

Depth In QBs Helps Ags Considerably

By FRANK N. MANITZAS
Battalion Sports Editor

Depth—an invaluable factor in this year's Southwest Conference grid race. And the team which seems to be packed to the hilt with the stuff is A&M.

Manitzas

Here is an example. In the backfield, Dick Gardemal started at the man-under position against Nevada, only to be replaced by Delmar Sikes, who went on to start the following weekend against Tech. Against OU both members of the Aggie eleven saw action and against VMI two others—Darrow Hooper and Ray Graves—took their turn at the helm.

All this totals, four quarterbacks on the Cadet team and one always seems to be ready. Against TCU last Saturday, Sikes started but couldn't seem to click, and was replaced by Gardemal, who "soothed the savage beast" and led it to victory.

Each contributed to A&M's high scoring. Sikes has tossed six touchdown passes, is eighth in the conference in passing, having completed 21 of 49 for 235 yards.

This past weekend Gardemal completed eight of 13 attempted tosses for 135 yards and two touchdowns. Graves, in his first college play, tossed a touchdown pass to Augie Saxe in the VMI tilt, and has completed each of his four passes—the first three to Aggies and the other last week to a TCU player.

Hooper has yet to score a touchdown but is tied for third in conference scoring with 24 points—all conversion attempts. He has missed but six in 30 attempts.

This is the depth A&M has at the one position that Aggie coaches were afraid would be unfilled when the season started.

A&M Scoring Done by Eleven Men

Eleven members of the A&M have proven their strength with team have scored so far this season, averaging 40.8 points per game. A&M is the only team have a total of 204 markers.

Bruisin' Bob Smith leads the field with 60, Andy Hillhouse follows with 30, while Billy Tidwell and Darrow Hooper each have 24.

It was also the first time since 1947 that a team had ever scored 12 points. The backs Jim Dobbyn, Glenn Lippman, and Yale Lary and the end Charlie Hodge.

Backs Bernie Lemmons, Augie Saxe, and Buddy Shaeffer each have scored once. In the latter portion of the TCU game, they will be hard to beat.

Bruisin' Bob Romps to 5th In Nat'l Rushing

By FRED WALKER

Three Southwest Conference teams—A&M, SMU and Baylor—have maintained positions in the National Football Statistics, while "Bruisin' Bob" Smith leaped to fifth in country-wide rushing.

SMU leads other Southwesterners in two team departments and one individual bracket as this weeks compilations find them fourth in total offense and first in passing.

In total offense they have run up 2,236 yards per game—average, 447.2—to follow Arizona State, Army and Princeton in that order. The Mustangs have attempted 146 passes and completed 81 for 1,171 yards—234.2 per game—10 touchdowns and average of 55.5.

A&M Leads Conference In Scoring With 204 Points

By CHUCK NEIGHBORS

The Aggies are at the top of Southwest Conference in number of points scored against opposition. Although the Cadets have lost a game, they remain in the conference lead, sharing the position, however, with Southern Methodist and Texas University.

Aggies are in the three highest places in SWC scoring. They are Bruisin' Bob Smith with ten TD's for sixty points; big Andy Hillhouse, five markers for thirty points; halfback Billy Tidwell, who has racked up 24 points in four goal line crossings, and Darrow Hooper, the boy with the educated toe, also in third place with 24 points scored in points-after-touchdowns alone.

The Dark Horses of the conference, the Aggies are getting brighter and brighter in the eyes of the rest of the conference every time they march off the gridiron.

The Aggies are not anticipating a very difficult time with twice-beaten Baylor next Saturday, due partly to an injury-free team and mostly to terrific play by the Farmer line.

Next week will find two important SWC games, pitting TU against the Owls of Rice while the Aggies go against the Baylor Bears. Arkansas plays Vanderbilt at Little Rock and TCU goes against Ole Miss at Memphis, Tenn. in intersectional tilts.

This past weekend in the conference was a full one with all of the members seeing action.
