Tompkins' 19-yard field goal in the third quarter cinched the Texans' win.
Among the best defensive stars for the Aggies was Sophomore Walter Hill, who was given credit for the minus 38 yards which was charged to Tompkins.

Atlantic Pact Nations to Talk Rearmament

London, Dec. 5—(AP)—The 12 Atlantic Pact powers meet tomorrow to thresh out final details of a Dutch proposal for using German troops in West Europe's defense. The plan is expected to win the approval of France, which so far has balked at any scheme to rearm the former Reich.

Diplomatic informants said the plan calls for the appointment of a civilian high commissioner. He would supervise recruiting of German soldiers to be integrated as units into the North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO) army in Europe.

Under the scheme these units would in the next three years reach the equivalent strength of 10 divisions. The units—4,000 to 6,000 men each—would be scattered through the combined West forces manning a defense line from the Arctic to the Aegean Sea.

The commissioner would be required to make certain that the formation of German units would not inspire a revival of German militarism.

The proposed commissioner's job would not conflict with the functions of the NATO supreme commander—a post which has been offered to US Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.
