

A&M Continues to Lead SWC In Scoring, Ground Gaining

A&M continued to lead the conference in ground gaining and total offense over the past weekend of league competition. The Aggies now have a total of 2,349 yards rolled up on the ground which combined with their aerial yardage equals 3,159 yards, an average of 394.7 yards for each of the eight games played this season.

The Cadet eleven also continued to lead the conference in scoring as it boosted its season scoring record to 291 points, and its league total to 129 markers.

Largely responsible for this is Bruisin' Bob Smith, who gained 301 yards against the SMU Mustangs while losing only four in Rock, Ark., and Texas meets the Horned Frogs at TCU, while the Bruins take a week off.

Behind Smith in the top scorers of the conference are Kyle Rote of SMU, 81; Byron Townsend of TU, 60; Buddy Parker of Baylor, 54; Yale Lary of A&M, 36; Andy Hillhouse of A&M, 36; Darrow Hooper of A&M, 33 (all PATs); and Bill Tidwell of A&M, George Glauser of Rice, Bill Howton of Rice, each with 30 points.

Rice 9, Arkansas 6

Bill Howton, a lightweight end who played the full sixty minutes, fired the Rice Owls to a 9-to-6 Southwest Conference football victory over hot and cold Arkansas before 20,000 unhappy homecomers.

Howton, weighing 177 pounds, made an unbelievable catch of Vernon Glass' 31-yard pass for the Rice touchdown in the first quarter. Near the end he caught another long throw by Glass deep in Arkansas territory to set up a safety that rounded out the Owl scoring.

In between Rice scores, the fiery redhead played a major role in stopping four Razorback drives which pierced the Owl 20-yard line.

Gridiron Sketch

Passes completed	6	6
Passes intercepted	3	0
Punts	5	10
Punting average	34	37.2

Yards penalized	40	30

Rice moved 86 yards for its touchdown. Big George Glauser, a powerhouse fullback, Billy Burkhalter and Sonny Wyatt ripped off huge chunks of yardage down to the Arkansas 31 in the ferocious drive.

There, as the Razorbacks tightened their defense for more power stuff, Glass lofted a pass to the end zone. Howton went up between Arkansas' Buddy Sutton and Norman Price and took the ball away from them for a touchdown.

Wright Converts

Bill Wright converted, and actually, that was all Rice needed.

Arkansas finally carried a goalward drive all the way in the third quarter after Sophomore Larry Hogue, a third-string quarterback, took charge of the offense. Hogue's sneaks through the middle and off tackle accounted for most of the yardage as the Razorbacks went from the Owl 46 to the 4. Buddy Rogers burst through from there for a touchdown. George Thomasson's kick for point was no good.

With less than four minutes left to play, Glass passed 30 yards to Howton on the Arkansas 11. Rice gave up the ball on downs at the 6. But, on the next play, Arkansas shifted from the T into a deep spread formation and Center Harold Stockton snapped the ball past Hogue and out of the end zone for an Owl safety.

Arkansas drives ranging up to 77 yards reached the Rice 3, 8, 15 and 18 only to run out of fuel.

Wyatt Sparks Owls

Wyatt was the heart of the Owl running attack. He netted 116 yards on twenty-one carries. Glauser pounded through the middle for 55. Buddy Rogers was Arkansas' top ball carrier with 63 yards in sixteen tries. Four others garnered more than 40 apiece.

If there was a bright spot for the Razorbacks it was the quarterback play of Hogue, who had played halfback for six games after failing to click at the signal-calling post in the season opener. His running from the split T was exceptional. He got 40 yards on five sneaks after entering the game in the third quarter.

Errorless Play

The big difference between the two teams was that Rice took advantage of its opportunities with errorless play, while Arkansas nullified its off-and-on brilliance with costly miscues.

Pass interceptions were costly to Arkansas. The Owls latched onto three Razorback tosses, twice to halt marches that had penetrated the Rice 15.

The Porkers connected on only six of nineteen passes for 78 yards, while the Owls ran the interceptions back 82 yards.

Glass Dumped

The Owls completed six of seven aerials for 103 yards. They tried to throw more, but time and again the big Razorback linemen dumped Glass before he could spot a receiver.

The game was fought out in 40-degree temperature made more uncomfortable by a 20-mile-an-hour south wind.

TU 27, Baylor 20

Bobby Dillon, a one-eyed halfback, returned a kickoff 34 yards in the fourth period to give the University of Texas Longhorns a face-saving 27-20 victory over the surprisingly tough Baylor Bears in a Southwest Conference thriller.

Dillon, who jokes about his glass eye tucked in a kick by Baylor's Larry Isbell and, behind fine blocking twisted through the entire Baptist team in the final five minutes of play.

It was "Old One-Eye," too, who broke up a desperate Baylor pass attack with less than three minutes to go by intercepting a mis-fired Isbell aerial.

But Leaping Larry dogged Texas, now overwhelmingly favored to win the Southwest Conference title and the host bid to the Cotton Bowl, all afternoon with a fancy passing that warmed up a crowd of 35,000 Armistice Day fans.

Gridiron Sketch

Passing yardage	168
Passes attempted	26
Passes completed	14
Passes intercepted	1

Isbell was almost as dangerous as a runner as he combined his talents with those of halfbacks Jim Jeffrey and Buddy Parker and fullback Richard Parma in a battle royal with Texas quarterback Ben Tompkins and hard-charging fullback Byron Townsend.

Showing fine impartiality, Texas scored a touchdown in every period. Tompkins accounted for two, one a four-yard pass to end Tom Stohlhandke and the other on a quarterback sneak from the Baylor two behind guard Bud McFadin and Tackle Gene Vykukal.

Reeder Recovers Fumble

Center Hugh Reeder started the Texas point-making when he recovered a fumble on the opening kickoff and Townsend, the Longhorns' money-runner, pushed across from the one-yard line four plays later.

Parker scored Baylor's first touchdown on a two-yard plunge by the first period to end an 81-yard drive, and another in the third on a 14-yard pass from Isbell.

The crowd sensed an upset when Isbell tied up the game 20-20, late in the fourth with a pass to Harold Riley. But Dillon took the ensuing kickoff and ran like a dough-foot in a strafing attack, and that was all for Baylor.

Baylor Outplays TU

Baylor outplayed Texas in every statistical department. The Baptist Bears totaled 18 first downs to 10 for the Longhorns. They netted 162 yards, rushing whereas Texas, even with Townsend hitting the line furiously, gained only 77. Isbell's passing was good for 168 yards, while Tompkins totaled only 94.

The Baylor line played Texas' offensive to a standstill which was borne out by the statistics.

Linebackers Frank Boystun and Gale Galloway had a fine day and tackle Ken Casner proved troublesome to the Longhorns while Cook played a spectacular first half, when he recovered two Texas fumbles.

Parma Leads Rushers

Parma led the ground gainers, marking up a net gain of 74 yards on 16 carries, while Jeffrey paced off 30 yards in 10 tries.

Townsend was good for short yardage when he was needed, but the Baylor line blunted his attempts and held him to a total of only 40 yards, the same yardage picked up by Longhorn halfback Gib Dawson.

The game-deciding runback by Dillon was made possible in large part by End Don Menasco, Dawson and McFadin, whose blocks enabled Dillon to break away in the clear at midfield.

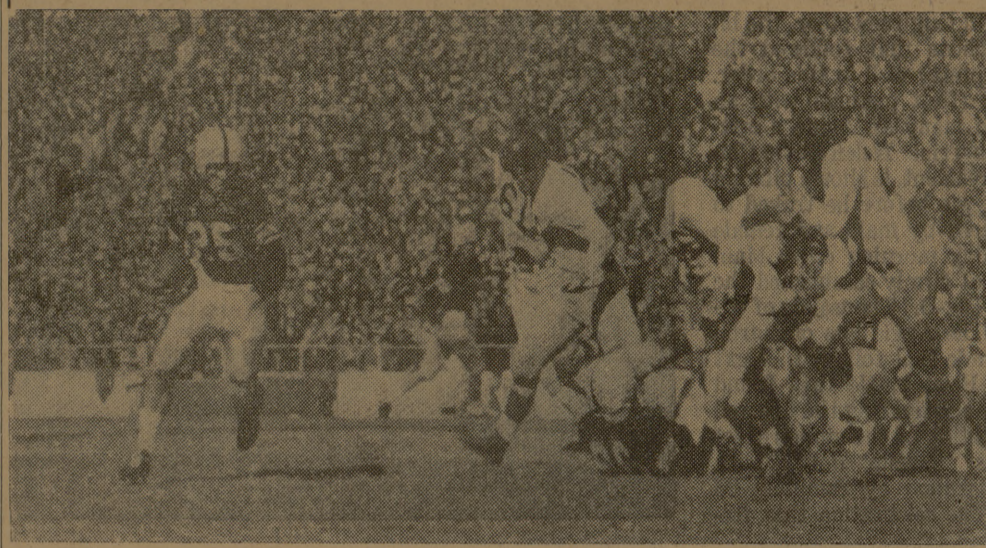

Menasco also broke up a Baylor threat when he intercepted an Isbell pass at the opening of the fourth quarter.

Only the gun ending the second period stopped what appeared to be a certain touchdown march for Baylor on Isbell's passes.

The Bears, starting on their own 36, moved fast as Isbell hit Jeffrey, Riley and Boydston, but time ran out in the period to stop the Baylor threat on the Texas 14.—Based on AP Report.

Lippman Starts 18 Yard Jaunt

Glenn Lippman begins rounding right end for an 18 yard gain while a greater portion of the SMU both offense and defense and made the final tackle of the game which A&M won, defeating SMU, 25-20.

Cadet Pass Defense At Best With Three Interceptions

But Southern Methodist wasn't playing its worst, and especially Killer Kyle Rote, the Ponies' candidate as All-American for the year. The Mustangs' star rambled for 126 yards in 27 carries and scored two of the Ponies TDs while attaining a punting average of 52 yards for two boots.

Rote Best Passer

Rote also turned in the best passing performance of the day as he completed five of six attempted aerials for 64 yards. He also caught three passes for 49 yards.

Pass slinger Fred Benners was the real thorn in the Cadets' side with his accurate passing, completing 15 of 21 attempted aerials for 211 yards and one touchdown.

But at this point it is well to give credit-where-credit is due as the Aggies' defensive backfield showed up the best that it has all season, intercepting three of Benners' tosses and playing an important part in the Aggies' goal line stands.

McDonald, Shaeffer at Best

Charley McDonald and Buddy Shaeffer were at their best playing heads-up ball throughout the game, each receiving official credit for five unassisted tackles. McDonald also received credit for four assisted tackles, Shaeffer for five, but it was McDonald, who stopped Rote cold on the Cadets' one-yard line to stop SMU's 20-down scoring threat which failed to materialize in the second quarter.

Shaeffer intercepted a Ponie aerial as did Augie Saxe and Aggie quadruple-threat Yale Lary—punter, runner, defensive back and passer—intercepted the third of the Benners' aerials caught by the Cadets. Lary also setup the Farmers second score when he ran back Rote's 38-yard punt, 64 yards to SMU's 36 yard line.

Lippman was also outstanding for the Cadets on defense as he not only played in the backfield but also on the line in the grand slot, helping "rush Benners." It was also Lippman, who knocked H. N. Russell, Jr., out-of-bounds on the last play of the game which ended the 60 minute, touchdown-for-touchdown fray.

Goal-Line Standouts

On the line during the goal-line stands were previously mentioned Hillhouse, who is becoming a unanimous choice in the Southwest Conference as an all-American end, Bob Bates, Jim Fowler, Jimmy Flowers, Dorbandt Barton, W. T. Rush, Jack Little, and Alvin Langford. Little, Langford, Rush, and Barton worked together in smearing Benners for a minus 28 yards during the game.

After an exchange of the ball, SMU scored first with Rote sweeping right end the final three yards for the counter. Nine plays covering 77 yards, most of which were traversed by Johnny Champion, were all that the Mustangs needed for the first six points, and SMU partisans settled back expecting the slaughter that seemed

Aggie Harriers Swamp NTS In Dual Match

Rebounding after last week's defeat to Arkansas, the Aggie Cross Country team swamped North Texas last Friday afternoon, 19-44.

Led by Aggie Julian Herring, last fall's Southwest Conference cross country champ, the Maroon and White harriers swept seven of the first eight places in completely outclassing the Denton team.

Don Edwards, the only Eagle to break into the A&M monopoly, crowded Herring all the way but was soundly whipped by 25 yards in the closing half mile, finishing a good second.

In third place was John Garmany who was followed by teammate Jim McMahon. Charles Hudgins, Marshall Lazarine, and Alex Ortiz swept across the finish in a dead heat for fifth, some fifty yards behind fourth place.

Charles Gabriel brought up the rear for the Cadets in eighth still substantially ahead of North Texas' second man.

It was apparent at the mile mark that the Aggies were headed for victory when all North Texas team, with the exception of Edwards, began dropping behind.

At the two-mile mark, Herring and Edwards began drawing way leaving Garmany and McMahon, who were then some distance ahead of the remaining runners, behind.

Smith Leads Scorers

Smith also continued to lead the SWC in scoring with 14 touchdowns, a total of 84 points for the season.

In conference standings Texas leads with a 4-0 record, having defeated Rice, Arkansas, SMU, and Saturday Baylor, 27-20. The Longhorns have suffered only one loss this season, at the hands of the Oklahoma Sooners, 13-14.

A&M is second in the conference race with a 3-1 record, having downed Arkansas, TCU, and this past weekend SMU, 25-20. The Farmers only loss was received from the Baylor Bruins, who are third in the running for the SWC tilt.

Baylor has won two while losing two, having lost to Texas and Arkansas, while defeating TCU and the Aggies.

SMU, TCU, and Rice are tied for the following position on the league ladder, each having won one conference game while losing two.

SMU Has 1-2 Record

The Ponies have downed Rice while losing to the Steers and the Aggies. TCU, who remained inactive over the weekend, has defeated Arkansas while losing to A&M and Baylor, and Rice has defeated Arkansas while losing to Texas and SMU.

Saturday, the Owls edged the Razorbacks, 9-6, for their first conference victory.

Cellar-dwelling Arkansas has won only one game while losing four. The Porkers defeated Baylor while losing to A&M, Rice, TCU, and Texas.
