

Smith, Bates Are Texas' Future Pros

By FRED WALKER

Although basketball is the predominant sport at present, old King Football still manages to poke his skinned nose into the news. This time it concerns drafted football players.

Before anyone panics over the word "draft", we had better explain that this one is not military. Two weeks ago the 12 National Football League clubs drafted 362 college grid stars for the next two years. (It has always been their practice to draft juniors also.) Texas colleges were well represented, but most interesting here is the inclusion of two Aggies—Bob Smith and Bob Bates.

Bates was taken by the Washington Redskins of the Eastern Division. George Marshall, club owner, has always been partial to Texas football products and Bates won't be among strangers. Bob Goode, a former A&M great, is holding down the Redskin fullback slot while newly acquired backfield coach Dick Todd is both a former Aggie football star and backfield coach. And don't forget "Slingin' Sammy" Baugh, one of the greatest passers ever to walk onto a gridiron and the backbone of Marshall's meal-ticket for many years—somewhere around 12 in fact.

When the Baltimore Colts dissolved this year, Adrian Burk, Baylor's passer of '49, was quickly snatched by the fabulous Marshall. Back him up with Baugh, Harry Gilmer and Leon Heath in the backfield and TCU's Red Marable, Rice's Paul Gioski and Bates up front, and one just might conceive a new football era at Washington.

Although "Bruisin' Bob" did not officially state that he will join pro ranks, he was among the first chosen. The National Conference Green Bay Packers picked him up but later traded him to the Cleveland Browns of the American Conference.

This seems to be a good break for Smith if he should play pro ball, because for the last several years he has been playing in the Sunbeam. Smith is fast and powerful and this is just what the pros are looking for in a halfback. Just one thing to remember though, Smith still has another year at A&M. It's too bad that the Aggies can't keep him and turn Cleveland into a farm club.

Here is a list of Texas and Southwest Conference football players and the professional clubs to whom they will go.

CHICAGO BEARS—Brad Rowland, back, McMurry; Charles Wright, back, West Texas State; Buddy Rogers, back, Arkansas; CHICAGO CARDINALS—Bill Cross, back, West Texas State; CLEVELAND BROWNS—BOB SMITH, TEXAS A&M; Ray Stone, end, Texas (Whatta' combination); Fred Williams, tackle, Arkansas; DETROIT LIONS—Bruce Womack, tackle, West Texas State; GREEN BAY PACKERS—Bill Ayre, back, Abilene Christian; LOS ANGELES RAMS—Bud McFaddin, guard, Texas; Harold Riley, end, Baylor; Earl Johnson, back, Texas Tech; NEW YORK GIANTS—Kyle Rote, back, SMU; Fred Beners, back, SMU; Gene Vykukal, tackle, Texas; Quincy Armstrong, center, North Texas; Hal Quinn, tackle, SMU.

NEW YORK GIANTS—Ken Jackson, tackle, Texas; Dick Rowan, end, Texas; Jewell Price, tackle, Texas Tech; PHILADELPHIA EAGLES—Frank Boydston, back, Baylor; Jack Richards, end, Arkansas; Louis Schaufele, back, Arkansas; Neal Franklin, tackle, SMU; Bob Winship, tackle, Rice; Marvin Stendel, end, Arkansas; John "Model" Ford, quarterback, Hardin-Simmons; PITTSBURGH STEELERS—Floyd Sampson, back, McMurry; WASHINGTON REDSKINS—Paul Gioski, tackle, Rice; Adrian Burk, back, Baylor; BOB BATES, CENTER, TEXAS A&M; William Brown, guard, Arkansas; Clarence Marable, tackle, TCU; Cecil Martin, back, North Texas; SAN FRANCISCO 49ERS—None listed.

'Mural Grid Champions

Doesn't Toss 'Em Often, But

Walker Is Ags Surest Shot

By JOHN DEWITT

The smallest member of A&M's basketball team is five foot-eight inch Ray "Woody" Walker, but his size is no indication of his basketball ability. What Woody lacks in height, he makes up for in natural ability and just plain old basketball savvy.

Woody calls Palestine his home, but he attended high school in Woodhouse, Texas, where he lettered four years in basketball and set an unbroken individual scoring record for one game with 39 points.

Still single, Ray is majoring in physical education at A&M in order to learn coaching, his chosen profession.

Coach John Floyd says that

Woody is the best shot on the Aggie squad. He fits nicely in the Aggie's new system too since the screens usually leave him in position for a shot around the bucket, a tally he seldom misses. The rapid improvement which Ray has shown in the last few weeks earned him a starting berth in the last five games.

His outstanding ball control and his ability at dodging the man guarding him put Woody in a class by himself on the Aggie team. Walker doesn't shoot often, but when he does the ball usually ends up cutting the cords for cadet scores.

With 20 points so far this season, Woody has shown that although he doesn't ring up many points himself, he is a great factor in the total scoring of the Aggies with many assists to his credit.

At present Woody is a little worried about the draft for he has one more year of eligibility. As one of the boys Coach Floyd is counting highly on for next season, he'll be playing his share of ball in the rest of the Aggie's games

Novice Fencers Show Well In Prep Foil Meet

First year men on the Aggie fencing team gave a good account of themselves in a prep foil and epee meet held in Houston Saturday, taking four out of six places.

In the foil competition Tom Munnerlyn of A&M was first, with C. K. Campbell of Rice second and Willie Matthijets of the Aggies third. Munnerlyn was unbeaten in nine bouts.

Epee ended in a tie between Chuck Massey of A&M and Jerry Lubin of Galveston, with Lubin winning a fence-off.

There was also a tie for third place between Wally Schlatter and Bob Jones, both of the Cadets, with Schlatter taking third with a fewer number of hits against him. A bit of extra curricular interest was provided by Goucher of Rice who received a deep gash in his arm while fencing Massey.

Claude Holmes and Teddy Fields from A&M also gave good accounts of themselves, though failing to place.

Looking like an African whist, clown, Bu. Mathews, tumbling in structure goes through one of the many antics that caused him an Harold Turner (left) to be called professional timber by an appreciative audience. The tear performed between halves of the A & M Baylor game.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOR Paul was having a fowl time because his down was up. All the chicks made wise quacks about his upswart hairdo until his shellmate suggested he duck over to the drugstore. "Waddle I do?" he asked. "Get Wildroot Cream-Oil!" the druggist answered. "Non-alcoholic. Made with soothing lanolin. Grooms your hair neatly and naturally without that plastered-down look. Removes ugly ducklings—I mean ugly dandruff! Helps pass the fingernail test!" Now he's engaged—he's lovely—he uses ponds—to swim in! (Isn't he decoy one?) So water you waiting for? Get a tube or bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil Hair Tonic at any drug or toilet goods counter today. Ask your barber for professional applications. And tell all your webfooted friends it's eggactly what the ducktor ordered!

Meeting Planned For Handballers

There will be an important meeting of all interested handball players—Wednesday, Feb. 14 at 5:00 p. m. in the Physical Education Department office. Mr. Herman Segrist, sponsor of the Handball Team, would like to meet all players in order to get the team organized for competition.

R. C. "Beau" Bell, new baseball coach at Texas A&M, was captain of the Aggies' first championship team in the sport back in the thirties.
