

Market Expert Is Speaker at Kiwanis Club

Members of the College Station Kiwanis Club had as their guest yesterday S. L. Austin, a public relations representative of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, who is now touring the country giving people information about the operation of his company.

Austin used a slide projector while making his talk, showing the Kiwanians about the markets and how the Chicago Mercantile Exchange takes part in market operations.

C. N. Shepardson, dean of Agriculture, had been scheduled to speak on "Trends in Agriculture," but asked that his time be given to Austin who is currently making a tour of colleges and universities throughout the United States.

During the business session of the meeting, Dr. Ralph Steen, chairman of the election committee, presented the names which the committee had nominated for the forthcoming club election.

Nominated for president was A. C. Magee. Other nominations included the following: first vice-president, Otis Miller; second vice-president, H. G. Johnston and Wayne Stark, directors (four to be elected), H. W. Badgett, N. D. Durst, C. K. Hancock, Dick Hervey, Johnnie Longley, J. G. McGuire, W. M. Potts, and George Summey, Jr.

The election, which will be held November 7, is supervised by Steen's committee consisting of Hershel Burgess, W. A. Varvel, J. C. Gaines, and R. L. Hunt.

Dr. Mayo Addresses Workshop Meeting

Dr. F. Mayo, head of the English Department, returned Monday from Lubbock where, at a joint workshop conference of high school and college English teachers, he spoke on "The Composition Teacher as a Humanist."

The purpose of the workshop is to bridge the gap between high school and college English and to improve English teaching methods in both, Mayo said. The topic of this year's workshop is the coordination of the teaching of grammar with composition teaching methods.

Friday, Dr. Mayo will speak to another combined group which meets at Stephenville.

Community Supper Plans Being Made

Final plans for the annual College Station Community Supper were in the making this morning, as the October 24 event nears.

The supper, which is to be held on Patranella Slab at Consolidated High School, is sponsored yearly by the Mothers and Dads Club for the purpose of "getting acquainted" and raising funds to buy things not obtainable through normal tax allotments for the schools.

Fred R. Brison, president of the Mothers and Dads club said yesterday that a crowd of some 1,000 parents and children is expected to be on hand for the outing. Food for the supper will be obtained from the Duncan Mess Hall at A&M.

Pies and Cakes Asked
Mrs. Joe Motherall and Mrs. Marion Pugh have been named as co-chairmen for the affair, Brison said. The leaders have asked that women who are willing to bake pies and cakes for the supper get in touch with the chairman of the foods committee. This person is to be named today or tomorrow, the president said.

Tickets for the supper will be sold at 85 cents for adults and 65 cents for all students through the fifth grade, Brison said. He emphasized the fact that the committee would appreciate early ticket purchases so the number of meals to be prepared could be easily estimated.

Educational Value
Money obtained through sales of tickets for the annual fall community supper have bought many items in the past which have been of great educational and recreational value to the students, Brison commented.

Playground equipment and chairs for Patranella Slab are among the many things which have been bought in the past with money made available from the community supper, Brison said.

Tickets will be available at the serving counter for those who forget to buy them early, he added.

Dick French

Dean's Son . . .

Artistic Qualities Shown by Students

By TOM ROUNTREE

A budding Michelangelo has been discovered at Consolidated A&M in the person of Dick French, son of Dr. C. C. French, dean of college.

Five free hand sketches of the main characters in several of the works of contemporary English represent French's latest venture into the world of art. Sketches done by French are "Else and Lil" from Katherine Mansfield's "The Doll House"; "Mr. Smith" from an excerpt, and "All Yankees Are Liars," from the novel by Eric Knight, "This Above All."

Others include "Bella Fleace" as portrayed in the story "Bella Fleace Gave a Party" by Ellen Waugh; "Queen Victoria" from the play "Victoria Regina" by Laurence Housman; and "Younger Gessler Brother" from "Quality by Thomas Jalsworthy."

Mrs. J. T. Duncan, French's English teacher, asked for volunteers to do sketches of their interpretations of the characters in the selections as they believe the author intended them to be portrayed. French volunteered and his interpretive sketches were the result.

Dick has been interested in art as a hobby for a long time. He did quite a bit of drawing while in grade school and then after he entered junior high school he didn't seem able to find time to continue his hobby until this year at Consolidated High School.

His art teacher, Miss Margaret Henderson, has been helping him to improve his technique.

French transferred to Consolidated from Blacksburg, Virginia where his father was vice-president of Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

His comment on Consolidated as compared to the Blacksburg High School was that the students here seem to greet newcomers with more warmth and try to do more to make the "pilgrims" feel at home. He added, however, that here, students receive more individual attention because of the smaller classes.

Dick's mother has been interested in art for several years and at the present is enrolled in the art classes in progress at the Memorial Student Center.

Polio Strikes Local Grade School Girl

Shirley Brown, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewing E. Brown, Sulphur Springs Road, has been confined with polio in the Crippled Children's Hospital in Waco.

Shirley, a seventh-grader at A&M Consolidated, came home from school Friday complaining of a headache. By Sunday she had lost her sense of balance and her legs and back, though not paralyzed, were considerably weakened.

Her parents instantly suspected polio and drove her to Waco early Sunday, where her case was diagnosed as a mild form of polio.

A phone call yesterday afternoon revealed that she was resting well and that her temperature had fallen.

Shirley has a sister, Glenda, 16, and a brother, Ewing E. Jr., 5.

Groneman Authors Crafts Textbook

The International Textbook Company of Scranton, Penn. has just announced the release of "Leather Tooling and Carving," which is authorized by Dr. Chris H. Groneman, head of the Department of Industrial Education.

The book is printed in two editions, one for use by teachers and students and another for the home craftsman or hobbyist. It has already been adopted by many schools.

This is the tenth book for which Dr. Groneman has either been the author or co-author. All of them are in the general field of arts and crafts and industrial subjects.

Many of the illustrations were rendered by Mrs. Eleanor Nance, a widely known Bryan and College Station artist and crafts-woman.

Kiwanians Need Accountant

Not many clubs are so large that nominating committees don't know who's who when time comes to elect officers. But in the case of the College Station Kiwanis Club, the membership is evidently so overwhelmingly large that all the members can't be accounted for.

Take for example the nominating committee of this local organization as it met under the leadership of Dr. Ralph Steen. The group thought it had done a fine job of selecting nominees for officers of the new year.

But when time came to present the committee's report, a rush job had to be done to avoid embarrassment.

The committee had selected a man to run for second vice-president who wasn't even a member of the club.

Not to be discouraged by such a minor detail, the committee quickly placed another candidate in the position.

The biggest surprise is yet to come, though. According to various members who stood around in huddles after the meeting, the popular choice for write-in candidate as president is none other than vice-president Joe Motherall.

Bryan Hospitals Admit CS Patients

Several College Station residents were admitted to Bryan Hospitals yesterday for medical, surgical, and maternity treatment.

Bryan Hospital reported that Mrs. Frank B. Brown Jr. of 212 Houston Street, and R. W. Ivy, College Road, were medical patients, while Mrs. Mary Vallon of 33 W. Vet Village, underwent surgical treatment.

A seven pound, one ounce baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Wesley at St. Joseph's Hospital. Wesley is an electrical engineering instructor.

Danville Chaddourne Jr., whose father is an instructor in entomology, received medical care.

Warren L. McCabe of Summit, N. J., national president of the Institute, will speak on "Chemical Engineering-1950" at a banquet in the Galvez Hotel.

Thugs Blow Their Top

Aquadell, Sask.—(AP)—Safe-crackers tried to get $2,400 from a safe in the Saskatchewan Pool elevators' office here. But they blew their chances sky high with an overdose of nitroglycerine.

The safe's top went through the office ceiling and kept on going through the roof. The $2,400 was destroyed in the blast.

No Pictures Received for Aggieland '51

No Vanity Fair or Senior Favorite pictures have been turned into Student Activities thus far this year, according to Roy Nance, editor of the Aggieland.

From all entries, six girls are to be selected by some celebrity of national fame and they will be presented to the student body at some major social event next Spring.

The only stipulation to winning is that the winning candidates must be present for the presentation ceremonies. Men who submit the winning entries will be notified a minimum of two weeks in advance of the presentation.

Pictures required of Vanity Fair nominations are: a full length shot in formal attire, a bust picture in formal attire, and a full length photograph in sports attire.

All pictures should be 5 x 7 glossy prints. Senior Favorite pictures should be bust shots also 5x7. Any senior can enter as many candidates as he likes. A charge of $1.50 is made for each nomination for Vanity Fair and each picture for the Senior Favorites section of the Aggieland.

Deadline for both Vanity Fair and Senior Favorites is Dec. 2.

Cafeteria Building Proposed by Board

Plans for the construction of a new cafeteria at Consolidated School were discussed by the School Board in their regular meeting last week.

The board decided the cafeteria building should be large enough to accommodate 500 students at one time, and that the building should be separated from those existing on the campus now.

It was suggested as a possibility that a band room or auditorium could be combined into the cafeteria building.
