

Dr. F. C. Bolton

Dr. Bolton retired last June as active president of the college after 41 years service to A&M. He was named president emeritus on his retirement and now serves the college in an advisory capacity.

Colonel in Korea Wants Texas Flag from Shivers

Somewhere in Korea, Sept. 7—(AP)—Memo to Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas:

Lt. Col. C. H. Scott of the Air Forces in Korea wants a Texas flag to fly with him over Korea.

He is sending you a letter requesting that the Lone Star emblem be sent to him immediately. The letter says that Col. Scott has "not had any peace of mind" since a fellow officer received a confederate flag from North Carolina.

The Confederate stars and bars was sent to Maj. William H. Booth of Syracuse, N. Y. Maj. Booth's wife is the former Mary G. Hines of Rutherfordton, N. C.

Summing up his plea, Scott wrote: "I request you, Gov. Shivers to send me posthaste a Texas flag to fly over my head day and night."

And He Gets It . . .

Austin, Tex., Sept. 7—(AP)—Memo to Lt. Col. C. H. Scott of the U. S. Air Forces somewhere in Korea:

Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas is gonna send you that Texas flag. "And pronto-quick," the governor said.

Shivers said he hasn't received that letter Colonel Scott wrote asking for the proud banner of the Lone Star State—the Lone Star that flew when Texas was a republic.

Basic Division Set to Function

Turgers University, University of Arkansas, and the University of Texas.

Dr. Albert J. Kingston, who recently received his Ph. D. in applied psychology from Cornell University, was named director of remedial reading for the Division. An Air Force veteran, Dr. Kingston has served as training officer for the Veterans' Administration, assistant in the Remedial Reading Clinic at Cornell and vocational appraiser of the Cornell Guidance Center.

Ransdell is Assistant

Clifford H. Ransdell, associate professor of engineering drawing here and former assistant to the dean of the college at the Annex, has been named assistant to Bertrand. He will be in charge of coordinating group guidance for students including organized orientation classes.

Five other men have been appointed by the commandant to work with the Division's staff. They will serve as tactical officers, except that added emphasis will be placed on aid and guidance for the students in each of their dorms.

Tactical Officers

Major E. P. Ozment, a recent graduate of the University of Texas who studied guidance and counseling work, will serve as counselor in Dorm 14. Lt. Col. Frank Vaden, tactical officer for Dorms 3, 5, and 7 last year, will have his offices in Dorm 15.

Major W. B. Wood, counselor for Dorm 16, is a former tactical officer from the Annex. Captain Frank McFarland, Dorm 17's counselor, is a recent Columbia University graduate. Lt. Col. Robert L. Melcher former commandant at the Annex, will serve as counselor for Walton Hall.

All freshmen students entering A&M this fall will automatically enter the Basic Division, even if they have fully decided their choice for a major. Students who have chosen a course of study will be allowed to enter the school of their choice, but will remain in the Basic Division insofar as orientation and other guidance courses are concerned.

Transfer students from other schools who do not satisfy the minimum requirements of 30 hours and 36 grade points will be automatically assigned to the Basic Division.

WSCS Holds Meet At Gilchrist Home

Mrs. Gibb Gilchrist was hostess to the members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the A&M Methodist Church Monday evening at her home on Throckmorton.

"Pillars of the Earth" was the topic of the devotional given by Mrs. O. P. Allen. The program leader, Mrs. Gordon Gay, explained that there are 200 scholarships given to foreign students by the Methodist Church called Crusade for Christ Scholarships. Each student is selected by a committee from the country he represents and is allowed to attend a college of his choice for a year here in America.

She then named four foreign students who have received one of these scholarships and each was represented by a WSCS member who told of his individual school and its problems.

Mrs. L. J. Horn represented Miss Ruth Bender of Brazil. Mrs. J. G. McNeely represented Miss Youngyi Kim, a Korean pianist who has attended the Julliard School of Music in New York. Mrs. Dub King represented Miss Kwe-Yun Kiang, principal of the Laura Hagood School in Soochow, China. Mrs. A. F. Buchanan was Miss Chanda Cristdas from India.

Further information concerning the organization and operation of the Basic Division may be found on page one of section two.

Economy Camp Organizes Here

The county organization of the statewide Texas Economy Commission swung into action here Wednesday night, at a membership meeting.

"We've got to work fast," Davis Grant of Bryan, county chairman, said. "Our quota is $400 and it must be raised in membership dues by September 11," he told the gathering. Membership is open to every citizen, and one may join for one dollar.

The statewide commission is being set up by and for the people. Each county has a chairman and the district chairmen comprise the senatorial districts. E. L. Angell is chairman for this senatorial district.

The organization proposes to promote and promulgate that legislation most needed and most desired, that will eliminate any duplications in administration and operations set up at Austin, which, in the last analysis, will mean more efficient and more economical expenditures of the tax dollar, Grant says.

ber of students and to bring visitors to the campus.

MS—Engineering

Likewise the periods from March 9-10 and March 12-17 will be given to the School of Military Science and Tactics and School of Engineering, respectively, for similar purposes.

An agricultural and veterinary medicine open house will be held June 25 until June 30 under the supervision of the Agricultural Extension Service.

Almost every gathering and ceremony during the 1950-51 school year will be keynoted by the anniversary theme, Woolket said, and nearly all the short courses and programs planned are being integrated with the 75th anniversary plans.

Special Seal

A special anniversary seal has been prepared for use on mail sent out of the college and on publications issued during the year.

Also aiding in publicizing the anniversary year, Woolket said, is a special cancellation which the post office began using Sept. 1.

Colonel H. L. Boatner

Heading the ROTC program at A&M is Col. Boatner, who holds the combined office of PMS&T and commandant of cadets.

CELEBRATION—

will be a president's reception in the Memorial Student Center.

Another highlight of the observance will be the annual muster April 21, staged by students and former students as a homecoming for all A&M men similar to the one held in 1946.

MSC Dedication

A part of the muster will be the formal dedication of the Memorial Student Center as a memorial to A&M men who died in World War I and II.

Some other highlights of the year long observance will be the dedication of the New Beef Cattle Center on Sept. 29 and a visit to the campus Oct. 20 by Dr. Robert Miliken, noted physicist of California Institute of Technology.

Dr. Miliken will speak at a general assembly session, as well as at the staff conference of the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Open House Changed

A college open house on April 27 has been separated from the Parents Day scheduled for May 12. A historical display prepared by the Architecture Department as well as other departmental displays will be a part of the open house.

On Parent's Day, academic and military awards will be made. Also occurring in May is the annual Cotton Ball and Cotton Pageant.

On March 28-April 7, the School of Arts and Sciences will signalize the work done in each of the departments in the school, with a program designed to bring into the anniversary activities a large number
