To Fox Fox Hunters

By CHARLES KNIGHT

A wild animal chase caused excitement in the South Gate area Tuesday night.

It all started when Mrs. B. D. Marburger, of 411 South Mont Clair, heard something knocking objects in the attic. She turned on the attic light and went up to investigate. As she got to the top of the attic stairs she saw a huge fox disappear into a dark corner.

She called Raymond Rogers, city manager, and a student living near-by.

After a thorough search in the attic and throughout the house, they spotted the fox under the house, with only one opening for his escape.

After a 40 minute chase under the house and with the aid of flashlight and a shotgun, they disposed of the 25-pound gray fox.

Rogers said that the fox acted as if it might be rabid. That cannot be determined since it was shot in the head, he said.

System Buildings Being Planned

Plans for the new buildings in the A&M System are now being prepared, Carleton Adams, College Architect, said today.

Final bids for the new cattle barn will be due next Wednesday, Adams stated. Plans for the science building on the campus here will soon be completed. Next on the list are a science building at NTAC and a women's dormitory at Prairie View.

The science building on the campus here will be a three-story structure and will be made of light colored brick and stone construction. On the first floor will be a 200 seat lecture room, three class rooms, four laboratories and department offices. The second and third floors will house more offices, general class rooms, storage rooms and labs.

The science building at NTAC will also be three stories high. It will house classes in chemistry and biology.

The women's dormitory at Prairie View will house 200 girls. It will be a three story fireproof building.

Bidders Increase For Cattle Center

The list of bidders for the Beef Cattle Center Building to be constructed here is being increased as new bidders make their bids, Carleton Adams, college architect, reported.

By 4 p. m. Wednesday there were already 10 general contractors, 5 plumbing contractors, and 7 electrical contractors. All bids are due by 2 p. m. April 12, he said.

Mrs. Randolph Clark Chosen Texas A&M Mother of the Year

Mrs. Randolph Lee Clark of Cisco has been named the Texas A&M College Mother of the Year, J. D. Whatley told at a meeting Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Clark is a musician and a club and church worker. She has taught music for 60 years. Two of her grandsons are presently attending A&M and another graduated last year.

James L. Liverman told the committee that the programs for the Open House, Mother's Day weekend had gone to press. The Ross Volunteers were able to sell enough advertising to pay for only 8,000 copies of the program, Liverman said.

The committee discussed the possibilities of supplementing the Ross Volunteer funds to the extent that at least 12,500 of the programs could be printed.

Large Senior Ring Shipment Arrives

The largest order of senior rings since spring 1942 arrived here Tuesday for distribution. 507 regular rings and 44 miniature rings composed the shipment.

All but about 90 of the rings were of "the biggest and the blackest" variety. The sizes varied from 7 to 14½, but 9½ was predominant.

Classes of '31 and '32 were the earliest represented in the ring distribution, but these were replacement rings. Class of '40 was the earliest class ring in the shipment delivered other than for replacement purposes. '49 was the class best represented in the order according to Mrs. George Bauer, ring clerk, who said the fifth and sixth class of '51 rings ordered were in this shipment.

This was the second largest shipment ever received, Mrs. Bauer said. Because of the number of rings to be distributed, a special room in the basement was assigned for the ring distribution.

Students Can Make Book Suggestions

Students who wish to have the library purchase some particular book should make recommendations to the library personnel, Dr. Ralph Steen has announced. Dr. Steen is head of the Student Life Committee group which is handling the fund for this purpose.

The fund cannot be used to obtain scientific or technical books, but any other type book probably will be acceptable for purchasing, Dr. Steen added. If the person who recommends a book wishes to be notified when the book arrives at the library, a notice will be sent him upon its arrival, the committee head said.

No postage will be required if the student places his recommendation in an envelope and sends it to the Cushing Memorial Library through the faculty exchange, Dr. Steen reported. A form for sending in recommendations can be found on page 6 in today's paper.

Committee Appointed to Check A&M Student Body Scholarship

An experiment in the use of student labor for janitorial service in College dormitories will be conducted this year if a recommendation of the Student Senate is followed. The Senate voted last night to approve a motion concerning student labor in which the executive committee of the group recommended this action.

Essential Labor To Hamper U.S. In Next War

The limiting factor in the next emergency will probably be the shortage of essential manpower and not critical materials.

This is what James O'Brien, youthful director of the Manpower Division of the National Resources Board, told the Great Issues Class and visiting faculty last night.

O'Brien came to A&M from Washington to speak on "Manpower Problems Involved in a National Security Program." He is returning to Washington by plane from Houston this afternoon.

Committee Conferred
John Orr, committee chairman, explained during the discussion of the group's findings that the committee had met with George A. Long, supervisor of student labor; Dick Hervey, secretary of the Former Students Association; Knox J. Walker, supervisor of B&CU; and the supervisor of the janitorial service.

Among the comments which Orr reported as being made in these meetings with College and former student officials was the statement that students should not depend solely on student labor offered by the College. Someone else at the committee meeting said that the student labor idea if acceptable might mean more necessary aid for boys who were attending A&M on scholarships.

Scholarships Discussed
After a discussion of the merits of the student body offering one or more scholarships to deserving boys either recent high school graduates, or students already enrolled in A&M, the Senate approved a motion to organize a committee to prepare all available information on the subject. The committee is to report its findings and recommendations at the next Senate meeting.

Senators named to the committee were Bert Huebner, chairman, David Elston, Bubba Scrimgeour, David Selgman, and Grady Smallwood. Discussing the sources of revenue for any scholarship which might be adopted, the Senate considered contributions by personal solicitation, percentages of dormitory sock funds, and profits from special all-college dances.

The Senate voted to postpone action on designating a College organization to receive five per cent of the prices paid for used textbooks during the purchasing period which will be held at the end of May. The textbooks will be purchased from any students desiring to sell such books during a four day period beginning on May 31. A national buyer will be on the campus at that time to purchase the books.

WSSF to Europe
By the terms of the two recommendations which the Senate adopted, the WSSF money collected on the campus will be divided into two equal parts. One half will go to the teachers college in Bremen, Germany; and the other half will go to a school in Greece, preferably a teachers college, which the WSSF headquarters is to select.

The motion to send the money to Germany passed by a 10 to 12 vote. It was urged by Dick Baugh that the Senate follow closely the use of the funds at both of the schools to which they will go.

Charles Kirkham, Senate president, explained the awarding of the Southwest Conference Sportsmanship trophy to A&M and requested that all helpful criticisms concerning other conference schools' attitudes towards sportsmanship be submitted to him.

These observations should specify anything either good or bad in the other school's attitude and, if bad, offer a solution to the problem. Such comments should be written and given to a student senator within the next two weeks, Kirkham said.

Marvin Rice announced that James B. Ashton, vice-president of the Republic National Bank in Dallas, would be the speaker at the Master program on the campus on April 21. Rice, who is chairman of the program committee for the Master, explained the program plan and the radio coverage for (See SENATE, Page 2)
