Rival's Contest

Ends With Riot

DETROIT, Nov. — (AP)—A thousand howling, fist-swinging fans poured from the stands last night and broke up a hotly contested high school football game with a riot in which three persons were knifed.

Two football players were knocked unconscious. A policeman was slightly injured. Scores were battered and bruised.

Fighting between players in the final minutes of the game between Melvindale and River Rouge schools set off the riot.

Passions had risen to fever pitch as Melvindale struggled to overcome a one-touchdown advantage held by its old rival. Both teams were unbeaten.

Mrs. Violet Higgins, 34, a negro, was in serious condition at Wayne County Hospital with a stab wound in the back. Her husband, Branch, 44, was released pending investigation of felonious assault, police Lt. Stanley Machurski said.

Higgins told police about four white youths pulled him and his wife from their car a block from the stadium after the riot.

Officers were checking two knives taken from the youths to determine which had stabbed Mrs. Higgins. They were investigating Higgins' counter-attack on the youths.

Achurski said police believed no racial issue was involved in the stadium fight although the squabble that set it off was reportedly between a white and a colored player.

The Melvindale team was an all white. Their opponents were mixed. The fight was along school lines rather than racial.

Although the game was never completed, River Rouge was awarded a 7-0 victory.

Rocket Research

Goes to Alabama

Huntsville, Ala. (AP)—The army has announced plans for moving its Fort Bliss, Tex., rocket research operations, including 100 German scientists, to Huntsville next year.

The Germans are among some 1,000 scientists and technical experts brought to this country under contract after the war.

Col. Carroll D. Hudson, commanding officer of Redstone Arsenal here, said the transfer will begin early in 1950 and be completed in six months.

Transfer to Redstone, the Army said, will save approximately $4,500,000. Permanent facilities available here will be used, whereas the rocket suboffice at Fort Bliss was housed in temporary buildings.

Involved in the switch from Fort Bliss will be 500 military personnel, the 100 German scientists and 65 civilian employees.

The program includes construction of engineering and chemical laboratories, static test stands and flight range facilities for the free rocket, the Jato (jet-assisted take-off or planes) and propellant research and development work.

Houze to Serve

As Librarian

Robert A. Houze, former assistant librarian, has been named acting librarian of Cushing Memorial Library. He has already assumed his duties.

Houze replaces Paul S. Ballance who resigned Oct. 30 to become public librarian for the city of Greensboro, N. C. Houze is also in charge of the Texas Engineers' Library.

Being assistant librarian since September, Houze came from the library of the University of Texas where he was acquisitions librarian. He served three from 1946-49.

Born in Buffalo, N. Y. Houze attended the East Denver high school, Denver Colo., before going to the University of Denver. Receiving his A. B. in 1940, he began work on a B. S. in library science which he completed at the same college in 1941.

From 1941-42, he was order librarian for the library of the University of Denver. After serving briefly in 1942 as veterinary librarian at Colorado A&M College, he entered the army, serving overseas in the Mediterranean Theater.

Upon his return from service in 1945, Houze became head librarian for the Longmont Public Library. From this post he went to the University of Texas.

Houze is a member of the Texas Library Association, American Librarian Association and Phi Sigma.

PH Students Visit Cameron Hatchery

The turkey management students taking Poultry Husbandry 303 went to Milam County on October 27 to study turkey production and management in the field, according to Ross M. Sherwood, professor of Poultry Husbandry.

The class visited a hatchery in Cameron and a packing plant in Rockdale, Sherwood said. Two market farms and two turkey improvement plans were also visited by the class, said Sherwood.

The field trip was designed to give the students an idea of how classroom problems were actually encountered and dealt with in the field, Sherwood said.

forts. They are worthwhile efforts, we think.

Then, too, each of us wants to someday receive a sheepskin from dear old Texas A&M, so I have just proclaimed a Renaissance. Henceforth, we study the required number of hours. We change our major back to fertilizer-spreading, switching from extracurricular activities.

The Battalion editors, a thoughtful pair, have delegated us to a somewhat less glorious position, yet less time-taking. Drop by to see us any afternoon. Just ask for the janitor.
