

District 66-B champions, the A&M Consolidated Tigers will compete in the Region 5 tournament in Huntsville tomorrow. The Tigers defeated Milano in two straight games to enter the regional tourney. Milano had lost only one of 22 games before meeting the A&M team. Front row (l. to r.) are Manager Floyd McDonald, Bobby Williams, Jake Magee, and Bill Cooper. Standing in the back row, usual order, are James Dudley, Lloyd Gay, Bill Richards, Dick Dowell, and Coach Othel Chafin.

Sports Day Ducats Now on Sale With Full Day of Attractions Set

Tickets for the March 4 Sports Day festivities go on sale today, "T" Association President Gene Schrickel has announced. The program this year is expected to be the best one ever arranged by the athletes' organization, Schrickel said. Tickets will sell for $1.00 and the purchase of a ticket will admit the spectator to all the athletic events during the day. All members of the "T" Association have tickets to sell, Schrickel added. Perhaps of equal spectator-value will be the halftime entertainment arranged by the "T" group. Featured during the intermission activities will be the highly publicized Kilgore Junior College Rangesettes. The Kilgore band will accompany the drill team.

The Rangesettes are becoming increasingly well known throughout the country. In 1949 they performed at the halftime of the Cotton Bowl extravaganza and this year the girls were featured in the Sugar Bowl intermission show. Tops on the athletic schedule for March 4 is the Maroon-White game which will climax spring training for the football squad. The complete program includes: 1:30—SMU vs. A&M swimming meet. 2:00—A&M vs. unnamed opponent in tennis. 2:30—North Texas vs. A&M dual track meet. 4:00—Intra-squad baseball game. 7:30—Intra-squad football game.

Wild Man of the Ozarks Puts Hustle Into Maroon Athletics

By SKIP SIMMEN There's a charge of about $200 for all out of state students entering A&M College. But students and cage fans alike would gladly refund the entrance fee, plus interest, in the case of Wallace Wade Moon, A&M's Arkansas Traveler. Wally, a Bay, Arkansas native has been playing both basketball and baseball for as long as he can remember. "Probably started when I first found out I could walk," says the slow talker with the fast break. Moon attended high school at Bay until he came to Farmer's Heaven on the Brazos. Having no basketball and little baseball facilities at home, Wally shot for a home-made hoop, and played the diamond game on a vacant lot with the neighborhood kids. Went to Finals While Moon was competing on Bay High School's quintet, his group advanced to the state meet in Little Rock where they lost out to the home courtiers in a thrilling contest. His first season in organized baseball Moon clubbed the old apple at a 343 rate. That year his Jonesboro American Legion team won the district crown. Although coming to A&M primarily to compete in America's most popular pastime, Moon has been just as big a help as far as the hardwood game is concerned. Since entering Aggieldand as a freshman in '47 Moon has worked up to the starting lineup in every sport he participated in. He held down a starting cage berth most of last season and in a majority of this years contests. Moon also held down regular center field duties for A&M's sec-

Tigers Advance To Region Play; Playoffs Begin

A&M Consolidated district champion basketballers will compete this weekend in the Region 5 cage tournament at Huntsville. The winner of the eleven-team meet will enter the state playoffs at Austin. The Tigers won the District 66-B title by taking two straight contests from the winner of the South Zone competition in the district, Milano. The local five's record shows 12 wins and eight losses for the season.

Consolidated opponents in the regional tourney are Tomball, Warren, Crosby, Missouri City, Anahue, Lovelady, East Bernard, New Caney, Leona, and Sweeney. The Tigers play Anahue in the third contest Friday morning. The first game between Tomball and Warren is set for 9:30. Coach Othel Chafin will place a quintet composed of Bobby Williams, Lloyd Gay, Jake Magee, Bill Cooper, and Dick Dowell on the court. Dowell is the team's top scorer with 202 points in 17 games. The Bengals have scored a total of 684 points for a 29-point average per tilt. The Consolidated opponents could tally only 501 markers in the same games, averaging only 25 per contest.

Cutting the water at a vigorous pace is Bill Karow, this week's "Star" honor winner. Karow seems to have a very bright future as a swimmer and with such talented performers Coach

Adams can be expected to force "Tex" Robertson's Longhorn splashers right down to the wire for the loop championship.

Butterfly-stroker Cracks Record

For the second straight week Bill Karow, one of Ari Adams' more proficient splashers, has won the nod of The Battalion sports staff for the top performance of the past week (Feb. 13-18). The award for the week of Feb. 6-11 was shared by Karow, Van Adams, and Bill Sargent for the trio's fine record setting time in the 300-yd. medley relay. This past week's honors go to young Karow for his 100-yd. breast stroke victory which also set a new pool mark.

Karow Takes Star of Week

Karow's time in his win was 1:06.5, a tenth of a second lower than the previous standard posted by Johnny Crawford of Woodrow Wilson High School of Dallas in 1948. The College Station butterfly stroke artist didn't stop with just a single win, however. He took the 50-yd. freestyle with a 25.1 time and participated in two first place relays. He and his teammates Adams and Sargent overwhelmed the visiting Memphis naval airmen in the 300-yd. medley, and then Karow

No One Likely to Attempt Two Post Seasonal Tournaments

New York, Feb. 23—(AP)—Right now it doesn't appear that any of our leading college basketball teams will seek double trouble this year by trying to win both the National Invitation Tournament and the NCAA. It's probably just as well, as 'taint easy, as they say. In fact, such a double triumph never has been accomplished, although it's been tried by some of the better teams over the last dozen years. Kentucky, with an all-star cast and a fine record, tried it last year, and was only half successful. Adolph Rupp's team got itself knocked off in the quarter-finals of the invitation affair, losing to Loyola of Chicago by the convincing margin of 67-56. Wildcats Dropped Ags The Wildcats then went on to win the NCAA crown by defeating the Oklahoma Aggies, 46-36. Utah tried it in 1944, without much success. The Utes had been eliminated from the invitation tournament, by the present Kentucky quintet when they were called upon to substitute for Arkansas in the Western NCAA playoffs. Two Arkansas players had been injured seriously in an automobile accident. The Utah lads made the most of the opportunity, winning the regionals and then edging out Dartmouth, the Eastern champion, for the national crown. To give another indication of their class the Utes then came back here to whip St. Johns, the invitation tournament champions, in a Red Cross game. In 1940 the Oklahoma Aggies, who had run up a string of 25 straight victories during the season, also were overly ambitious, with the result they didn't have any luck in either of the two tournaments. Hank Iba's team was defeated by Duquesne in the invitation affair, although it took consolation honors with a victory over DePaul. Immediately after the latter game the squad flew to Oklahoma City where it lost to Kansas, with which it had split in two previous games, in the NCAA district playoffs.
