Texas A&M - Baylor Game

Yale Lary is picked again as one of the Aggies' outstanding backs. Lary's fine exhibition of punting averaged almost 40 yards a try and kept the Bear defense on the go fielding his punts.

Dick Callendar, 170-pound squadman from College Station, turned in a stellar performance last Saturday on Kyle Field for the Aggies. His defensive play had a lot to do with the Aggies holding the Baylor rushing offense in check.

Max Greiner, junior guard from Houston, helped the Aggie line considerably against the Bear ground attack. Greiner played high school ball in Beaumont and since has earned two varsity letters and is headed for two more.

Buddy Molberg, teaming with Max Greiner at the guard slots, played standout ball for the Maroon and White in last Saturday's contest. Molberg, a business major, tilts the scales at 190 pounds.

Two Aggies of the Week, Jim Fowler of Temple, and Robert "Bob" Smith of Houston are not shown. Pictures were unavailable. Fowler, capable sophomore center helped the Aggie cause at linebacker position in Saturday's game. The 190-pounder played most of the game after Jim Flowers was shaken up.

Robert "Bob" Smith, fullback on the Aggie squad, again proved he was all-conference material by racking up 65 yards on 11 carries. He tops the conference ground gainers in this department.

Loser Will Inherit Conference Cellar

"Cellar Battle" is the name applied by sports writers to the Aggie-Porker tilt in Fayetteville this Saturday. Certainly the records of the two teams are the poorest in the Southwest Conference.

The Razorbacks have won three and lost two while the Cadets have been victorious in only one of their six starts. The men from the Ozarks downed North Texas of the Gulf Coast Conference.

Arkansas then surprised everyone — particularly Paul Rider, TCU sports publicity director — by downing TCU's "top team since 1938" by a top heavy score, 27-7. The very next week the Baylor Bears turned the tables on the apparently high-flying Porkers and beat Barnhill's boys, 35-13.

A second defeat followed on the heels of the first as Texas rebounded from its loss to Oklahoma by edging the Razorbacks, 27-14, after the Arkansans had led into the second half of the contest. Last week the big red-jerseyed eleven, minus end Frank Fischel and full-back Leon Campbell, nudged past Vanderbilt of the Southeastern Conference, 7-6.

The Ozark school has been handicapped by its lack of a really dependable breakaway runner, such as the '48 star, Clyde Scott, and by the fact that this is the first year for the team to run from the T formation. Barnhill had previously based his offense on the Tennessee system he learned from Bob Neyland.

A sophomore, Don Logue, is the man-under on the T attack and so far has more than lived up to expectations as a quarterback. However, he has the usual weakness found in any first year field general and so can not be considered the equal of such men as Burk and Campbell at the post. Logue's passing record shows that he has completed 21 of 52 attempted aeriels for a yardage gain of 230.

At fullback "Muscles" Campbell is the starter and top all-conference contender on the Porker eleven. Campbell, 5' 11", 193-pound blaster from Bauxite, is second in the conference rushing statistics with 384 yards gained on 44 carries for an average of 8.7 per try.

With Muscles out with a bruised hip, Geno Mazzanti has replaced him and has gained 205 yards on 31 carries for a 6.6 average. Starters at the halfback slots are Alvin Duke, 5' 10", 185-pound Oklahoman, and Ray Parks, 6', 182-pound junior.

Campbell, Mazzanti, and Duke are all seniors. All of the men except Logue have lettered in past campaigns.

At the terminal posts two strong performers are listed. On the left flank senior Billy Hix, who stands 6' 1" and weighs 204 pounds, mans his position with veteran authority. A sophomore, Frank Fischel, is on the right and is already being mentioned with respect by opposing teams. With Fischel injured, senior Chester Linebarrier is starting at this flank.

Big Bill Standil, 218-pound senior who hits the 6' 1" mark, holds the left tackle position with still another sophomore, Dave Hanner, teaming with him at the opposite spot. A Texarkana griddler, Theron Roberts, utilizes his 205 pounds to make the left guard post a nearly impregnable one. Robert, who is 5' 11", made some of the all-conference selections in '46.

Two juniors, Don Reiderer and Bill Brown, alternate at receiving Barnhill's nod as starters at right guard. Reiderer is 5' 11" and weighs 209; Brown's measurements are 6' 1", 196 pounds.

The fourth first-year varsity man to gain a starter's spot is Bob Griffin at center. Griffin was in the game at the opening whistle against Vandy instead of junior John Ferguson, the expected starter. Ferguson is 6' 1", weighs 197.

With 30 returning lettermen and numerous sophomores up from the school's best freshman team in history, the Razorbacks stack up as double tough on paper. But since they were racked up so thoroughly by Baylor, there is still a good chance that the Aggies might gain their second win of the season on their trip into the Ozarks Saturday.
