Senate and Life Committee Election Scheduled Tonight

By DEAN REED

Ballots will be distributed tonight at 7 for the general fall elections, in which 35 Student Senate members and three Student Life committeemen will be chosen.

The Student Senate is A&M's representative governing body, while the Student Life Committee ranks just above the Senate as a liaison between the student body and the Academic Council, composed of the faculty of the college. Corps students will elect one senator from their respective dorms and will vote on seven senators-at-large. Civilians will cast their ballots for a senator from their own dormitory or housing area, will vote in the at-large race, and will also elect the three members of Student Life.

For Non-Regs Only

Only civilian students are allowed to run for the Student Life jobs, and only civilian students will vote on these positions, according to Bill Moss, co-chairman of the election committee.

Ballots in Corps dormitories will be passed out by company commanders, or their representatives, and will be collected by 10 p. m. Votes will be turned over to ranking cadet officers in each dormitory, who will see that they are tabulated in the presence of a majority of candidates from that dormitory.

The ranking officer will count only votes for his dorm's Senate position—not for senators-at-large, Moss said.

CO's Get Ballots

Company commanders in the upper-classman area, including Hart Hall, will pick up ballots in the lounge of Dormitory 10 immediately after the evening meal. Tabulations, plus the ballots, will be turned in by the ranking officers in this area to the cadet guardroom in Dorm 12.

In the freshman area—Dorms 14 through 17 and Walton Hall—commanders will receive their ballots from the Walton lounge before 7 p. m. The ranking officers will return the tabulated ballots there by 11.

The election committee will count all ballots to decide winners in the senator-at-large race, in which seven positions are open.

Housemasters in Charge

Housemasters of the civilian dormitories—Law, Puryear, Mitchell, Leggett, Milner, and Bizzell Halls—will receive ballots from their respective counselors by 4 p. m. today. Members of the election committee will pick up the tabulated votes by 11.

All ballots should be collected by the ranking officer or housemaster by 10, in order that they may be counted and turned over to the election committee by 11, Moss said.

Arrangements have also been made for distribution of ballots in the three housing areas—College View, Vet Village, and Trailer-Project Houses.

The official ballot in today's Battalion is to be used only by civilian day students, Bill Moss, co-chairman of the election committee, said this morning.

Housing areas will be supplied with mimeographed ballots, as will the battalion of day student cadets.

Moss asked that all civilian day students turn in their ballots to the Student Activities Office, Goodwin Hall, before noon Tuesday.

The election committee also requested that today's ballot be used rather than the one printed in Friday's Battalion, since Student Life candidate Joe Fuller was omitted.

Aggies After 3rd Straight, OU 23rd; Ags Defeat Tech

OU Scouts Claim Cadets Better Team

By FRANK N. MANITZAS

Two teams will be battling it out next Saturday at Norman, Okla., for the right of extending their winning streaks another game. A&M will be looking for its third straight win, while the Oklahoma Sooners will be aiming for their 23rd.

Head Football Coach Harry Stiteler was well pleased with the performance of the Cadet eleven Saturday night against the Texas Tech Red Raiders. A&M defeated Tech, 34-13.

On the other side, OU scouts who saw the game in Alamo Stadium at San Antonio, claimed that the Aggies would be successful this coming season against the Sooners, last year having played Oklahoma a 13-33 ball game.

With the loss of ten top lettermen from their past Sugar Bowl Championship team Oklahoma didn't seem weak Saturday, trouncing Boston College 28-0. Of course, the win wasn't as convincing as the 46-0 shellacking which the Sooners handed Boston last year, but it shows that the Red and White isn't lacking in scoring power.

OU Scores Early

OU marched 53 and 41 yards for TDs in the first two periods, then struck through the air for a third counter before calling it a day cashing in on a third period Boston fumble. Fullback Leon Heath, Oklahoma's All-America candidate and only returning regular from last year, seldom carried the ball.

In Alamo Stadium, 24,000 football fans saw the Aggies rip across the ground for 224 yards and fly through air for 85 to defeat the Raiders who in the last quarter were in a word—exhausted. Hard running by Bruisin' Bob Smith on a pitch up field seemed to work miracles and ran the Tech defense ragged as Smith gained 147 yards in 27 carries and also scored three touchdowns to continue to lead the conference.

But the real star in the fray could have easily been Quarterback Delmar Sikes, who after three years on the bench, has for two consecutive games led the Cadets to triumph. Sikes is the only A&M quarterback in the last three years to have really had possession of a winning Aggie club.

Farmer Team Tough

At the present time, the Farmer eleven is a rough, tough team which can and will beat other teams mainly because of its hard charging backs and powerful line. If the Aggies should develop a quick know how with all their other advantages, many an Aggie dream could be complete.

Both teams started off fumbling at the beginning, but the Cadets scored first in the initial period with a touchdown pass from Sikes to Andy Hillhouse, climaxing A&M's seven play drive which consumed 69 yards.

Gridiron Sketch

A&M	First Downs	Tech
19	First Downs	15
224	Net Yards Rushing	217
81	Net Yards Passing	56
16	Passes Attempted	16
7	Passes Completed	7
0	Passes Intercepted By	0
6	No. of Punts	8
39.3	Avg. for Punts	26.3
2	Fumbles, Losing the Ball	3
31	Yards Penalized	30

Smith ignited the attack with an 18-yard sprint around right end on the familiar pounce play which was used numerous times. The next two plays were Smith again first going through left tackle for three, then back around right end for 24 yards and a first down to Tech's 21.

Gallopin' Glenn Lippman, the third ranking rusher in the SWC, gained three yards through right tackle, and Smith went around left end for eight yards and another first down. Smith tried right tackle but with no results, then Sikes whipped out an eight yard pass to Hillhouse in the end zone for the Cadet's first counter.

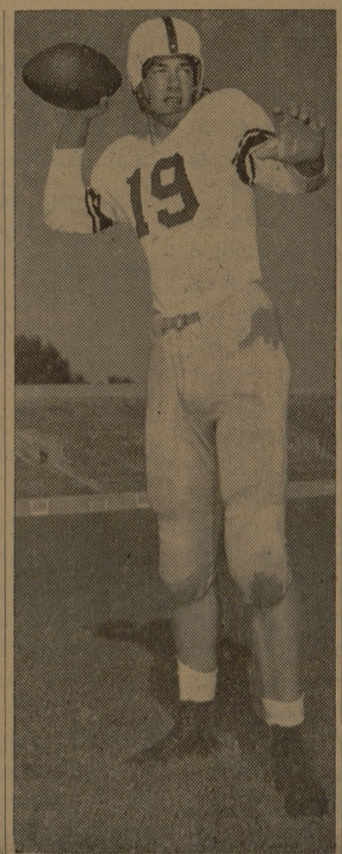

Darrow Hooper successfully kicked his first of four conversions.

No Time Wasted

Tech wasted little time as they took Hooper's kickoff and returned same to their 20, from where they went the rest of the way in 10 plays, gaining five first downs along the way. It was Dick Jackson and Tim Hatch, alternating most of the way, and the scoring blow came with an eight yard pass from Pete Edwards to Jackson in the end zone. Hatch clicked with his first PAT boot.

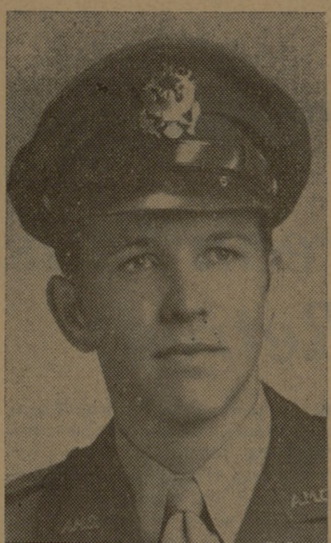

A Tech fumble on their own 47, recovered by Aggie Alvin Langford set up the second A&M TD. Smith again was like a tank on the ground, as he gained 38 of the 47 yards. A ten-yard pass to Hillhouse accounted for the other yardage and the final run for the score came about on a screen pass play, Sikes to Smith.

Darrow Hooper

Hooper, who in reality is a quarterback, is now leading the SWC in PAT completions. The man with the educated toe has successfully kicked 10 of 12 tries for a .834 average.

Speeches, Parade Highlight Birthday

By JERRY ZUBER

Governor Allan Shivers will deliver the main address at the 75th Anniversary Day program on Kyle Field Wednesday morning, Oct. 4. Activities get underway at 10:30 with a Corps parade, followed by an exchange of greetings from the Former Students Association, A. E. Carraway, '34; the student body, A. D. Martin, '50; and the faculty, Ernest Langford, '13.

Response to the Governor's address will be given by John Newton, '12, vice-president of the A&M Board of Directors and chairman of the 75th Anniversary Committee. M. T. Harrington will preside over the program.

Free picnic lunch will be served outside the stadium immediately following the morning program, according to J. J. Woolket, executive director of the 75th Anniversary Committee.

A special luncheon for visiting dignitaries is tentatively scheduled for 12:30 in the Memorial Student Center Ballroom. Also in the MSC will be a historical display depicting 75 years of A&M progress. The display will be in rooms 2A, 2B, 2C, and 2D, according to Hal Moseley, of the Architect Department, who is handling the exhibit.

Classes will be from 9:40 a.m.

Campus Clubs Given Meeting Space in MSC

Request for meeting rooms for a regular time and day have been granted for campus clubs in the Memorial Student Center, Miss Betty Bolander, assistant social director, has announced.

Worth Club, Pasadena Club, Amarillo Club, Trans Pecos Club, Rio Grande Valley Club, Bastrop-Lee Club, Wichita Falls Club, Corpus Christi Club, Abilene Club, Collins County Club, Economics Club, and Vet. Wives Bridge Club.

A representative from each of the groups listed above should stop in the Front Office today or tomorrow to pick up specific dates, rooms and times from Miss Bolander.

Administration Build'g Contract Let By Board

The A&M Board of Directors, meeting in San Antonio Saturday, gave the go-ahead for construction of a new Administration Building on the campus.

Appropriations for new construction throughout the A&M System totaled $600,555. An additional $150,000 will go for new equipment. The Board also accepted gifts, grant-in-aid, scholarships, and fellowships totaling $172,270.

The contract for the College Administration Building went to the Fisher Construction Company of Houston. It totaled $216,330.93. The Board appropriated $475,055 for the contract plus cost of supervision and contingencies.

Water Contract

Another contract, totaling $216,330.93 was awarded the E. E. Farrow Company of Dallas for the construction of two water supply pump stations and two steel reservoirs. The Board also set aside $83,000 to complete the $708,000 supply system for the college.

Contracts on three recently completed projects were accepted.

The L. J. Parks Construction Company of Austin got one of these, $60,735 for construction of a milking unit building at the new Dairy Cattle Center.

The chancellor was authorized to accept contracts and pay final amounts due when the construction covered by four contracts of the Biological Sciences building is fully completed. This totals $559,481.

Chancellor Gibb Gilchrist received confirmation of his award of the following contracts: Brazos Construction Company, Marlin, $10,179 for storm and sanitary sewers; C. L. Andrews of Bryan, $78,313.55 for concrete street paving and sidewalks; Houston Show Case and Manufacturing Company of Houston for $27,742 for gift shop fixtures and miscellaneous counters and booths for the MSC; and James C. Edwards of Dallas, $5,415.92 for barber shop equipment for the MSC.

Greenhouse Construction

An appropriation of $25,000 from proceeds of the Permanent University Fund Bonds was allotted for a greenhouse for the Horticulture Department and authorization of plans and construction. The greenhouse will be built on the horticulture farm land.

A sum of $6,500 from the Special Improvements Account was allotted to installation of street lights in the block occupied by the Memorial Student Center.

The Board also gave $5,000 to the 75th Anniversary Fund to be used in conjunction with the various events and celebrations scheduled in the next few months.

In other parts of the A&M System, Arlington State College received $70,000 for equipment for its newly completed $350,000 Engineering Building. Contracts totaling $333,04 on the building were accepted. An $8,000 appropriation was made toward construction of an implement building on the East Farm.

Tarleton Ag Building

Tarleton State College received $25,000 for equipment for its new (See SCHOLARSHIPS, Page 4)

J. J. Sperry Child Stricken by Polio

Kathleen Sperry, three year old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sperry of College Station was taken to Providence Hospital in Waco Friday with an attack of polio. Dr. Sperry is an instructor in the Biology Department at A&M.

The child was taken to a local hospital Friday morning for treatment of a throat ailment. There the case was diagnosed as probable polio and the Sperrys left for Waco, where the diagnosis was confirmed.

Definite improvement was reported early Saturday night, and Kathleen was said to be breathing and sleeping almost normally.

Dr. and Mrs. Sperry have two older daughters and a son younger than Kathleen. They plan to remain in Waco until the early part of this week.

Special SP Train Set for Oklahoma

A special train is scheduled to leave College Station at 8 p. m. Friday for the A&M-OU football game in Norman, Okla.

Students wishing to attend the game can purchase round-trip tickets at Student Activities Office in Goodwin Hall for $9. Tickets purchased at the train station will cost $10.35.

The train is scheduled to arrive in Norman at 7 a. m. Saturday and will leave at 1 a. m. Sunday. It will arrive in Dallas at 4:30 p. m. so students can attend the State Fair. It will arrive back in College Station at 8 p. m. Sunday.

Stone to Address Art Committee

Seymour Stone, famous portrait painter, will be guest speaker at tonight's meeting of the Gallery Committee of the Art Club, sponsored by the Memorial Student Center.

The meeting will begin at 7:15 in the Art Room on the third floor of the MSC. A short business meeting will precede artist Stone's talk, according to committee chairman Jimmie Williams.

68,000 Witness Houston Stadium Opener

By HERMAN C. GOLLOB
Batt Special Correspondent

Heaven knows we hate tattle-tales, but we just can't pass up this chance to squeal on what those Rice Owls did to the Santa Clara Broncos Saturday night at the spanking new Houston Stadium.

Before 68,000 bi-partisan officians, quarterback Vernon Glass passed the Feathered Flock to a 27-7 win over the dogged West Coast Equines, who never knew they were beat.

All Rice's tallies came as the result of Glass' bulls-eye pitches—two to Billy Burkhalter and one apiece to Bill Howton and George Glauser.

Defensively, the Owls line played its usual namby-pamby game drumming up business for truss companies and leaving their opponents painfully writhing on the field.

But the game was anti-climactical, being overshadowed by the uninhibited festivities which heralded the opening of the new stadium, and by the awesome spectacle of the cavernous double deck structure itself.

Saturday morning 75,000 football feverish Houstonians lined the downtown streets to watch an hour-long parade which keynoted the Houston Stadium opening celebration.

With a cute little girl coughing down our neck, a sweet old lady elbowing her way ahead of us, and pick-pocket rummaging around in our hip-pocket, we watched the procession of 33 high school bands, eight drill units, and 12 Rice Institute floats.

Also appearing in the parade was Patti Page, nationally famous thrush, now singing at Houston's Shamrock, whom the Rice Student body elected sweetheart of Houston Stadium.

Early that afternoon we dropped in on Sandy-Haired Bill Whitmore, Rice sports news director, to pick up our Press Box pass.

Three hours later—5 p. m.—we were at the mammoth stadium, gazing from the bottom at the towering press box and wishing that Whitmore had included a parachute with the pass.

On our way up we met Glenn Ford and Valli, (The White Tower), who had given up the foolish climb. They advised us to follow suit, but our spasms of fool-hardiness, we ignored them. A flurry of snow and a St. Bernard greeted us at the top.

Taking our seat in the press box we opened our program to the section concerning the new stadium to see if our estimate concurred with that of the author. Luckily it did, so we'll quote from the program: "... stadium built in ten months ... stands slant at a concave angle, providing a greatly improved direct line of vision of the playing field ... elimination of a track puts spectators right on top of the field of action. . .

... Triple deck press box serves 300 newsmen, broadcasters, and photographers. First deck is the radio level, second deck is press row and the top deck is for photographers and newsreel cameramen."

We glanced up from our program and noticed the old Rice Stadium standing disconsolately in the background, much the same as a ten-year-old kid who watches his parents neglect him and fawn over his new little brother.

By 6:45 p. m. both the stadium and press box were at least three-fourths full. Earlier Houston high school bands had marched into the north end zone, turning that section of the stadium into a kaleidoscope with their multi-colored uniforms.

High school drill teams began their pre-game field activities soon after 7 p. m., and their fast-stepping, intricate maneuvers elicited, robust ovations from the crowd.

Next, Patti Page, whom one would think has consecrated herself to Rice, minced out to the 50 yard line and accompanied by a 4 piece combo, sang "I Don't Care if the Sun Don't Shine," and "Back in Your Own Back Yard."

After Miss Page had left the field, an announcement was made concerning Baylor's afternoon rout of the University of Houston. The (See STADIUM, Page 4)
