

College to Honor Older Employees

Twenty employees who have completed at least 25 years of service with the Texas A&M System, will be honored at the annual Christmas dinner for employees December 21 at Sbis Hall.

The 20 who will receive the 25-year-awards are Dr. J. E. Marsh, College hospital, campus; Miss Ruth Lord, now retired, of Bryan; Willie G. Barrow, Animal Husbandry Department; Dr. E. G. Smith, Physics Department; Homer E. Rea, Agronomy Department; James E. Burrell, B & CU Department;

Miss Josephine McCall, and J. R. Quinby, of the Agricultural Experiment Station; Dr. F. L. Thomas, Entomology Department. Louis A. Fridel and Isidor Lopez, Subsistence Department; Miss Lida Cooper, Denton, Silver Whittsett, College Station, J. A. Barton, Ballinger, G. J. Lane, Peducah, J. O. Moosberg, Center, Miss Maggie Peach, Canton, W. I. Ross, Marlin, J. E. Mayo, Prairie View, and Lyndal Ward, College Station, all of the Agricultural Extension Service.

Handball Club To Reorganize

A&M's handball club will hold an annual organizational meeting Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Coached by Herman Segriest, the team has six games and a tournament scheduled for this season.

At this first meeting will be discussed plans for the first trip of the year, which will be to Houston on January 6 and 7th. The Aggies will participate in the Region III Texas Handball Tournament along with Texas, Rice, and other top handball teams in the state.

The Aggies will be without the services of their star handballer Jewell McDowell. He will not be able to compete until after the cage season ends the latter part of February.

This season, plans have been made to compete with SMU, Rice, and Texas on a home and home basis. Later in the spring all teams in this conference will compete in a tournament to be held in Austin sponsored by Texas University.

The Aggie handball club last year took two contests from the Mustangs, settled for a split with TU and lost a close one to the Houston YMCA.

A tournament was kept throughout last years handball season with Jewell McDowell capturing the singles crown while McDowell and Leslie Layne teamed to win the doubles championship.

This organization is one of the recreational sport clubs sponsored by the Office of Student Activities.
