

Tiger Band

Consolidated High School Bandsmen, some thirty-five strong, pose for the cameraman on Tiger Field during an afternoon drill. The group, under the leadership of former Aggie band master Col. Richard J. Dunn, was one of the high school bands which paraded on Kyle Field during half-time activities last Saturday.

War Brides--Not Dope Make Coffee Counter Busy Spot

By WAYNE DAVIS

The Coffee Shop in the Memorial Student Center is becoming one of the most popular spots on the campus for cosmopolitan-minded Aggies and Modern Language professors desiring to polish up their German accents. Cause of all the popularity, which centers around the coffee counter, may be ascribed to the truly cosmopolitan atmosphere now pervading the place in the presence of blonde, blue-eyed Louise Schirmer, formerly in Dinkelsbühl in southern Bavaria, and brunette, brown-eyed Irma Mayben, late of Frankfurt-am-Main, in Germany. Louise is the wife of Bill Schirmer, EE major from Denison. They were married in 1948 while Bill was on duty with the Air Force at a Direction-finding Station on Mount Hesselberg. Before that, Louise was drafted at the age of fourteen she put in a year's service in the Land Army on a farm, where she swung a scythe and developed large powerful muscles and a cordial hatred of rural life. She survived the unique experience of having a RAF bombardier lay a stick of ten incendiaries across her house one night—none worked, fortunately, she says. Irma, on the other hand—now married to Leroy Mayben, Ag Ed major from Lometa—was always a city girl. During the war she stayed in Frankfurt, going to high school and having the front of her house blown in by a bomb at the same time another bomb, halfway down the block, killed seventeen people taking shelter in a basement. But things are less exciting, now, in the coffee shop, where Irma and Louise serve coffee to hundreds of Aggies a day who ask Louise "Are you Swedish?" and Irma "Are you a Yankee?" (or "Canadian?") Other questions popular with socially-conscious Aggies are "Howja meetcher husband?", "What was it like during the war?", and "Whaddaya think of Aggies?" As it happened, Louise met her husband on top of a mountain. She was on her way to a farmer's house to buy some eggs, and was resting a moment before going on across the mountain. Bill, out for a breath of mountain air, happened along, and struck up a conversation. Bill liked Louise, Louise liked Bill, and—but take it from there yourself. Leroy, though, dialed the wrong telephone number one afternoon in Frankfurt and Irma answered. With commendable directness he asked for a date, and kept calling back until he got it. A few months of red tape later, and Irma was on her way to America as Mrs. Leroy. As for Aggies, the girls are frankly amazed. "They're already having dates," said Irma. "Why, in Germany boys and girls wouldn't think of dating until they were much older!" Any of you wolves want to move to Germany?

Keys to Happiness Study Club Theme

The general theme of the programs for Campus Study Club this year is Keys to Happiness. One of these keys is culture, represented by literature, art and music. It was fitting therefore to have as speaker for the first program of the year Dr. John Q. Hayes of A&M English faculty who spoke on "The Influence of Women in Mark Twain's Life." In the business meeting Dorothy Bates, a senior at Consolidated High School told of her experiences at Girl's State in Austin. She was sponsored by the Campus Study Club. She found that actually taking part in government as state commissioner of agriculture was a very effective way of studying it. The club voted to ask each member to contribute twenty five cents to help defray expenses of National Federation Meeting in Houston in November. Because of a conflict in dates the Nov. 28 and Oct. 31 meetings will be interchanged. At the next meeting foreign students will speak on "Happiness in Other Lands." It will be held in the Student Memorial Union and guests may be invited.

College Employees Attend Safety Meet

E. C. Martin, state program leader and chairman of the State Farm Safety Committee in Texas, and W. L. Martin discussed work being done by the Texas Extension Service for furthering farm safety, and Ulrich participated in sessions dealing with farm safety as it relates to modern farm machinery usage.

Student Wife's View of College

(Editor's note: The following is a letter received in our office which we think should be passed along to our readers.)

Editor, The Battalion:

Being one of the many Veterans wives, and feeling that we all get down in the dumps at least every once in a while, I would like to submit this little poem to your widely read paper. Probably the Veterans and their wives would be the only people that would appreciate and understand the moral to this poem, but we would like the public to know that we would "do it again." That phrase is explained in the poem.

The Life of a Student's Wife

Sometimes you get so downhearted
That you sit right down and cry,
For it seems that life is hopeless
No matter how hard you try.

You wonder what would be real good
To have for the evening meal,
When all the time you're figuring how
To save on the grocery bill.

Then you relax and think how nice
It would be to own a Mint,
When suddenly you're struck with a horrible thought
"It's time to pay the rent."

And then there is the little one
Who says he's a "Farmer" too,
And completely ruins his brand new shoes
Playing ball like the AGGIES do.

And now and then you gripe a bit
Cause you think it's so unfair,
For your husband's always studying
And you never go anywhere.

And then there's times when you ask him
If he loves you anymore,
And a glance up from his studies says
"Go way, you're such a bore."

But when you get to thinking
About the situation,
You know how awfully grand it'll be
The Day of Graduation.

You'll be proud of your Aggie Grad
And all the blessings that you've had,
You'll know if you had another life
You'd want to be a Student's Wife.
