Fixing Batt's Trouble . . .

If repetitions are in order, we would like to mention a subject in this column that appeared here last week.

Over and over again Annex students have been complaining about the delivery service of their "Batts." The gripe has fallen upon the staff members of the Freshman Page, and we would like to shift it a little to whoever might be the necessary party or parties.

In tracing this deficiency in delivery, we first went to some of the supply sergeants who are responsible for the transportation of these newspapers from the tactical officer's building to the various barracks in his company. In every case, these men claimed that when they went by to pick up the bundles of papers that were supposed to be waiting for them, none could be found.

With the blame lifted from the supply sergeants, we then went to see Dean Brezeale about the matter. He was very surprised to hear of it and immediately made note of the situation and also made a few phone calls.

We let the matter rest in the hands of Brezeale, but there is still a possibility that you won't receive your paper in the future. If this happens, contact your tactical officer. He will try to find out why you haven't been getting a paper that you have already paid for.

Hitch-hikers Get Stuck - But Good

By KENNETH WILLIAMS

There seems to be a jinx on Stan Sydenhem and Roger Kemper whenever they attempt to reach San Antonio by the Aggie route. These unlucky hitch-hikers have tried to reach San Antonio twice, only to find themselves stuck in Bryan both times. The first time they attempted the trip was the day of the Texas Tech game. The next weekend found the same story as poor Stan and Roger came drooping back to Little Aggieland once more. Better luck next time boys.

The moral of this is to park your cars on the parking lots, not in front of your barracks. Charles Russell parked his Crosley in front of T-1230 while he went in to prepare for a trip to town. He had just turned his back when the front doors were opened by one culprit while several other carried the car into the barracks. The barracks provided a fine garage for a short period of time; however the school provides several parking lots for the cars. I think you will find your car much safer there, Charles, provided some joker doesn't throw it off top of the gymnasium.

I am going to attempt to run a weekly column of this type of unusual happenings. If anything unusual has happened to you or any of your buddies, look me up in T-230. I will appreciate all the material I can get for this column.

Bowlers to Hold Play-Off Tourney

The Bowling Club tournament playoff began Monday at the YMCA bowling alleys.

A total of nine lines were bowled by each contestant. The eighteen bowlers making the highest total score will represent A&M in intercollegiate matches sponsored by the Memorial Student Center.

The following men bowled their first three lines Monday night: C. H. Hodges, T. McClure, J. L. Dockery, R. S. Williamson, C. A. McNeill, T. G. Towns, W. C. Kilpatrick, R. W. Weaver, L. J. Bernhard, W. Klambundie, R. B. Holman, J. Caronia, H. R. Cox, D. Hays, A. E. Reese, and E. Trant.

Tuesday night the following men are scheduled to bowl their first three lines: C. A. Eisenhauer, M. H. Parker, J. W. Chappell, A. H. Peques, R. C. Lyon, M. L. Lunceford, M. Hagemeir, R. L. Langhain, J. W. Burks, F. Henk, H. Thomson, M. Crumrine, and J. Alexander.

Growers Find Harvest Plan

LUBBOCK, Tex. (Oct. 28) (AP)—Two Idaloo cotton growers with 1,000 acres of mature crop have worked out a way to get it harvested despite the labor shortage.

City Judge Joe M. Hill of Dallas last week fined 34 prisoners $100 each, but suspended sentence if they agreed to go with the two farmers to Lubbock county and pick cotton. The men agreed and went with the farmers, Louis Countess and Delbert Mack Sawyers.

"It would be hard to find men who are better workers," Countess said. "Why, last Wednesday five men pulled 2,334 pounds of cotton. They got the prevailing wage rates too."

The former prisoners seemed satisfied too. A strapping Negro with several fresh knife wounds on his neck and chest said, "they sure have been treating us nice. We have a nice place to live, plenty to eat and make good money." The men are free to come and go as they please.

Intramurals Show Improvement With Better Football

Last week's intramural football games saw a much improved brand of football played. Most of the teams are showing a more smoothly operating attack with passing gaining more favor than a running game.

Co. 5 gained a 0-0, 2-2 penetration tie with Flight 13 by virtue of an intercepted pass on the last play. The game was marred by many fumbles and penalties. Flight 13 displayed a brilliant air attack while Company 5 showed aggressiveness on the ground.

A pass from Willson to Robin notched Flight 13's first penetration. Charles Eithan and Harold Scott led a pass driven move to the 15 yd. line for the second penetration.

Company 5 accounted for its penetrations on interception by McCray on Schenkel.

Pabb, Smyth, Messier, and Spence turned in fine performances for Company 5. Flight 13 got stout support from Ritter, Borden, Shawn, Sparks, and Matthew.

Flight 12 took a close one from Company 4, 7-0. They scored on a long pass that covered 50 yds. The pass was from Krueger to Doty. Company 4 threatened on a Garcia and Tabb sparked drive. Bell broke Company 4 when he intercepted a lateral and ran it out to midfield.

Raymond, Dace, Marque, and Little stood out for the winners. Company 4 was led by Garcia, Alley, Burns, Tabb, and Bell.

Company 7 displayed a lot of offensive strength as they downed a hard playing team from Flight 11.

Company 7 had more than sufficient speed, power, and passing. Every man on the team played a good game. Tranan, Snider, Bristol, Minturn, Hammon, and Stewart were especially commendable.

Flight 11 played gamely, making their score on a sustained march. They were not, however, equal to the task of stopping the smooth paced Company 7 fellows. Holbrook, Holmes, and Felton kept Flight 11 in the ball game.

Company 6 won over Flight 12, 13-0. The first score came on a pass from Turner to Moore on a hideout play. The conversion was blocked. On the second score, Turney flipped to Muller and Donaldson's kick was good.

Flight 12 countered this combination with Doty, Lockhart, Marque, and Holbrook.

Company 8 also took Company 2 into camp, 6-0. The score came on a 20 yard run by Moore. Donaldson, Turney, and Pilandel stood out for Company 8.

Davis, Erone, Davis, and Carr kept the issue in doubt, up to the end.

Flight 9 followed Eaton, Varber, and Gilland to an easy 18-0 victory over Company 5.

Little Battalion Needs Club News

The Freshman Page of the "Battalion" wants to print the news of all clubs existing on the "Little Aggieland" campus. Club members should make sure that reporters are elected at the next meeting.

Facts and happenings are all that are needed if the material is turned in at the Battalion office in the Student Center every Monday by 7 p.m. Editor.

WVMC '53 Club Is Formed by Wives

Student wives of the veterinary medicine class of '53 met for the first time Tuesday night at 7:30 in the cabinet room of the college YMCA. The group was officially organized and a constitution was drafted and will be approved at the next meeting of the club.

The following officers were elected to serve a nine month term: president, Maxine Goodman; vice-president, Kay Jenkins; secretary, Katherine Hebert; treasurer, Jean Thaxton; reporter, Jerry Bell.

The club chose the first Tuesday of each month as their regular meeting night and the time was set for 7:30. Wives attending the first meeting Tuesday night were: Kresta Daniels, Maxine Goodman, Timi Kramer, Katherine Hebert, Paula Phillips, Jean Thaxton, Kay Jenkins, Hazel Price, Marjorie Harding, Margaret Price, and Jerry Bell.

The next meeting of the WVMC '53 club will be held Tuesday November 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the YMCA. An announcement prior to the meeting will be made through the Battalion and radio station WT-AW.

Freshman Editorial Candidates Must File By Wednesday Noon

Cadet Lt. Col. Bryan Mills receives his certificate of cadet commission from Brig. Gen. Hugh Huffman, chief of staff, Fourth Army. Mills was one of 317 seniors given cadet commissions this week in Guion Hall. Rufus Peoples, class of '28 and member of the board of directors of the A&M System, gave the principle address. Peoples was introduced by Col. H. L. Boatner, PMS&T.

The complete staff of the Battalion's Freshman page will be selected by the end of this week, co-editors of the Battalion C. C. Munroe and Bill Billingsley announced this morning.

A filing deadline of noon Wednesday, Nov. 2 was set by the co-editors and all freshmen candidates for editorial positions on the Freshman page must file in the Annex dean of students office by that time.

When filing closes, the co-editors said, all candidates names will be reviewed by a five-man board made up of the co-editors, Freshman page sponsor Sam Southwell, manager of student publications Roland Bing, and head of the Journalism Department, D. D. Burchard.

Selection of a Freshman editor, associate editor, and as many other positions as the board deems necessary, will be made by the board and announced in the Freshman page of that week.

The Freshman editor and his assistants will be picked on a basis of writing ability, knowledge of the Battalion's typographic and writing style, and the leadership ability to produce a sufficiency of good copy for his page, the co-editors said.

An Annex-wide election to determine the editorial positions on the Freshman page had originally been planned, but the delay necessitated by the election would have impaired publication of the Freshman page, the co-editors said.

"If we wait until the Annex general elections in December" the co-editors said, "we believe that both the Freshman and our own staff will suffer from the delay. The Freshman staff will lose that much time in getting organized and working as a unit. They would actually only be serving half a scholastic year. With our own staff as over-worked as it is, we are hesitant in continuing the extra work of the Freshman page when the freshmen can, and want to handle their own page."

Tentative positions on the Freshman page are editor, associate editor, feature editor, and sports editor. Students who file should state on their application in which field their interest lies; sports, feature, or news, the co-editors added.

Vet Reporter Needed by Staff

In the reporting of the Freshman news, a very important part of the class has not been represented. This part, the freshman veterans, has not had its say in the Battalion work because no one that boasts a "ripped duck" has offered to join the staff.

An ex-serviceman is needed immediately to write the veterans' news and to round out the reporting.

All men interested should see Sam Southwell or leave a note in Student Center Battalion Office. —Ed.

Newcomers Meet, Discuss Book Fair

Newcomers club met Wednesday afternoon at the YMCA to plan participation in the community Book Fair to be held October 29 and 30, and to adopt a new constitution. The afternoon's program included a tour of the horticulture department and the museum. Mrs. Lynn Gee, Mrs. Dale Wretling, Mrs. C. F. Rainwater, Mrs. D. E. Carlson and Mrs. John W. Hill served as hostesses.
