

Fifteen Architects Return from Tour

Fifteen A&M architecture students have returned from a California trip, which included, among many other things, a chat with famed architect Frank Lloyd Wright and a race with a West Texas tornado.

The students, along with Prof. H. S. Ransom, arrived in College Station Friday and Saturday, traveling four each in four college cars.

Leaving A&M on April 13, the group went its longest distance to reach Van Horn—580 miles—where they spent the night.

Visit Wright

The next day brought on Phoenix, Arizona. There they visited the desert, summer home of architect Wright, probably the world's most outstanding figure in architecture.

After a four-hour visit at the home, including an hour with the 80-year architectural Allah, they met with an A&M graduate of 1948, Harry Saunders. Saunders employed by Los Angeles architect A. Quincy Jones, conducted the group on a tour of new building in the Arizona city.

The tour included a residence designed by Quincy, which Saunders was supervising and a member of the "Desert House."

Arriving in Palm Springs, Cal., on April 16, they visited the famous "Desert House" by Los Angeles architect Richard Neutra. Estimated cost of the building is $325,000. There they also saw the home of Raymond Loewy, industrial designer.

Another day in Palm Springs and then to the metropolis itself—Los Angeles. The students visited Neutra's work, his office and home, with a short chat with the architect. Another graduate, Bob Simpson, met with the student architects. He has been employed by Neutra for several years.

Baylor Concert Program Is Set By Conductor

The program for the Baylor Symphony concert to be given at the Grove at 8 p. m., May 8, has been announced by Conductor Gid Waldrop.

The opening of the concert will be "Fingal's Cave" overture by Mendelssohn, one of the early examples of the concert overture.

Next will be heard the perennial favorites, "Dancing in the Dark" by Arthur Schwartz and "The Man I Love" by George Gershwin.

The first portion of the concert will conclude with "Capriccio Espagnole" by Rimsky-Korsakov. A rhapsody, the Spanish Caprice is an example of 19th Century romanticism.

Following intermission, the orchestra will present the second and fourth movements of Beethoven's Symphony No. 7 in A Major. Wagner and Liszt have referred to this symphony as "the apotheosis of the dance."

The program will conclude with "Tales from the Vienna Woods", one of the best-known examples of the music of Johann Strauss, the Waltz King of Vienna.

The program, sponsored by the Student Activities office, will be free of charge and all music lovers are invited to attend, according to Grady Elms, assistant director of student activities.

Aggie Ex Files For State Post

Penrose B. Metcalfe '16, former legislator and a member of the Democratic State Executive Committee, is a candidate for the state board of education.

Metcalfe, who is a member of A&M's Diamond Jubilee Celebration Committee, announced his candidacy for the 21st District place Monday night. Dr. George W. Morgan of San Angelo, who was elected to the place in a special election last year, has stated he will not seek re-election.

Metcalfe was an animal husbandry major while at A&M and is an attorney and rancher in San Angelo. He has been active in A&M affairs for many years and is a frequent visitor to the campus.

Aggie Ex Files For State Post

Penrose B. Metcalfe '16, former legislator and a member of the Democratic State Executive Committee, is a candidate for the state board of education.

Metcalfe, who is a member of A&M's Diamond Jubilee Celebration Committee, announced his candidacy for the 21st District place Monday night. Dr. George W. Morgan of San Angelo, who was elected to the place in a special election last year, has stated he will not seek re-election.

Metcalfe was an animal husbandry major while at A&M and is an attorney and rancher in San Angelo. He has been active in A&M affairs for many years and is a frequent visitor to the campus.

McDonald Files Again

Corsicana, Tex., May 3.—(AP)—J. E. McDonald yesterday filed his candidacy for re-election to an eleventh term as State Commissioner of Agriculture.

McDonald announced earlier this year he would retire at the end of his current term. He changed his mind later.

His application to State Democratic Chairman John C. Calhoun was accompanied by his $100 filing fee.

Play Cancelled

The Aggie Players' production of "O Mistress Mine" scheduled to begin tonight, has been postponed until further notice, according to George Dillavou, director.

Mrs. Jeanne Kernodle, one of the leading actresses, has entered the hospital with an attack of appendicitis, he said.

Announcement of the schedule for the play will be made as soon as possible in The Battalion.

Phi Eta Sigma Has Initiation

Initiation ceremonies will be held tonight at 5 p. m. in the Physics Lecture Room for 104 new members of the Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary society, with the annual banquet to follow in Sbia Hall at 7:30 p. m.

Professor J. W. Smith, associate faculty advisor, will be in charge of the initiation. Dr. John Paul Abbott, dean of the school of Arts and Sciences, is faculty advisor to the Phi Eta Sigma. The present membership totals 86.

Phi Eta Sigma officers are V. R. Burch, president; Eric W. Carlson, vice-president; Paul J. Fleming, secretary; Glenn Lippman, treasurer, and Ernest A. Elmen-dorf, historian. They will aid in the initiation.

J. W. Dalston will give the invocation at the banquet and V. R. Burch will give a welcoming speech. Principle speaker of the evening will be Dr. T. D. Brooks, dean emeritus of the graduate school. Dr. Abbott will close the speech making.

Honorary initiates of the chapter are Professor J. R. Bertrand, assistant to the dean of Agriculture; Dr. Brooks, and Professor C. H. Ransdell, assistant to the Dean of the College for the Annex.

Play Cancelled

The Aggie Players' production of "O Mistress Mine" scheduled to begin tonight, has been postponed until further notice, according to George Dillavou, director.

Mrs. Jeanne Kernodle, one of the leading actresses, has entered the hospital with an attack of appendicitis, he said.

Announcement of the schedule for the play will be made as soon as possible in The Battalion.

McDonald Files Again

Corsicana, Tex., May 3.—(AP)—J. E. McDonald yesterday filed his candidacy for re-election to an eleventh term as State Commissioner of Agriculture.

McDonald announced earlier this year he would retire at the end of his current term. He changed his mind later.

His application to State Democratic Chairman John C. Calhoun was accompanied by his $100 filing fee.

Phi Eta Sigma Has Initiation

Initiation ceremonies will be held tonight at 5 p. m. in the Physics Lecture Room for 104 new members of the Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary society, with the annual banquet to follow in Sbia Hall at 7:30 p. m.

Professor J. W. Smith, associate faculty advisor, will be in charge of the initiation. Dr. John Paul Abbott, dean of the school of Arts and Sciences, is faculty advisor to the Phi Eta Sigma. The present membership totals 86.

Phi Eta Sigma officers are V. R. Burch, president; Eric W. Carlson, vice-president; Paul J. Fleming, secretary; Glenn Lippman, treasurer, and Ernest A. Elmen-dorf, historian. They will aid in the initiation.

J. W. Dalston will give the invocation at the banquet and V. R. Burch will give a welcoming speech. Principle speaker of the evening will be Dr. T. D. Brooks, dean emeritus of the graduate school. Dr. Abbott will close the speech making.

Honorary initiates of the chapter are Professor J. R. Bertrand, assistant to the dean of Agriculture; Dr. Brooks, and Professor C. H. Ransdell, assistant to the Dean of the College for the Annex.

Play Cancelled

The Aggie Players' production of "O Mistress Mine" scheduled to begin tonight, has been postponed until further notice, according to George Dillavou, director.

Mrs. Jeanne Kernodle, one of the leading actresses, has entered the hospital with an attack of appendicitis, he said.

Announcement of the schedule for the play will be made as soon as possible in The Battalion.

Joseph, Pianta, Molberg Elected by Junior Class

By JOHN WHITMORE

Don Joseph and Jim Pianta were elected senior yell leaders in a junior class meeting held last night in the Chemistry Lecture Room.

Carl Molberg with 189 votes won the athletic council race. He was the only other man who was elected outright. Molberg beat out Bob Fitts who had 182 votes. The remainder of the offices will be decided in a run off to be held next Thursday. W. D. "Pusher" Barnes, president of the junior class said this morning.

Dare Keelan and Joe Johnson will be in the run-off for president of the senior class. Lloyd Manjeet was edged out of the race by 3 votes. Keelan had 186 votes, Johnson had 189. Manjeet had 186 votes out of the 401 votes cast.

The Bill Parse, with 147 votes, and Ralph Gorman, with 125 votes, nuged Noble Clark out of the vice-presidential race. Clark had 123 votes.

David Haines and Gale Brundrett will be in the run-off for secretary-treasurer. Haines had 128 votes while Brundrett followed by one vote with 127. Bob Noble had 70 votes and Herb Mills had 72.

Secretary-Treasurer Race

Kenneth Schaake will oppose John Gossett in the Thursday election. Schaake had 129 votes while Gossett had 135. Hinton trailed with 128 votes.

All of the votes were counted twice, Barnes said. The second count checked exactly with that of the first count.

Gordon Edgar will go into the run-off against George Charlton for class historian. Charlton had 116 votes to Edgar's 189. Robert Corbett followed with 105 votes.

In the yell-leader race Joseph amassed 320 votes and Pianta 241. Bill Richey followed with 179. This was one of the two offices filled out-right in last night's election.

These additional run-offs were voted upon in the meeting last night. A motion was made to select the man getting the most votes, but the floor decided to select the man by a majority.

Bob Allen and Doyce Aaron were selected to go into the run-off for non-corps vice-president by a vote of 150 for Allen and 73 for Aaron. Charles Pickens received 57 votes, Ray Williams 33, and Jerry Zuber 53.

Non-Corps Run-off

The position of non-corps vice-president was established in a meeting held last Thursday night. According to the motion made and passed at the meeting, the non-corps vice-president would have no vote in the 1950-51 Student Senate. The man elected would serve in an advisory capacity only. Voting only on class affairs.

Votes were tabulated and rechecked by the election committee under the supervision of Barnes. Members of the election committee are Bill Dunlop, John Mayfield, Jack Jones, Dick Kelly, Bill Noll, and Audrey Frederick.

Ballots were passed out at the meeting and candidates names were written in from a list on the blackboard.

With construction progressing on the Memorial Student Center, scheduled to open this fall, the MSC Council will be the group which will share some of the immediate headaches with director J. Wayne Stark. Members of the council are, left to right, Hal Stringer, Herb Beutel, Dick Ingels, LeVon Massengale, J. C. Wallace, J. C.

McNew, Jr., Dan Davis, and Joe Fuller; back row, Dr. J. H. Quisenberry, P. B. Goode, Sid Lovelless, Dr. W. H. Delaplane, John Rowlett, J. B. "Dick" Hervey, and C. A. Roebber. The board consists of eight students, five faculty members, and two former students.

Crippled Children Organization Set

By DALE WALSTON

Organization of the Fifth Annual Crippled Children's Clinic to be held in the A&M Hospital May 8 has been announced by Daniel Russell, Chairman of the Crippled Children's Clinic.

The clinic will feature many kinds of specialists. Serving as consultants to the crippled youngsters of 11 surrounding counties, the group of doctors will include orthopedic specialists, neurologists, plastic surgeons, speech therapists, and pediatricians.

Children who have had burns, or children marked at birth or from injuries, who can be helped by plastic surgery have been especially invited to the clinic. Registration begins at 8 a. m. and ends at 12 noon.

Tickets on Sale For May Ring Dance-Banquet

Tickets for the Senior Ring Dance and Banquet will go on sale Thursday at 1 p. m. in the Agricultural office in Goodwin Hall, according to Phil Parker, chairman of the ticket committee.

Banquet tickets will be $1.50 per person, and dance tickets will be $3 per couple, including $1 for the class gift.

Tickets to go through the ring are $2 if pictures are wanted. This entitles the buyer to two 8 x 10 portraits. Persons not wanting pictures will be issued last number and will go through the ring last, Parker said.

The tickets will be arranged by schedule and sold on a first come, first serve basis, he said. They will be available daily from 1:5 p. m. through May 11, and will be sold on days to be announced after that time.

Parker advised that those preferring to go through the ring early buy tickets at the earliest possible date. The schedule must be strictly adhered to in order to finish on time, he said.

The schedule of hours for the numbered tickets to go through the ring will be announced in The Battalion at a later date.

The tickets will include space for announcements of engagement, Barker said.

Dean Kyle Painting Unveiling Tomorrow

By B. F. ROLAND

Edwin J. Kyle, dean emeritus of the School of Agriculture, will be honored here at 2 p. m., tomorrow when a portrait of him will be presented to the college by a group of his friends and associates.

Dean Kyle, now retired and living in Bryan, was United States Ambassador to Guatemala from 1945 until his retirement from the State Department in 1948.

The program will be held in the YMCA Chapel, with an informal reception following in the South Solarium. John C. Mayfield, Houston executive and civic leader, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Summer School Registration Set Thursday

Registration for summer courses will begin Thursday, May 4, at 3 p. m., according to the Office of the Registrar. An estimated 1,500 students are expected to register for the summer session at this time.

Although the registration is tentatively scheduled to take place from 3 until 5, registration will continue until all the students registering at this time have been registered, H. L. Heaton, registrar, said.

The Registrar's office expects a summer enrollment of 2,500. Students should register for their rooms for the summer session prior to 5 p. m. Wednesday afternoon to avoid congestion, according to Bennie A. Zinn, assistant dean of students.

If the students will register for their rooms in advance, Zinn estimated that it would not take them more than thirty minutes to complete their registration Thursday afternoon.

There have been approximately 200 students who have registered for dormitory rooms and an estimated 100 students who have registered as day students to date.

Zinn said that there would be approximately 1,400 dormitory rooms available in dormitories 14, 15, 16, 17, and in Milner and Walton Halls. College apartments and trailers are available for 800 day students.

Three Heads, Yet . . .

The first thing that caught my attention was the fact that the creature sported three heads, and I immediately began to wonder if the registrar would divide one of his grade-point ratio by three if one had three heads. The head on my left spoke. "What's the name of this place?" "Texas A&M College," I said proudly, holding my hand so that beams from the street light would reflect from my senior ring.

"Don't know where a fellow could pick-up a cute brunette, do you?" the head continued.

"And a blond," the middle head added.

"And a red-head," the right head chimed in.

"You're new around here," I observed scientifically.

"Just arrived a few minutes ago," the talkative left head said. "I, that is, we, were on our way to Venus when we developed carburetor trouble and had to make a forced landing."

It was at this juncture that one of the alert KK's emerged from the shadow of a tree.

"Say, Mac," the KK said, stooping over to address the stranger, "can't you read that this space is reserved for military vehicles only?" What kind of a car is that anyway? One of them foreign makes? I don't see no campus tag, either."

"Look, officer," I butted in. "This is one of those flying saucers. And three heads! Say, Mac, have you been drinkin'?" Sherlock was really on the ball. "Well, let's see," the officer continued, taking out his pencil and ticket book. "No campus tag, illegal parking, and drunkenness. Oh, ho, ho. I should get back on the day shift for this." And tucking the ticket neatly in a jet exhaust, the officer left.

Summer School Registration Set Thursday

Registration for summer courses will begin Thursday, May 4, at 3 p. m., according to the Office of the Registrar. An estimated 1,500 students are expected to register for the summer session at this time.

Although the registration is tentatively scheduled to take place from 3 until 5, registration will continue until all the students registering at this time have been registered, H. L. Heaton, registrar, said.

The Registrar's office expects a summer enrollment of 2,500. Students should register for their rooms for the summer session prior to 5 p. m. Wednesday afternoon to avoid congestion, according to Bennie A. Zinn, assistant dean of students.

If the students will register for their rooms in advance, Zinn estimated that it would not take them more than thirty minutes to complete their registration Thursday afternoon.

There have been approximately 200 students who have registered for dormitory rooms and an estimated 100 students who have registered as day students to date.

Zinn said that there would be approximately 1,400 dormitory rooms available in dormitories 14, 15, 16, 17, and in Milner and Walton Halls. College apartments and trailers are available for 800 day students.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Senate Will Hold Final Meeting

This semester's final meeting of the Student Senate is scheduled for Thursday night at 7:30 in the senate room of the YMCA, according to Lloyd Manjeet, Senate secretary.

The TISA convention report will be given at this time.

Plans will be made for the annual banquet. All members of the Student Senate are requested to attend, Manjeet said.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs in the advertising field, but finding no immediate openings, were advised by a top Houston ad man to get in any field of selling or any field related to selling, last night in the last of the Journalism Department-sponsored speech series.

DeVan H. Dumas, local advertising manager of the Houston Chronicle, was the speaker, and he said a knowledge of what makes people buy, and refuse to buy, was essential to good salesmanship and could only be acquired by direct contact.

Dumas spoke to a group of forty-five Journalism students, and others interested in advertising, in the assembly room of the YMCA.

In addition to his advice on getting into the field, he outlined the duties of the principal jobs in newspaper advertising.

Citing the results of several market surveys sponsored by his paper, Dumas said these studies were disproving many of the old theories of balance of buying and appeals to various income groups.

In discussion after his speech Dumas said Houston was being rapidly swamped by people from across the state and nation who have been influenced by the tremendous amount of publicity given to Houston's prosperity. This results in there being several people waiting for every job and, even with Houston's great growth, there being a job shortage.

Learn Selling, Says Ad Man

Students desiring jobs