- Aggies Sweep Series - College Station, Bryan Declare Festival Day

he replaced Mathes with one man out in the ninth.

A&M 6, TCU 4

In the final game the atmosphere was gloomy, but the game was enlightening to A&M's fans.

A four-run homer by John DeWitt in the first inning, a two-run double by Shug McPherson in the fifth, and effective relief hurling by George Brown and Pat Hubert gave A&M a 6-4 victory.

The game featured Frog stalling tactics and the ousting of Coach Walter Roach and trainer Pete Donahue because of a heated and prolonged protest with plate umpire Jess Bonneau in the fourth.

DeWitt's Blow Deadly

The Ags continued their heavy first-inning scoring when Joe Savarino and Wally Moon walked McPherson was hit by pitcher John Swaim, and John DeWitt powered his third conference homer over the left field barrier.

The Frogs bounced back in the second, collecting two runs off three hits from starter Blanton Taylor.

Realizing the game would have to go four and one-half innings before declared official, TCU players tied their shoes many times, gave the ball extra massages, adjusted bases, and engaged in extraneous controversies between themselves and the umpires, waiting vainly for rain to rescue them.

TCU Indifferent

TCU's half of the fifth was the longest three outs played on Kyle Field this year. The hectic stint, in which the game was tied, started when Roach and Donahue were waved off the playing field after declaring that Swaim was hit by Taylor.

After six minutes of frantic weaving of heads, determined gestures of arms, verbs, and verbosity, Bonneau gave TCU's brain trust the thumb.

After Herb Hayes walked and James Nolan singled, the rhabarb was renewed when Fred Smith was called out as he stepped across

Frogs Stampede

The entire TCU squad stampeded toward Bonneau who decided to umpire Ag home games at the beginning of the season because it would be a relaxation from his regular job of taming rebellious players in the East Texas League.

Finally, after having the final word with the swarming Frogs, play was resumed until the next Purple batter reached the plate.

Boyd Beefs

Taylor came close to Jim Boyd with a blazing fast ball. Boyd claimed the ball hit him, and after failing to get the decision from Bonneau, rushed out to base ump Jim Tongate for his opinion.

May Day Marchers Peril Shaky World Situation

Communists and anti-communists squared off today for rival celebrations on May Day, the International Labor Day.

Parades, speeches and giant demonstrations will mark the holiday in divided Europe, part of Asia and many other industrial centers of the world, with the focus of attention on split Berlin.

Western commanders in the German city ordered their troops confined in their barracks but ready in case of an explosive outbreak. West Berlin planned a mass demonstration by 500,000 before the burned-out Reichstag as a direct challenge to German communists. The rally flaunted the slogan, "unity through freedom."

A mile away, communists shepherded a rally expected to approach 400,000 on Unter den Linden and in the Lustgarten. Western commanders look for some sign as to how far the communists were prepared to go in inching Soviet ideology westward when 500,000 free German youth conduct their heralded communist "march on Berlin" during the Whitsun weekend of May 26-28. Grim warnings from Washington said machine-guns will be used, if necessary, to control violent tactics.

Began Last Night

Hundreds of Soviet zone Germans began May Day activity last night by marching up to the border of the American zone at Tettau carrying lighted torches and singing Communist songs.

The Soviet zone marchers were mostly from 16 to 20 years old and numbered about 800.
