Jarvis, Dunn Top Balloting in Soph Run-off Election

By JOEL AUSTIN

O. C. "Putter" Jarvis topped the list of candidates for president of the Sophomore class in a run-off election conducted last night in the Assembly Hall.

Leading his nearest opponent by 64 votes, Jarvis an AH major from Brownwood, also tallied the most votes in a primary election held last Wednesday which narrowed the presidential race from 14 candidates to three.

Following Jarvis in the count of some 400 ballots cast in the run-off election were Willie East with 118 votes and William S. Thornton who drew 85 counts.

W. A. Dunn again led the race for the class vice-presidency by polling 162 votes. Max M. Newsom and James H. Sykora followed with 127 and 100 votes respectively. The list of vice-presidential aspirants included ten candidates in the primary balloting.

Pat LeBlanc ran away with the voting for secretary by tallying 200 votes. LeBlanc was well ahead of the other two candidates, who polled 183 votes together. John M. Yantis received 95, while R. Morgan Anderson had 88.

Joe B. Blanchette dominated the balloting for class treasurer by showing 162 votes in his favor. Blanchette rose from second place in the primary ballot to take the office. Other candidates were Charles M. Scott with 125 votes and R. A. Newman who had 94.

Pengelly Tops Burchmiller
The office of social secretary went to Allen K. Pengelly after a close race with Pengelly and Charles L. Burchmiller fighting it out for top honors. Pengelly won out with 159 votes, to Burchmiller's 150 ballots scratched.

F. X. "Paco" Coronado had the largest number of votes for sergeant-at-arms. He took the post with 207 ballots. Following Coronado were William L. Minturn and Shelton Glenn Black who received 91 and 84 tallies respectively.

In the closest race of the balloting, underdog William C. Moses nearly defeated James H. Uptonmore for parliamentarian. Receiving the fewest number of votes in the primary, Moses, trailed Uptonmore's total of 148 by only seven counts. Peary J. Shepard followed with 99 votes.

Senate "Sitters"
Elected to receive seats around the Student Senate table as non-voting members from the Sophomore Class were Gene Earl Steed, Joe Mattei, and Don R. Heath. Steed had the largest number of votes received by any one individual in the election by polling 245 tallies. Mattei received 211 and Heath had 188.

Other candidates for the senate posts were Wayne A. Showers with 169 votes, Harold Hudspeth with 160, and Jerry Mugg with 136 votes.

Election Confusion
Election chairman Arno Becker said last night the confusion during election caused him and his committeemen a great deal of difficulty in carrying out what he considered a "fair election."

But even though the confusion did exist, he said, the results are final and bear the stamp of his approval for accuracy. Other members of the election committee are Doyle Krueger, George Burner, Carol Gasbeer, Bill Highsmith, and Bruno Homeyer.

The College Station Lions Club unanimously voted to sponsor the local 1951 March of Dimes campaign in a business session during club's weekly noon-day luncheon yesterday.

College Park Area Electricity Cut Off

Electricity failure in several homes of the South College Park section of town kept City Manager Raymond Rogers and a crew of city and college workmen busy yesterday and Sunday.

Rogers said the power went off at about 7:30 p. m. Sunday night, but the workmen were unable to find cause for the disruption of power service.

Work was resumed early yesterday morning on the lines, but electricity had not been turned on at the houses yesterday afternoon.

Rogers said the people in the area affected by the electricity failure could be assured that all possible steps were being taken to get power facilities back in regular order.

Campus Cleaners to Get New Home

By WAYNE DAVIS

Joel C. English, manager of the Campus Cleaners, is a happy man. After 23 years in the Cleaners—except for 38 months in the Army—he's going to get to move. And about time.

The Campus Cleaners, holder of the cleaning concession on the campus, has been in operation since September of 1927, in the top of the Exchange Store.

English was an employee in the Cleaners when it first opened, and now manages the place. The establishment was quite large enough to handle the usual run of cleaning during the 1930's and early 40's, but the return of thousands of veterans and, recently, the moving of the Freshmen back to the campus has put a terrific overload on the already-crowded facilities.

But now, all is new and different. The Association of Former Students, which has operated the concession since its beginning, has now financed a new 10-60 foot building just north of the Coast Artillery armory and the pistol range.

The way things look, it'll be ready by Christmas. That's why Joel English is so happy lately.

The new building, built by the R. E. Butler Construction Company of Bryan, is about half again as big as the quarters in the Exchange. With 2,500 to 3,000 garments to be processed per week—and featuring two-day service—the old facilities were getting just a bit cramped.

The Cleaners employs 20 people during the fall semester, when the football season brings the busiest period. Offering cleaning, tailoring, alteration, and repair service as it does, in the fall the Cleaners is a mighty busy organization.

What with two new substations opened this fall—one at the Campus Corner and one in the Exchange Store building—and new with the new cleaners building, there'll be more business than ever, even during the slack spring season when Joel & Co. process only 2,000 to 2,500 garments a week.

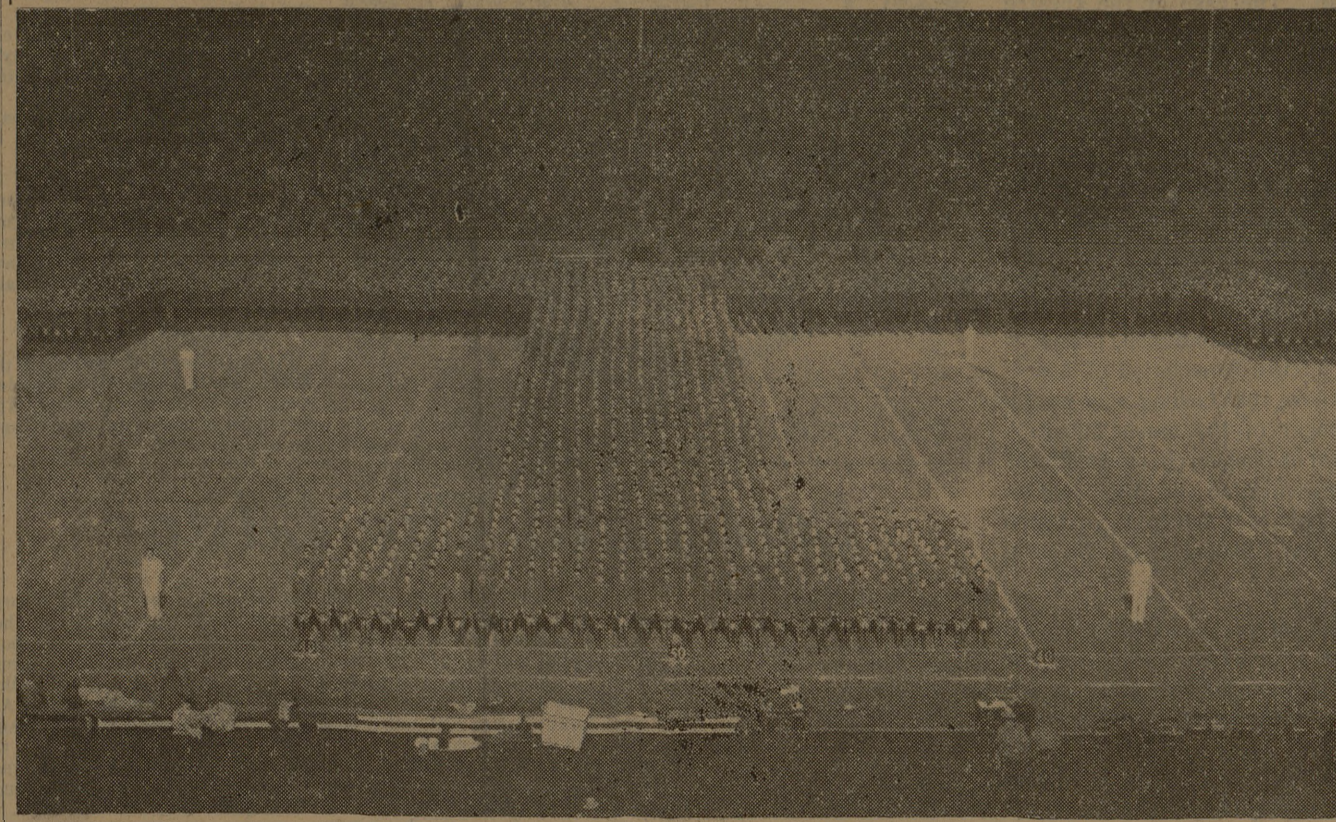

All of the cleaning equipment now in the Exchange Store building will be transferred to the new location. More equipment has been ordered and is on the way.

Business is sure booming with the Campus Cleaners. No wonder Joel English is a happy man.

New Campus Cleaners building will be ready for business after Christmas

Program Selling Rough, Even for Tessie Visitor

By JEAN CLOUD

Program? Official program? Only 25c. Get your official football programs RIGHT HERE. Only 25c. Sure, you want one, don't you. Please?

With one of these you don't even have to go into the game. Buy one of these and forget the game!

There should be union rules covering program saleswomen. Something at least to make the people reply. They could say "yes," "no," "drop dead" or "stop licking my shoes." It is cruel to absolutely ignore program saleswomen.

We're speaking of the programs which we sold Saturday night before the Aggies went "hawg wild." Yes, there are U-Boats in the Brazos, but there's good news tonight.

Now We Know

For an hour two Daily Lass-O copyreaders tramped the asphalt and cement to find just how it feels to do such tasks. And, now we know. Yes, indeed.

First off, the proper dress for feminine hawkers is a woolly parka purloined from an Eskimo. Add to that 42 pairs of rabbit fur-lined socks and a good Aggie short coat. Not essential but recommended are strong lungs, sticky fingers, persistence, perseverance, brass knuckles and a tub of hot foot-soaking solution.

Financial Compensation

Oh, but there's money in it—a sort of financial compensation. I believe we made the sum gross of 34c. And we've spent it already.

We sold our quota, because we were threatened. Then after pocketing the proceeds, guzzling a couple of gallons of hot black grapefruit juice and being turned slowly on a spit over a bonfire of excess programs, we unstiffened sufficiently to be carried into Kyle Field.

We weren't sure who was running with the ball then because we forgot to buy a program.
