The College Station Kiwanis Club was entertained by the "Aggie-Nizers", quartet from the Singing Cadets, at their weekly luncheon in Shiba Hall yesterday.

Members of the foursome were Jim Dalton, Dale Walston, Bertrand Lambert, and Buddy Boyd who also sang several solo numbers.

In the business session of the meeting, the matter of clothing collection for underprivileged children was stressed. Some clothing has been collected according to W. M. Potts, chairman of the underprivileged committee, and is to be distributed where a real need exists.

A special request for boys shoes, sizes one through three has been made. If Kiwanis or others can supply any articles of clothing they should turn them in to one of the members of the committee or call one of the members and ask to have the articles picked up. Potts said.

Members of the committee are H. W. Hopper, R. E. Snuggs, J. D. Baty, A. R. Dunlap, R. O. Berry, Dan Davis, and D. B. Cofer.

Other business included the announcement of the sale of tickets to a benefit movie to be sponsored by the club at Guion Hall on April 10. Dick Hery and Dixie Southern are in charge of the program arrangements.

They announced that each club member will be asked to purchase or sell five tickets. A goal of 500 tickets has been set to sell for 50 cents to adults, 15 cents to children, and 30 cents to A&M students.

The movie is "Make Mine Laughs", starring Ray Bolger, Joan Davis, and Jack Haley. Money from this show goes into the club general treasury.

President Joe Motherall announced the acceptance of a challenge to a round-robin baseball tournament between the Bryan-College Station Rotary Club, the Lion's Club and the Kiwanis Club.

A special baseball tournament committee has been appointed to arrange for a team to represent the Kiwanis Club. Composing the committee are John McNeely, chairman; Flop Colson, L. S. Richardson, C. N. Smith, Ralph Rogers, Marty Karow, and W. L. Maples.

Montgomery related such experiences as his visit to the Pope, his witnessing of a communist demonstration in Rome, and an attempted suicide by a person who tried to leap from the top of the Eiffel Tower in Paris.

At the request of his audience, Montgomery showed pictures of the 1949 Aggie "T" and the Aggie Band taken at the A&M vs. S. M. U. game last year.

Consolidated Senior Play Captures Share of Laughter

By HANK BUNJES

Laughter seekers of College Station were served up a double portion of fun last night when the senior class of A&M Consolidated staged two plays in the school gymnasium.

Ignoring the numerous misuses and slowness in picking up lines, "Love Hits Wilber" and "The City Slicker and Our Nell" had them rolling in the aisles from curtain to curtain.

First play to be offered was a teen-age comedy of what happens when a thirteen-year-old boy gets struck down by the arrow of love. The one-act presentation—"Love Hits Wilber" starred Jake Magee in the title role. In support was Jean Royder as Betty Lou Maxwell, Betty O'Bannon as the girl friend Virginia, Rita Szymaszek as Connie Maxwell, Helen Byer and Gilbert Eimann in the role of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell.

Wilber despises all girls up until he chances to meet the pretty Miss Virginia. He then cleverly talks money from his parents and takes his new girl to the movie, only to be accompanied in the end with a sister.

After a brief intermission, the possible 250 present were generously treated with real, hilarious melodrama. The heart-shredder was entitled "The City Slicker and Our Nell." Though few tears were spilled for the plight of the gentle Nell, ably played by Francis Simek, the supporting cast brought down the house with a showing of some genuine comedy.

Besides Miss Simek in the cast was Edwin Hoesley, displaying talent as Violet Beard; Ernest Camp as the strong-arm paw of Nellie, Frank Beard; Gemma Dobrovoy fine in the role of Minnie Beard; Tom McDermott as the non-struck Dan Tucker; Lloyd Gay, a scream as the stupid Toby Snodgrass; Daylor Walton as the cold-hearted and suave Sheridan Douglas; Imogene Baker as the city slicker's disgruntled companion Claribel Worth; and Willie Mae McConnell as Aunt Marthy, who trapped the villain in the end.

The story concerned a deed to Nellie's private land which the city slicker was bent on obtaining. Complications it turns out for the villain when it is found that the old aunt is not so decrepit after all.

The directors for the plays were Mrs. Louise Glenn and Mrs. Muriel Orr, respectively. The plays were the official dramatic presentation for the senior class.

'Aunt Silly' Is City Offering

The comedy play, "Aunt Silly," sponsored by the Veterans of St. Anthony, will be presented in the Stephen F. Austin high school auditorium at 8 p. m. on Thursday and Friday, March 30-31.

The story is that of Sam Selum, a respectable citizen who is forced by circumstances to impersonate the long absent Cecelia Dill, known as Aunt Silly. The part of Sam is played by George Dillavou of the English department.

John Striles is the respected mayor who keeps the situation under control through the many humorous and ridiculous occurrences.

The evening's program will also include numbers by students of the Clara Howard School of Dancing and the presentation of several of Miss Doris Turek's students of the accordion.

The Business Men's Chorus of prominent local citizens will appear dressed as various women to provide one of the most humorous parts of the evening.

Admission for the play, head of ticket sales, will be $1 for adults and $0.50 for all students.

Easter Eggs To Be Hidden By Council Bunny

The annual Easter Egg hunt, sponsored by the College Station Recreation Council, will be held Wednesday, April 5th, at 1:15, according to Co-chairmen Mrs. J. C. Miller and Mrs. J. D. Lindsey.

Two separate hunts involving eight cases of eggs will occur simultaneously. Five cases of eggs will be hidden by the Girl Scouts of Troop 14 and 15, in two areas in the small park west of Throckmorton Street.

All pre-school children of the College Station area will participate in the hunt in one of these areas. This includes the children of students and anyone else in College Station, Mrs. Miller said.

The first four grades of Consolidated school will hunt in the other half of the park, closer to Jersey Street.

Three cases of eggs will be looked for by the children of the Negro school at a site near the school.

Eggs, furnished by the Recreation Council, will be dyed by the home economics classes of Consolidated.

Prize eggs will be among those hidden and will be good for prizes from local merchants, Mrs. Miller concluded.

Scout's Parents Hold Meeting

Twenty-two mothers and fathers of members of Boy Scout Troop 102 of College Station held a get-together meeting with the Troop Monday evening in the American Legion Hall.

George Rivers, assistant scoutmaster, will handle the Troop during Mr. Manning's absence. Both Manning and Rivers are in the research division of Texas A&M's Department of Agronomy.

A. C. Magee, Troop representative on the Scout district committee, announced preliminary plans to take the Troop on an outing of several days to some Texas summer vacation area.

Following the parents' meeting, the Troop held tenderfoot investiture services for Jack McNeely. He made the 39th boy in Troop 102.

Dayton Moses was given an award as the best camper in the Troop during 1949.

The Otter Patrol had the best time in a water-boiling contest staged among the patrols of the Troop. David Parsons is the leader of this patrol.
