that the Christmas holidays be extended as originally planned. Barracks T-358

Bryan Field Annex P. S. If the "worried" students are going to forget all they learned during a two week vacation, they are wasting college. They will surely forget everything during the summer.

If the Academic Council wants to know how the students feel, they could take a vote among the students. That would seem more democratic to us.

Scouts Meet Thursday

The College Station Cub Scouts will hold a meeting Thursday, December 8, in the A&M Consolidated High School gym at 7 p. m., according to J. S. McGuire of the ED department.

All cub scouts and parents of this area are invited, McGuire said.

Bonfire Builders Advised In November Agriculturist

BY L. O. TIEDT

By the time you have finished reading this, your copy of the November Agriculturist will have reached your post office, or if it hasn't, it will be on its way. All subscriptions and newsstand copies of the magazine were put into the mails yesterday.

Most subscription holders and copy purchasers will not be disappointed as the editors say this edition is one of the best ever to have been published. I will agree with them on this point. The Agriculturist is the product of exceptional make-up. A wide selection of fairly well written stories covering various agricultural phases and an increased number of illustrations prove the basis for that statement.

Cover Inadequate. Although the cover, a reversed line-cut of a horse peacefully grazing and a halftone shot of a bee hive, extends a limp hand to the readers grasp, material inside makes up for this deficiency.

The necessity of unity among farm population and of agriculture is brought out by the editors in an editorial I label as inspiring.

"Spare That Wood", by John W. Thomas, sheds light on our timber situation and should be of interest to bonfire builders for years to come. Another article of even higher concern to Aggie readers is "Texas Deer and Our Problem" by Curtis R. McLeod. It gives a brief outline of what is happening to our deer population, and what work is being done toward restocking overhunted areas.

According to the author, our state is overpopulated by the four legged ruminants. What! You don't agree? Well, suppose you read the article and review the facts before you get after the writer.

Outstanding in the field of agricultural writing is the success feature article on an ex-collegiate athletic trainer. M. W. Kelley of Bastrop started "From the Bottom Up" and formed the basis of the story by Nat. M. Kennedy.

Financial Aid. What every cadet in need of funds should have stashed away somewhere is a pecan orchard in at least its tenth or fifteenth year of production. Why? According to J. R. Sahol in "A Lifetime Investment," all you have to do is borrow a couple thousand, plant pecan trees, sit down, and let them grow. This might be an instance where money grows on trees.

"Fish Want to be Big" by B. J. Henderson, should interest every pond owner or potential owner, in that it identifies some of the common faults made by pond owners. Pointers for stocking ponds and fish growth cycles are also included in the article.

The greatest fault of the Agriculturist is the article "Gulf Coast Paradise" by F. D. Connell. Author Connell depicts the handicap of Gulf Coast farming, and with attempted humor tries to brighten the story that should have been cut down in the first place.

Series Begins. Beginning in this issue, the Agriculturist will print articles concerning the activities at other colleges under the A&M System. "Something To Cackle About" by Jimmie Darling, is the first in this series. The article concerns itself with the poultry production and testing methods used at Tarleton State College.

Everyone makes mistakes. The Agriculturist is no exception. Even
