Dallas, Dec. 5—(AP)—Champion Texas, appropriately enough, dominated the all-Southwest Conference football team selected for the Associated Press by the seven coaches.

Ag Eleven Readys A&M Quintet Splits Openers; For Georgia After Meets Tough Siena Tonight Loss to Longhorns

Twice defeated Georgia and four-times downed A&M will meet for the first time in the First Annual Presidential Cup game at College Park, Md., this coming Saturday. This will be the first post-season game that the Cadets have participated in since '44 when they lost to Louisiana State, 14-19 in the Orange Bowl.

The Bulldogs, however, played last year in the same bowl, but lost to underdog Texas, 28-41. Perhaps the most unusual thing which connects the two teams is the fact that one of A&M's great backs, Joel Hunt, was the coach at Georgia in '38 and in '39 the present Bulldog tutor Wallace Butts took over. Hunt's record was 5-3-1.

Butts is now in his 12th year at the helm of Georgia athletics, and has an unusual record of six wins, two losses, and three ties for the season. But the Cadet's coach has also had an unusual year.

A&M's Head Coach Harry Stiteler now in his third year as A&M's head coach, is seriously being considered as the Southwest Coach of the Year, for bringing the Cadets out of the win drought which A&M has suffered since '47. This season the Cadets have won six tilts, losing only four—two being to the No. 1 and 2 teams in the nation—Oklahoma and Texas, respectively.

Although both teams, Georgia and A&M, lost in the past week-end football frays, a sellout crowd of 50,000 will probably be on hand to witness the battle between the two elevens in Maryland's Byrd Stadium.

The favored Bulldogs lost to their bitter rivals, Georgia Tech, by a slight margin of seven points, the final score reading 7-0.

Underdog A&M dropped their 11th straight game to the Longhorns in Memorial Stadium, where the Cadets have yet to win a game since the dedication of the field in '24. A 17-0 score was near to the predicted two-touchdown margin allowed to the Orange and White over the Aggies.

A hard-fought battle which saw the Maroon failing to connect on two major breaks and a few minor ones was witnessed by 65,549 fans.

It was the first time this season that the greatest offensive team in the conference was held scoreless.

Too Many Mistakes
Too many mistakes was Georgia's trouble when underdog Tech gained a Bulldog fumble on their own 26 and went the distance for the counter. Two fumbles and four passes thrown straight into the arms of Tech defenders hurt the Bulldogs considerably.

Butts has many famous proteges, the best well known of whom are Frank Sinkwich, All-America in '41 and '42; Charlie Trippi, All-America in '46; and John Rauch, All-America in '48.

In the Southeastern Conference the Bulldogs have always set records, and since '42, Sinkwich has held top spots in seven departments, Trippi in four, and Rauch in two, and all records still stand.

After the Cadet line knuckled down and pushed the Longhorns back to the 11, Tompkins completed a pass to Ben Proctor on the one yard line and then the tall Texas end stepped across for the first TU counter.

The Orange's touchdown had come in the first quarter after the Cadets had failed to score from Texas' 22 where they had gained in two, and all records still stand.

Smith Still Best

Bruisin' Bob Smith, All-Conference fullback, was still the best fullback on any field in the nation as he romped through the mighty Longhorn line for a net yardage of 77 yards, bringing his season total to 1302 yards, an all-time high for the Southwest.

The manner in which Smith hit the Texas line was commented on many times throughout the game, and as last season's "Coach of the Year" Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma said, "Smith is the best back that I have ever seen perform on any field."

But Smith's play wasn't enough on the goal line as once the Cadets failed to go across from the two. Credit for the Texans goal line stand can be given to All-American Bud McFadin at the guard position and his teammates Yuke Davis, Ken Jackson, and Gene Yukulal, all of whom played outstanding ball.

Dawson Top Rusher
Soph Gib Dawson played his best of the season as he led the rushers with 95 yards in 14 carries; Byron Townsend ripped the line for 53 in 14; and Lew Levine crashed the Cadet forward wall for 43 in 9.

A&M's Yale Lary had 33 yards in 8 carries; and Glenn Lippman went 11 times through the line for 28 yards.

Texas took possession of the ball on their own 24 and 10 plays later crossed the Cadets goal line for the first of their two TDs.

Steer Quarterback Ben Tompkins displayed ball-handling and passing skill unexcelled as he helped the Longhorns reach to A&M's 12. At this point, a pass from Tompkins to Dawson seemed to be the touchdown, but the sophomore star who was alone in the end zone dropped the pass.

Tompkins to Proctor was ahead 65-59 with two minutes to go. The Rams started checking all over the court, swiped three Baylor passes and pulled up at 66-64 with Lou Zastoupil connecting on a whirl shot. Then Baylor refused three straight free throws and kept possession of the ball the final 22 seconds.

The Rams were charged with 31 fouls. The Bears cashed in 26 of their 37 gift shots, winning the game from the charity line as they were outshot from the field, 23-20. Three Rams and two Bears fouled out.

Ralph Johnson of Baylor led the scorers with 19 points. Zastoupil had 18.

Texas split with Sam Houston State, downing the Lone Star Conference team, 51 to 44, in the first game and dropping the second, 55 to 54.

Southern Methodist whipped Texas Wesleyan, 58 to 53, but lost to Oklahoma, 47 to 39.

Rice lost its only game, taking the count before Centenary, 62 to 54.

This Week's Schedule
Tuesday—Baylor vs. University of Corpus Christi at Waco, Rice vs. Sam Houston State at Huntsville, A&M vs. Siena at Albany, N.Y.

Wednesday—Texas vs. Oklahoma at Norman, Texas Christian vs. Texas Tech at Odessa.

Thursday—Southern Methodist vs. St. John's at New York, A&M vs. Canisius at Buffalo, N.Y.

Friday—Baylor vs. North Texas State at Waco, Arkansas vs. Oklahoma A&M at Stillwater.

Saturday—Texas vs. Texas Wesleyan at Austin, Texas Christian vs. Abilene Christian at Fort Worth, Arkansas vs. Tulsa at Tulsa, Rice vs. Tulane at Houston, Southern Methodist vs. Canisius at Buffalo, A&M vs. Duquesne at Pittsburgh.

Aggies Narrow Gap
The Aggies narrowed the gap and drew within two-points of the Oklahomans with six minutes remaining, but Jake Penwell and Andy Likens then combined their talents to pull the chiefs into a commanding lead.

TCU notched its second basket ball victory last night by defeating Hardin-Simmons University 53-35, in Fort Worth.

It was the Cowboys' first game. George McLeod, 6-7 center, paced the Frogs' attack with 15 points and gained individual scoring honors. Jay Cox was high for the losers with eight.

Both teams were erratic in the first half, which ended, 27-18, TCU, but for the first five minutes of the second period the Frogs' fast break worked effectively for a 41-20 lead and the Cowboys never were able to cut into the margin appreciably thereafter.

The Baylor Bears stayed off Texas Wesleyan's whirlwind finish in Waco last night to win a 66-64 basketball thriller from the Rams.

Baylor led 30-25 at half-time and

With Isbell tossing, Baylor moved to Rice's 20 yard line and here the Bear quarterback passed to Harold Riley on the Owl's one-yard line. Shannon came romping back into play to finish the damage he had started.

That was all the scoring until the fourth, when Baylor, surged from its own 37 to Rice's 23-yard line and Isbell finished the march with his 23 yard toss to Williams. It was his fifteenth touchdown heave of the season, his eleventh in conference play.

Talented Gilbert Bartosh, a piano-legged sophomore who runs like a tank and passes like he was shooting a rifle, carried Texas Christian to a 27-13 victory over disheartened Southern Methodist.

The irresponsible Bartosh passed for one touchdown, ran for another and engineered a lusty drive for a third, meanwhile being the leading ground gainer of the day, making 86 yards rushing and passing for 124.

It was a sorry finish for the Methodists, who five weeks ago were rated No. 1 in the nation. Since then they have lost four games.

Small Consolation
Southern Methodist got the consolation only of setting a new national record for pass completions. The Mustangs connected on eight.

today to make their season total 157, seven more than Washington, which eclipsed the record only this season.

A crowd of 55,000 was in the Cotton Bowl to see the Methodists, led by Kyle Rote, who closed his college career with a fine game, take a 13-0 lead in the first period, then he thoroughly outplayed the rest of the way.

Rote ground out 58 yards in a 65-yard drive for the first SMU touchdown. He made it on a smash from the three-yard line. Then SMU put on a 64-yard surge for another score, with Rote passing to Johnny Champion on a 39-yard gainer for the touchdown. Bill Sullivan kicked the extra point.

Down to Work
After that the Horned Frogs got down to business.

Their first touchdown was on a 78-yard drive, with Bartosh scoring on a run from the Methodist 13. Homer Ludiker converted. Next came the blocked punt for the second TCU score. Herb Zimmerman did the blocking and Moorman the picking up. Ludiker missed the conversion try and the half ended 13-13.

The third Frog touchdown was on a 44-yard push with Bobby Jack Floyd crumpling over from the SMU seven and Ludiker converting.

The final came when Keith Flowers intercepted a Rote pass on the SMU 29. Floyd picked up a yard then Bartosh passed to John Medanich across the goal line. Ludiker kicked the extra point.

TCU romped to 164 yards on the ground and 125 passing. SMU made 74 on the ground and 98 in the air.—Based on AP Reports.—Beat Georgia—
