

Ed Garner Marks Six Years at Co-op

By FRANK DAVIS

Ed Garner of the Student Co-op looks over some baseball gloves from his sporting goods department with Jack Burns and Richard Miller.

"You name it and the Student Co-op has it," has become a familiar saying around the campus at A&M and College Station since the Co-op was taken over by Ed Garner in 1944.

Located on the Sulphur Springs Road at North Gate, the Student Co-op was established in 1931 by H. H. Hickman who ran it until 1944 when Garner bought him out.

Until Garner took over, the Co-op had been strictly a book store with a small radio repair shop. Garner added a sporting goods department in 1946 after securing a MacGregor franchise on tennis and golf equipment.

Repair Shop Expanded

The radio repair shop was expanded in 1948 from one test set to include the latest equipment for repairing any make radio and television set.

"The Student Co-op is the only radio repair shop in College or Bryan that has an oscilloscope, necessary for alignment of television sets," Garner said.

The latest addition to the store was made last year when Garner put in key duplicating equipment.

Primarily Book Store

Even with sporting goods and radio repair departments, the Co-op is still primarily a book store.

At the beginning of each semester, Garner finds it necessary to increase his regular staff of three to ten. During the periods when books are not moving rapidly, Garner's staff includes his brother-in-law, Ernest Patton and Cecil Sims, radio repair man.

Extra Employees

In September, however, six extra students are employed at the Co-op. At such times Mrs. Garner helps out also.

Garner came to A&M as a student in business finance in 1934. After receiving his degree in finance in 1938, Garner worked two years for Firestone Tire and Rubber Company.

In 1940, homesickness for Aggie and his wife, the former Alice Scottes of College Station, caused Garner to retrace his footsteps to College Station.

After two years as a clerk in the Fiscal Office at A&M, Garner bought out Hickman who was anxious to retire.

Garner and his wife live on West Park Street, and they have two children, Dan, who is seven, and Candace, five.

With hopes that no more drainage problems will cause people at the Church Street - Main Street intersection any more trouble, the city is currently grading and cutting down the level of the street and ditches so near flood conditions will not exist at this spot everytime a large rain falls.

Rehersal Dinner Fetes Bridal Party

The home of the R. L. Hunts in College Park was the scene of a rehearsal dinner Friday evening in honor of Miss Lou Ann Smith and her fiance, Bill Welch. Mrs. R. L. Hunt and Mrs. W. E. Street were co-hostesses.

The guest list included the following members of the wedding party: Miss Jane Wilson, maid of honor, Miss Anna Jean Godbey, Nancy Jane Reynolds, Lou Burgess, and Barbara Allen of Detroit, Texas, bridesmaids.

Other guests were Lois Fowler and Pam Avery, flower girls; Les Quinn of Woodboro, best man, J. T. Freeman, and Truman Smith of Abilene, Bill Wales of Refugio, and Bob Smith of Bryan, ushers. David Smith, brother of the bride-to-be, will be ring bearer.

The Reverend James Fowler, minister of the Church of Christ of College Station, will read the ceremony at 7 p. m. Saturday at the Oaks in Bryan. Miss Sari Price of Kaufman will sing the bridal solo accompanied by Mrs. Imogene Nash Robertson.

'We Plead Guilty' But Under Force

Troy, N. C., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Two dogs brought their mistress a message yesterday.

When the pointed and cocker spaniel wandered home, their owner found little wooden plaques attached to their collars. Written in ink on the wood were the words: "I have been eating your neighbor's chickens."

The woman locked up her dogs and went looking for the note writer. She found him and paid him for nine fryers.

Prospective Brides Given Buffet Lunch

Five August brides-to-be were honored Thursday at noon with a luncheon at the home of Mrs. George E. Potter. The honorees named were Miss Lucille Rickett, Miss Jane Wilson, Miss Lou Ann Smith, Miss Nancy Reynolds and Miss Joyce Engelbrecht.

A bridal party of shell dolls made up the centerpiece. The table was covered by linen cutwork cloth. The luncheon guests were served buffet style.

The guest list included the brides-to-be and their bridal attendants: Misses Sara Price, Barbara Allen of Detroit, Texas, Jo Ann Ewing of Dallas, Patsy Bonnen, La Verne Hunt, Viola Westbrook, Lou Burgess, Jean Black, Anna Jean Godby, Elsie Gray, Marge Parker, Frances Simek and Betty Potter.

Each honoree was presented with a gift of a piece of her chosen crystal.

August Brides Honored Saturday

Phyllis McFadden and Tylene Jensen, August brides-to-be, were honored with a dinner party Saturday evening. Co-hostesses for the affair were Mrs. John Mitchell and Miss Caroline Mitchell.

Dinner was served by candle light. Corsages of white carnations were presented to the honorees, and gifts of flat silver were given to Miss McFadden and Miss Jensen by the hostesses.
