

Seniors Can Enroll For Post-Grad Work

Seniors who do not need to take a full schedule of required courses may enroll in courses which can be credited towards the Bachelor of philosophy degree. Faires, head of Post Graduation Studies announced today.

A&M is the only college in Texas that offers Post Graduate Studies. Faires said. This makes it possible for A&M graduates to broaden their background and get an excellent all-around education by correspondence only, including the degree, he added.

As much as 12 credit hours taken in residence can be transferred to Post Graduation Studies. This is substantial progress toward the 36 hours required for the Ph. B. degree. Faires emphasized the fact that the same course cannot be used for more than one degree.

Dorbandt Barton

Rough and mean is the Aggies top defensive end who will be finishing up his collegiate football career at A&M this fall. Barton, who is 6' 2" and weighs 205 pounds, will probably get the starting nod against Nevada University this weekend at Sacramento.

4 Billion War Tax Passes Congress

Washington, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A compromise $4,700,000,000 "stop gap" war tax bill was approved yesterday by a Senate-House conference committee, and congressional leaders said it will be sent to President Truman by Friday.

The agreement opened the way for Congress to adjourn Saturday until after the November elections. Together the two tax bills, while increasing tax burdens appreciably this year, may boost taxes in 1951 by about $12,000,000,000.

Night school classes in Shorthand, Typing and Bookkeeping will begin October 16 at 7 p.m. For further information call 3-6655.

UN Plans Streamlined 'Police Force'

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

With the United Nations "police action" in Korea about to enter its fourth month, and with many reinforcements promised by members still "on order," the United States has begun a move to see that the organization is not caught again with its military pants down.

In doing so Secretary Acheson drops the generalized approach which the U. S. has usually followed in the U. N. and calls directly for counter-action against the policies of Soviet Russia.

The U. S. proposes a rules change to permit the general assembly to meet on 24 hours notice instead of ten days if the security council veto prevents action by that body, and would have military forces constantly ready should the Communists strike elsewhere.

Forces would be mobilized from regular units in the national armed forces of each nation. Thus the long-standing failure to secure agreement on a permanent United Nations force would be offset.

"Peace Patrol"

The general assembly would be expected to call these forces into action upon information supplied by a permanent "peace patrol" organized to survey and report on threatening situations.

The secretary's program was developed as the result of the salutary results obtained in the security council because of Russia's absence when the Korean thing broke, and in the light of what would have happened had Russia been present with her veto. There is no veto in the general assembly.

There is more involved, however, than a mere rules change. There is the fundamental relationship between the security council and the general assembly.

In matters of a threat to peace the theory was that the security council would act, and that the assembly would play an advisory role. But there is nothing to prevent the member nations from using the assembly as an organizational meeting place where collective defense can be arranged.

The American policy under which Acheson acted is unchanged, but it is recommended to the U. N. with a new directness.

Acheson outlined the actions and attitudes of the Soviet Union which have made necessary concerted action against her, and then said:

"Time may have its effect. It is but 33 years since the overthrow of the Czarist regime in Russia. Like many other social and political movements before it, the Soviet revolution may change. In so doing, it may rid itself of the policies which now prevent the Soviet Union from living as a good neighbor with the rest of the world."

When you take it all together—this movement in the United Nations begotten by its new pride of strength in having been able to act in Korea; the redoubled American military program; the speed-up in creation of a western European army; all of the new evidences of anti-communist unity—it is to wonder why, or if, the Russians are not thinking already of the possibilities of a profitable chance.

Senate Approves Aggie for CAB

Delos W. Rentzel, '29, Washington D. C., has been approved by the Senate as a member of the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Associated Press reports.

At the time of his approval, he was president of Aero Radio Inc. and Administrator of the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Washington. Rentzel was nominated by President Truman to succeed Joseph J. O'Connell, Jr., on the board.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

Number 2...THE BLOW FISH

"Shucks—I blew in when I should've blown out!"

Pity the poor Piscis! He's been making all those trick cigarette tests you've been reading about! He's taken one puff of this brand—one sniff of that. A quick inhale of cigarette "A"—a fast exhale of cigarette "B"—and he's still confused! Seriously, isn't the sensible way to test a cigarette to smoke pack after pack, day after day?

That's the test Camel asks you to make—the 30-Day Mildness Test. Smoke Camels—and only Camels—regularly for 30 days. Your "T-Zone" (T for Throat and T for Taste)—is the real proving ground for any cigarette. After you've tried Camels as your regular smoke, you'll know why...
