

Dinner Club Meets March 16 in Sbis

Western dress, barbeque food, and fiddle band will be featured at the March 16 meeting of the A&M Employees Dinner Club at Sbis Hall in College Station.

The arrangements committee is laying plans for a gay, western frolic at which the A&M College employees in colorful, ranch-land garb will dine on barbeque with all the trimmings. An evening of square dancing featuring a well-known fiddle band will follow the dinner.

The February meeting of the dinner club has been cancelled for observance of Religious Emphasis week on the campus.

When Texas A&M defeated Arkansas, 43-35, in a recent basketball game it marked the first time in 15 meetings an Aggie team had limited a Razorback quintet to fewer than 40 points.

Meat Cooking Course Here

The Animal Husbandry Department and the College Women's Social Club will sponsor a meat cookery demonstration on the campus on Feb. 13 and 14.

Miss Anna Bines of the field staff of the National Live Stock and Meat Board will conduct the demonstration.

She will prepare a lamb shoulder, broiled ham slice, Spanish pork chops, beef stew and heart analouse.

All recipes featured have been tested in the board's test kitchen and approved on the basis of their practical value to the homemaker.

Miss Bines' program will be concerned with economy, variety and appetite appeal. She will point out the importance of cooking all meat at a low temperature, stressing the wastefulness of cooking meats in too hot an oven.

She also will emphasize ways in which homemakers may take advantage of the lower-priced cuts of meat, which are fully as high in nutritive value as the more popular cuts and which can be made fully as appetizing through proper cooking methods.

The first demonstration will be held at 2 p. m. Feb. 13 in the Animal Industry lecture room, and will be open to the public. The second demonstration will be at 7 p. m. Feb. 14 and will be open only to animal husbandry meat students and their wives.

his free shot, Baylor could certainly have stalled with the ball for 61 seconds. But he missed.

Then the cool, calculating Bears held the sphere, waiting for the final seconds of play before taking a desperation shot. Howard Hovde, who had taken the place of injured Bill Hickman, found the ball in his possession with five seconds to go. He took a two-handed shot at the keyhole, and the ball fell short by two feet as regular playing time expired.

Cadets Score Early

The Aggies scored early in the overtime when Wally Moon made a lay-up after taking a bullet pass from Bill Turnbow, who found him alone under the hoop.

Heathington inveigled a foul from Turnbow as he meshed another left-handed hook-shot, but he failed to make the gift-toss.

McDowell caused Bill Strack to foul out when the Amarilloan drove for a basket. A&M moved into the lead, 50-49, with his free-throw.

Heathington made a right-hand shot and was fouled in the process, the score now standing at 50-51 with less than three minutes to play. The De Leon Bruin stepped to the free-throw line but missed the free throw only to follow up with a short jump shot, giving the Bears a three-point lead.

Bear Lead Vanishes

Garcia ripped the cords with another set-shot, and Davis sank a beautiful right handed hook shot to place the Farmers back in command, 54-53, with two minutes and six seconds left.

The score remained at 54-53 until the final 49 seconds when McDowell was charged with scraping against Gerald Cobb along the sidelines. Cobb tied the score and it seemed certain that Baylor would freeze the ball again.

However Heathington had a perfect chance to give his team a two-point lead, but he missed an easy lay-up shot. He immediately plucked his miss off the backboards but was charged with walking after returning to his feet—now only 18 seconds were left in the contest.

The 11th point Mike Garcia was forced to leave the lineup because of a charley-horse.

The Playoff

It was up to the Aggies to hold the ball for 18 seconds, and this they did. With three seconds left, the ball was slipped to McDowell who carefully eyed the hoop from 35 feet out.

He lofted the ball toward the basket as the clock hand swung past the two-second mark. Every fan breathlessly watched the flight of the sphere, for in this one shot rested A&M's chances of winning the game.

The ball split the net, A&M had won — and pandemonium broke loose as the scoreboard flashed the Aggie score up to 56—two points better than the Bears' 54.

Gray Favors District Six Cage Playoff

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 13 (AP)—Jack Gray, University of Texas basketball coach and chairman of the NCAA Regional Basketball Selection Committee, said Friday he definitely favors a playoff to settle the question of which team will represent District Six in the NCAA Regional Tournament next month at Kansas City.

"I am certainly in favor of a playoff," Gray said here on the eve of his team's meeting with Southern Methodist University.

The Houston Post had quoted Gray as implying he favored the University of Arizona as the district's representative without a playoff with the Southwest Conference champion.

Arizona is in the Border Conference. This conference and the Southwest Conference are in District Six.

"I may not have made myself too clear on that point," Gray said of the Post story. "I don't say I was misquoted. But I would like to say now that I definitely favor such a playoff."

(Sports Editor's Note: Below is the original release to which Gray was referring when he "clarified" his ideas on the playoff.)

Houston, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Houston Post tonight quoted the chairman of the Southwest NCAA basketball selection committee as saying there may be no sectional playoff this year for the national tournament.

Jack Gray, head basketball coach at the University of Texas, told the Post by telephone he personally favors the University of Arizona representing the Southwest.

Gray had been asked about the chances of the University of Houston, New Champions of the Gulf Coast Conference, qualifying for an NCAA playoff.

Houston has a record of 14 victories and six defeats.

Gray was quoted by the Post as saying "It would be difficult for the University of Houston to participate in the NCAA eliminations this year."

Gray added:

"Arizona would get my vote right now to represent the Southwest in the regional tournament in Kansas City. There doesn't appear to be any need for a playoff in the Southwest.

"Of course, I might be outvoted. There are two other members of the selection committee. "I don't think any Southwest Conference team, or the University of Houston, has a good enough record to make a playoff with Arizona necessary."

200-yard breast stroke. The young son of the head cage mentor swam a 2:36 to lead the four-man pack the entire race.

George Dieck finished third in the same event.

Using his son Van in the 440 free style, the "ole man" had to think fast and instead of using young Adamson in the final relay event, he substituted him in the 440.

Leading all the way, and never getting into serious trouble, Van Adamson swam an easy 5:25 to use up his nights eligibility, pulling the score up to 31-37 with the Aggies behind six points.

Coch Adamson and the screaming Aggie supporters finally relaxed as the last event brought victory to the team and relief to the frenzied crowd.

A&M downed the Hogs, 43-35, in DeWare Field House three weeks ago, but injuries to starters combined with playing on a hostile court would seem to indicate that the Cadets will enter the fracas as underdogs.
