College Hospital Will Show Facilities During Weekend

By HANK MICHALAK

Mom, we'd like you to meet "Mom."

Her name is Irene Claghorn, but students prefer to call her "Mom" because she's about the nearest thing to a mother around A&M. She tries her best to live up to the name, too, in her position as head nurse at the college hospital.

She's so proud of the service she performs for the students that she wants the real mothers—and dads, too—to drop over and have a look at the college hospital during their stay here this weekend.

She estimates that the three-story, brown brick building behind AggieLand Inn houses equipment and medical supplies worth approximately $72,000—remedies for just about any illness other than homesickness.

"Mom's" boss, Dr. J. E. Marsh, is in charge of the 150 bed hospital and largely responsible for the efficient system which entitles every student to complete care and hospitalizations for ordinary illnesses at a cost of $5 per semester.

The term "ordinary illnesses" includes such things as measles, broken arms and legs, sprains, and cuts and abrasions. The economy comes from the fact that the hospital is a self-sustaining unit.

Even in the case of a major operation, such as an appendectomy, a student may be accommodated, according to Dr. G. B. Wilcox, chairman of the Student Faculty Hospital Committee. However, he has to pay an additional charge of $100. Payment of this fee covers all operating room, drug, nurse care and ambulance expense connected with the operation.

If the family doctor is called in for consultation, his fee is paid from the $100 fee without any other charge to the patient. Any remaining money from the fee, goes into the hospital operating fund. Equipment in the hospital includes modern X-ray machines, a fluoroscope, a large sterilization unit, a complete laboratory, sun lamps, infra-red, and ultra-violet lamps, equipment for physiotherapy treatments and complete kitchen facilities.

A staff consisting of two laboratory technicians, 12 nurses, three ambulance drivers, one doctor and a cook work on a 24-hour basis. Two of the nurses work at the Annex.

Although regular sick-call hours are specified, emergencies are handled at any time. Three nurses live in the hospital for such purposes. Others take turns at being on 24-hour call to duty.

The regular ambulance driver is on hand during daylight hours. At other times, two student drivers handle the ambulance driving chores.

"Mom" boasts of a collection of pills—of every size, color, taste and shape—that numbers in the thousands. And the same goes for drugs and medicines, too, from penicillin to castor oil.

The hospital activities are directed by a Student-Faculty Hospital Committee of ten members.

Dr. Wilcox, a member of the Education and Psychology Department, is committee chairman and meets with its members at periodic intervals.

Student members of the committee are Joe Coulter, Harvey Risien, David Elston, and William Scrimgeour. Student senate president Charles Kirkham is an ex-officio member.

Faculty members are Dr. Marsh, physician; T. W. Leland, head of the Business and Accounting Department; Colonel H. L. Boatner, commandant of the Cadet Corps, and W. L. Penberthy, dean of men.

The students, however, never think of the hospital without thinking of "Mom," their mother away from home.

SENATE

Senate as sponsoring group will receive will go into a fund for the proposed scholarship.

A report on the work of the A&M delegation to the first state convention of the Texas Inter-Collegiate Student Association on April 23 was presented by Chuck Calamin, one of the delegates. Discussions and action regarding the entry of A&M into the association will be held at the next meeting of the Senate.

Several senators expressed dissatisfaction with the cleanliness of the eating utensils and dishes in the mess halls and asked that the mess committees check on the matter.

Areas not represented were Dorms 2, 8, 37, 1, Walton, and College View; one of the senators from the Annex was absent.

Dear Soviet Teachers:

We note that you have been discreetly silent on some aspects of the Communist system, and that you have been urged by Pravda to fill your students with "profound contempt" for the admission given to ours.

May we respectfully suggest a few more things that you'd better keep quiet about if you want the young Russians to grow up convinced Communists?

Don't tell them that in America the opportunity for advancement is unlimited—that here a man can work where he pleases and change his job when he pleases, and that he has the right to organize and bargain collectively.

Don't say anything about the competitive system, with rewards for initiative and enterprise in free markets—the same system which has produced a standard of living about ten times higher than yours.

Don't mention that here people can own things and manage their own businesses . . . and invest money in new undertakings.

Don't breathe a word about the American urge to invent better machines—and more productive ways to use them.

Don't refer to a dynamic way of life that keeps on turning out more and better goods —learn on inventing machines and making wares, with shorter working hours.

In other words, don't give them any of the facts about what happens when free people, governing themselves and spared by enlightened theocrats and spared by enlightened theocrats, go all-out to build a new kind of society—different from any the world has ever seen.

We don't say our way is perfect—for from it we will have our ups and downs of peace and jobs. But we know what's wrong and we're free to do something about it. Change is our middle name. And in the long run, our system always changes for the better.

P.S. About that "priority of inventions," the point isn't whether the Russian scientist took his invention electric light before Edison, but what happened after it was invented. Which system—yours or ours—has made provisions for more people the daily benefits of such inventions as the automobile, telephone, radio, refrigeration, central heating, modern plumbing and better farm machinery? The world knows that it is our system!
