

College Males Wonderful Says Batt Survey Victim

By ROGER COSLETT

(Editor's note—Today's article concerns itself with the answer to the following questions: "Do you have ample opportunity while in college to make acquaintances of the opposite sex? What is your opinion of college men? Do you have a date preference between college and non-college men?"

Opportunity seems to knock for the lass in the co-ed college. According to 12 co-eds, they have ample opportunity to make acquaintances of the opposite sex while in college.

Three less fortunate ladies felt that they did not have ample opportunity. The three girls' college veterans felt that they must make their own opportunity for meeting men.

If this latter case is true, I have seen several girls in our sister school to whom I would gladly give a starting shove. But, then again, they might be sitting back and waiting for the men to make the move.

Of course, there are a few women who had rather restrict the too fast movements of some of our more talented flock members.

This brings us to what the college woman thinks of college men.

Our friend from New Mexico, as frank as before, thought that college men were "dominating, carefree, and wonderful."

One of the attractive girls' college veterans said that college men were superior and more stimulating. A bitter miss from Oak Park, Illinois, felt that some were not mature enough. She was all of 20-years of age.

A 16-year old freshman, bewildered by it all, thought that college men were very mature. The married selectee felt that college men were serious minded and conscientious.

Another of our girls' college veterans (the cocky one) felt that the majority of college men were too "Joe College." "Too Ra Ra" was the opinion expressed on college men by a shapely Chicago blonde.

"College men are friendly and in need of companionship," answered a very companionable co-ed from Chicago. After getting to know this dark-haired miss, I find it hard to believe that a man's best friend is his dog.

A 22-year-old Kansas kindergarten teacher thought that college men were "overbearing, aggressive, and conceited at times."

This beautiful young blonde wore a stunning black strapless suit that would have brought cat calls from even the 5-year-olds. As for myself, all I can say is, "What is the age limit for kindergarten?"

New York is a far cry from Kansas, and a New York miss expressed a quite different opinion than had natives of the former state. She said, "College men are easy to get along with because they are so understanding."

Jumping back across the country to a rather shy North Dakotan got us back into the Kansas line of thought again. She said, "I feel that some of the boys are wasting their father's money. I would not go with non-college men—there's no future to it."

The lass had been outwardly shy, but her coyness had method behind it.

Her statement concerning date preference was expressed in less explicit terms by eight other of the selectees. Of the remaining ten, four preferred to date college men over non-college men, while three said that they would date both. The other two were liberal enough to say, "It depends upon the fellow in question."

Unfortunately, I did not have the money, time, nor car to go into further research on this point. Time being as precious as it is, let us get on to question number three on the survey. It read, "Why are you going to college?"

We shall see in the next story of this series just how the answers I received compare with the answers appearing in a recent editorial in the TSGW Daily Lasso.

GE Will Grant Graduate Aids

The General Electric Company will give aid to college and university graduates who wish to undertake or continue research work in scientific or industrial fields. W. W. Trench, secretary of the company and chairman of its Education Committee, announced today.

Applications for fellowships for the 1950-51 academic year are now being accepted under provisions of foundations established to honor two former General Electric presidents, Charles A. Coffin, founder of the company, and Gerard Swope, retired president.

Grants will be made from income on the one million dollar G-E Educational Fund. Since 1923, when the Coffin Foundation was established, more than 200 awards, totaling $169,508 from both foundations, have been made.

The Charles A. Coffin Fellowships are awarded in the fields of electricity, physics and physical chemistry, while the Gerard Swope Fellowships, first granted in 1946, are awarded in engineering, industrial management, the physical sciences, and other scientific and industrial fields.

Applications for fellowships, which must be filed before January 1, 1950, have been distributed to deans and professors of engineering, science, chemistry, metallurgy, and mechanical and aeronautical engineering, and to placement officers. Applications, Trench said, may also be obtained from A. D. Marshall, secretary, General Electric Educational Fund, Schenectady, New York.

Teacher's Group Elects Officers

L. R. Richardson, superintendent of A&M Consolidated schools, was elected president of the Brazos County unit of the State Teachers' Association during their first meeting of the school year at Stephen F. Austin high school Tuesday night.

Richardson succeeds Leon Hayes, business manager of Stephen F. Austin.

The group also voted unanimously to endorse George E. Adams of Bryan for a post on the State Board of Education from the Sixth Congressional District. Adams addressed the meeting and was present during most of the proceedings.

Other officers named at the meeting were A. R. Denny, principal of Bowie elementary school of Bryan, first vice president; Mrs. Herber Smith of Steele's Store, second vice president; and Mrs. Pearl Tanzer of A&M Consolidated, secretary-treasurer.

G.S. Trevino Wed To Miss Stallings

Miss Katrina Stallings, of Miami, Florida and Cadet Gilberto S. Trevino, Veterinary Medicine major from Laredo, Texas, were married in Houston, October 24.

The bride is formerly from Andalusia, Alabama, where she was graduated from high school. After graduation from high school she moved to Miami, Florida.

Dick Hervey, secretary of the Former Student Association, takes a look at the new Directory of Former Students which lists all students who enrolled at A&M from 1876 through 1949. The directory is available through the Former Students Association office in the Administration Building. No price has been established for it is issued upon receipt of a donation to the A&M Development Fund.

Practice Teaching Schedules Announced for November 7 - 19

Henry Ross, professor of the agricultural education department, has announced practice teaching schedules for senior agricultural education majors for this and next week.

Whenever possible, students are given practice teaching assignments in their respective home towns, Ross said. They teach assigned subjects to vocational agriculture students in the high schools.

Under the supervision of E. V. Walton, W. B. Ownes and K. M. Shackelford will teach at Nocona on soil conservation, winter feeding beef cattle, and improving pastures.

E. W. Robbins, A. O'Neil, M. I. Fluit, and C. H. Rock, Jr. will teach marketing of wool and mohair, and turkeys and poultry products, breeds of sheep and types of goats at Mason.

B. J. Pate and H. L. Storey will teach the students at Lot, swine production and marketing poultry products.

Jack Gray will supervise the teaching of J. D. Hampton, and E. W. Behrens at Brady, where they will teach methods of improving poultry products in McCullough County.

D. Ayers and C. E. Willis will teach at Marshall under Wallace Hawkins.

Practically all phases of agriculture will be covered during the week of November 14, by 20 agricultural education majors who will practice teaching as follows: R. L. Cain and L. B. Tamm at Grand Saline; E. C. Jones and R. E. Patrick at Van; M. A. Cross and F. W. McDave at Somerville.

L. M. Barber and C. M. Lester will teach at James; J. F. Spafford and C. A. Geiscke at Mesquite; G. W. Floyd, H. H. Stoner, and R. N. Plerce at Mineral Wells; R. A. Keown, G. B. Gilbert and J. L. Owens at Weatherford; R. H. Dorsett, H. P. Spalding, C. D. Walker, and H. O. Spann at Caldwell.

Morning Religious Services Planned

The first Morning Watch Service of this school year will be held at 7:30 Thursday morning in the Music Hall, King Egger, Corps Chaplain, announced today.

Reverend Norman Anderson, pastor of the College Station Presbyterian Church, will lead the devotional.

In announcing plans for the services, Egger said they will be over by 7:50, so that all students attending will have time to make 8 p. m. classes.

Guest speakers will preside at some meetings, while students themselves will be in charge of those at which no guest speaker is present.

Each service, said Egger, will consist of a short devotional and singing of hymns.

Steel Production Called 'Raisable'

New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—Steel production can be lifted to the pre-strike level of around 85 per cent of rated capacity within a month after the walkout ends, the iron age, metalworking trade weekly said today.

Democrat Power Rises After GOP's Reverses

By The Associated Press

Smashing Democratic victories in New York's U. S. Senate race and in widespread city elections set President Truman and the party high command chortling today over the outlook for 1950.

Republicans didn't find much to crow about in yesterday's elections. They held on to the New Jersey governorship they already had and tossed out a Democratic mayor here and there.

But they took a mauling in the day's feature political bout, in New York State. Democrat Herbert H. Lehman easily knocked Republican John Foster Dulles out of the U. S. Senate seat Dulles has held down since last July.

There was one, big, clear-cut issue: Lehman campaigned hard for the Truman home-front program; Dulles campaigned hard against it.

The president himself, gleefully calling out returns at a dinner in his honor by the Women's Democratic Club of Washington, interpreted the result as a vote of confidence in his "fair deal."

Mr. Truman said it would have "a very decided effect on the election in 1950" when control of Congress is at stake. So did the Democratic national chairman, William Boyle, Jr.

Furthermore, Boyle said, Lehman's victory "was only the highlight of a national trend" that went out again over Republican "generalities" and "scare attacks." Part of that "trend" was a repeat win for Democratic mayor William O'Dwyer of New York City.

The G. O. P. national chairman, Guy George Gabrielson, said in a statement that "the principles which Senator Dulles expounded in his campaign are those which ultimately will prevail, because they are right."

In New Jersey, Gabrielson said, the reelection of Republican Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll was a blow at "bossism" and "huguenism."

Driscoll handed a direct defeat to his Democratic rival, State Senator Elmer H. Wene. And he gave an indirect drubbing to Frank Hague, the former Jersey City mayor and boss of the state Democratic organization who backed Wene.

Hague announced he is "stepping aside." At 73, he said, he has reached an age when it is impossible to "carry on the arduous duties" of the Democratic leadership.

Boston voters tossed out the last old-time boss still in power when they refused a fifth term to Democratic mayor James M. Curley. They picked another Democrat, city clerk John B. Hynes.

The Democrats got no big numerical reinforcements in Congress. They did win all the Congressional seats at stake, but those numbered only three.

Lehman's victory gives them an extra hand in the Senate. But at the start of the new season, the Senate line-up probably will be just what it was after the 1948 election: 54 Democrats, 42 Republicans.

And in the House, it will be 262 Democrats, 170 Republicans, one Democrat-Liberal, one American-Labor, one vacancy.

That will be a gain of one seat for the Democrats. San Francisco voters replaced the late Rep. Richard Welch, a Republican, with Democrat John F. Shelley, president of the California Federation of Labor.

In Brooklyn, a Democrat, Mrs. Edna F. Kelly, was elected to fill a Democratic vacancy.

In New York such cities as Syracuse, Binghamton, Rome, Port Jervis—discarded Republican mayors for Democrats. Syracuse picked a Democrat for the first time in 24 years.

New York City itself gave Mayor O'Dwyer an easy win in his bid for a second term. He licked communist-supported Rep. Vito Marcantonio, the American-Labor candidate who ran a poor third, and Newbold Morris, the Republican-Liberal-Fusion hopeful.

Philadelphia threw out four Republican city officials won four years ago by margins of around 70,000 to 80,000 and installed Democrats in their places.

Virginia ran off the only other governorship race outside New Jersey according to form. Democratic State Senator John S. Battle swamped Republican Walter Johnson as expected.

But the old dominion state rejected a constitutional amendment to ban payment of a $150 poll tax as a requirement for voting and leave it to the legislature to fix new requirements. Texas also turned down a poll tax repealer.

A&M Presbyterian Church to Expand

Plans for an educational building for the A&M Presbyterian Church, were presented Tuesday night to the congregation, Norman Anderson, the pastor, said today.

The educational building plans call for the structure to be built adjoining the present church. The plans were presented by Marvin Eichenrecht, a San Antonio architect.

Mrs. L. S. Paine, building committee chairman, presided over the meeting.

After the discussion, members enjoyed an ice cream social, Anderson said.

Construction of the educational building is expected to get underway in the near future.

Club Women Hear Talk on Children

The Extension Service Club met last Thursday afternoon in the YMCA lounge on the campus.

The subject of a talk given by Mrs. E. T. Johnson was "The Child—A Human Being". To illustrate her discussion, Mrs. Johnson used some effective charts. She pointed out the needs of each human being along with the basic diet.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Fred Elliott, president. Mrs. Elliott was elected as delegate of the club to attend the State Federation of Women's Clubs convention in Austin on the 16, 17, and 18th of this month.

Program leader for the day was Mrs. Jack Sloan. Mrs. C. W. Simmons was the chairman of the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. George E. Adams, Mrs. Dora Barnes, Mrs. J. A. Scaffold of Vernon, and Mrs. W. I. Glass of Denton.

Inspection Due December 6, 7

The schedule for the annual informed inspection of all the Army ROTC units in the State of Texas was announced today by Col. Oscar B. Abbott, executive of the Texas Military District.

The inspection is scheduled at A&M for December 6 and 7. Col. Albert A. Horner, deputy executive of Texas Military District, has been named officer in charge of these inspections. He will be accompanied in the field by inspecting officer from the Texas Military District and assisted by the Organized Reserve Corps instructors in their respective areas.

In general, the informal inspection is to bring to the attention of the PMS&Ts of the inspected schools the deficiencies as found, in order that they may be corrected and more efficient ROTC units may result. Student facilities, Government property and functions of the property custodian will be inspected along with the training and discipline of the cadets.

The relations between the Military Science Department and the school will be investigated to insure that the best relations are existent and that public relations with civilian activities and organizations adjacent to the school are upheld.

The first school to be inspected are Schreiner Institute, Kerrville and Allen Military Academy, Bryan on November 21.
