

'Indianhead Patch' Division Is Prepared to Battle Again

By HAL BOYLE

New York—(AP)—The guy who wears a badge that looks like the other side of a buffalo nickel is going overseas again—ready to fight for America.

He's done it before, he's ready now, and he'll do it anytime he's called on.

Who is he? He's the guy with the Indianhead patch on his shoulder—the GI Joes who have worn this emblem of the Second Infantry Division proudly and with great combat success in two world wars.

It's a famous division. Everyone in the Army knows it—and knows its record. It has been alerted at its Fort Lewis, Wash., base to get ready to go to the Far East.

Warm Memories

And this news today must send a thrill of warm memory through tens of thousands of Americans of two generations. Some who served with the Second Infantry at the Argonne in 1918 had sons who went with it from the hedgerows of Normandy to the river Elbe between 1944 and 1945.

I don't know who posed for the profile Indian view of their emblem—Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse, Geronimo, or a tired old buck from a weary reservation in upper New York State.

But this I know about the Second

Infantry Division from a long acquaintance—a year in wartime equals a lifetime of peace, and just a bit more—and that is this:

The wearers of the Indianhead patch are an emergency outfit. Like their shoulder-to-shoulder comrades in Europe, the equally famous "Fighting First" Infantry Division, they are an old-line regular Army outfit. On their performance depends the professional reputation of the professional American Army.

Will Deliver

They are used to delivering in emergencies. They have a pride of arms, a tradition of performance in battle, a morale in being, that measure our military strength as a nation.

It is true that they may be sent to the Pacific area as occupation troops in Japan to replace the 24th Infantry Division units summoned temporarily or permanent, as the needs of the situation develop. But I am sure that General MacArthur will be less lonely to have them under command. For the tradition that this unit has is what top commanders like to rely on—when the cards are down, the die is cast.

They want to have under them a division that has proved itself in battle. Wouldn't you, if you were going to boss a big fight? Only 82 of the present 15,000 men in the division marched with it through France and Germany. But they are a hard solid core of trained men to pass on to the youngsters the Second Division's tradition of standing firm in time of trouble.

Word From the Wise

If they do meet the test again, I can imagine a veteran sergeant telling a boy swept by his first fear of death:

"You think it's tough now, kid? Just about five years and eight months ago we were parked near the German-Belgian border. We looked out on a snowy December Day and damned if it didn't seem like they were throwing the whole Nazi Army against us.

"We were on the northern shoulder helping protect Leige, our big supply dump. And if they'd got through us the war would have gone on some longer. They hit us with every damned thing they could think of—tanks, and artillery and infantry and even spies wearing our uniforms and riding in captured American jeeps. You couldn't even tell a buddy from an enemy—for sure.

"But we held them. They didn't get through." Hell, we knocked out German tanks by setting fire to gasoline cans and dropping 'em on them from command headquarters.

Top honors in the girls intermediate 100-yard breaststroke at the CS swimming meet went to, left to right, runner-up Louise McKinney of Nacogdoches; winner Jane Kneip of San Antonio, who set a new record; and third place Martha Ergle of CS. Miss Kneip broke two records in the meet and swam on a relay which set another.

Traditional Dishes Find Place in Anderson Home

By BETTY POTTER

If you have ever been to a party at the Anderson home, then I won't have to tell you why Mrs. Frank Anderson wins the undisputed title "one of the best" cooks.

Mrs. Anderson is also a perfect hostess of the Old South variety. She has all the required characteristics for which southern hospitality is famous: personal charm, vivacious personality, and friendly disposition.

Mrs. Anderson is the wife of Coach Frank Anderson, coach of the Aggie track team. She is also the mother of two sons, Rusty and Wally. These are three good reasons why Mrs. Anderson is the good cook and hostess she is noted to be.

Inherited Ability

Mrs. Anderson inherited her ability from her mother who has a similar reputation as a good cook and hostess in Tennessee. She has consented to pass several of the family heirlooms to you.

Chicken-a-la-King was the recipe for which her mother was famous. She wanted it to be a perfect dish; consequently she had a strict ritual to follow to make it perfect. Here it is:

Boil one young chicken until it is tender. Take it out of the chicken liquor and cut in pieces as for salad.

Into liquid put a cup of rich fresh cream. (Fresh because it comes from her mother's own cow "Brass.")

Thicken with a little flour. Add one large can of mushrooms. Cut in quarters, add one small can of French peas and one small can of pimentos cut very fine. Lastly the chicken. Season to taste with salt and white pepper.

"What little mixing is done, do it with a silver fork," Mrs. Anderson's mother recommends.

Chicken-a-la-King

The chicken-a-la-King may either be served in patties on pastry shells or in a noodle ring.

The noodle ring is made with:

1 package of noodles
3 eggs
1 cup of milk
dash of salt and pepper
2 tablespoons of ketchup
1 cup of grated Cheddar cheese
1/2 tablespoon of Worcestershire Sauce

Cook the noodles and drain. Beat the eggs well, combining them with other ingredients. Add this mixture to noodles and pour into buttered ring mold. Set this in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Unmold carefully onto a large platter and fill with chicken-a-la-king.

Another old Tennessee recipe which has been in Coach Anderson's family for a long time is this recipe for Chess pie:

1 1/4 cups sugar
3 egg yolks (when made with meringue)
or 2 yolks and one egg (when made without meringue)
1/2 cup of butter
1/2 cup of milk
2 level tablespoons of flour
1/2 teaspoon of pure vanilla
pinch of salt

Pour into unbaked pastry and bake it slowly. The meringue is made by adding two tablespoons of sugar to each egg white.

Chess Pie

This Chess pie is also called Jeff Davis Pie and is served at all the gala occasions in the Anderson home.

The favorite for Thanksgiving, Christmas, and any other special occasion at Mrs. Anderson's home is a plum pudding. It was the family tradition to trot down the stairs on Christmas morning and stir a wish into a plum pudding. This wish assured them of a good year.

The pudding was then put into a domestic bag. This was made into a ball shape, and the pudding was boiled in the bag. It was hung on a particular nail in the butler's pantry where it dripped until the late dinner hour.

The plum pudding was put in a platter and alcohol poured over it and set ablaze. Balanced almonds sprinkled over the pudding presented a porcupine effect.

Ambrosia Ends Feast

The finished product was brought to the table in a blue flaming blaze. This was not the grand finale, however, this was the first dessert. Ambrosia always ended any feast in Mrs. Anderson's home. They made it with orange slices, fresh coconut, pineapple, and bananas.

Ambrosia is a big favorite with the Coach and the boys these hot summer days. It is hard to pick a favorite because everything is so good when Mrs. Anderson is on kitchen duty.

With her inherited cooking talent, Mrs. Anderson keeps busy carrying on the family traditions.

Aggie, Tessie Bride-elect Feted At Burgess Home

Miss Lou Ann Smith, bride-elect of Bill Welch, was the honoree at several parties this week. She was entertained Friday afternoon with a kitchen shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hershall Burgess in Oakwood.

Miss Joyce Patranella and Miss Lou Burgess met the guests at the door. Mrs. Luke Patranella and Mrs. Hershall Burgess served the tiny cream-puffs filled with chicken salad, olives, cake and punch. Thirty friends of the honoree shared the courtesy with the honoree hostesses. Gifts for the bride's kitchen were discovered in the "bride's pantry" which the hostesses had placed in the living room.

Mrs. W. M. Potts, 210 Lee Street in Oakwood, also entertained Miss Smith with a shower in her home on Tuesday morning. Miss Smith will become the bride of Bill Welch of Woodboro on August 12th.

Rex Harrison was best man and the ushers were Will Weatherford and Bob Weatherford, Houston; Don Minahan, Garland, and Tom Bill Kelly, Ennis. George Tubbs of Ennis and Colyse Edwin Cloud of Garland ushered.

Mr. and Mrs. Womack will live in College Station.

Local Outing Set to Begin At 6 Tomorrow

Interest is running high for the second community picnic of the season, sponsored tomorrow night by the College Station Recreation Council, according to C. G. "Spike" White, council chairman.

Picnic Chairman Donald D. Burchard has arranged a program with something of interest for every age group, White said. Committee chairman will be on hand to see that every phase of the program operates as smoothly as possible.

Festivities will open with a triple-header softball game at 5:30 a. m. on the diamonds across from St. Thomas Episcopal Church. Goddard is in charge of the softball activities.

At 6 Dan Davis will call out all roller skating fans, regardless of sex or age. He will be assisted by Joe Campbell. Along about 6:30 or when the ball games are over, family picnics will get under way, with much visiting between tables and blankets around the Patranella Slab, and among those who choose to eat in the A&M School football stadium, White said.

Lee Thompson will tune up his fiddlers (via latest records) at 8 and square and "round" dancing will hold until curfew at 10. Also at 8, said White, Otho Chafin will turn on his motion picture projector and show reels of cartoons and comedies for the small fry, in the school gym.

"Everything is free, except the soft drinks at five cents," White added. "Taylor Wilkins will be on hand with a plentiful supply of ice water and paper cups."
