

Third Inning Rally Gives A FA Victory

A third inning rally gave A FA a 5-4 win over ASA as the Intramural Softball Leagues completed their third day of play.

After battling for two scoreless innings of play the artillerymen sent five men scampering across homeplate to build up a 5-0 lead. The "cloak and dagger" nine however were far from beaten as Bill Witty, third sacker and lead off man for the ASA, promptly plastered a pitch into center field for a single. Grady Satterwhite followed with another single advancing Witty to second. Flitts, Jones, Hutson and Johnson all hit for safeties before Steve Bohmler could quell the rally and retire the side giving his team the one run victory.

A QMC WINS

A QMC scored a 6-1 victory over L AF in the other game of the afternoon. Two runs in the first, one in the second, and three in the third were enough to match the only run scored by the airmen in the fourth.

A AF scored to 4-0 shut-out win over B Infantry. The airmen were held scoreless in the first inning but counted for a single tally in the second and scored thrice more in the third.

J. F. Mueller accounted for the run in the second canto as he hit for the circuit with the bases empty.

Bryan of A AF also smacked a round tripper in the third with two men on.

Air Force Men Vie

B AF put together two hits and a walk to score the winning run in the third inning as the B Airmen downed E AF, 3-2.

E Infantry edged A Engineers 2-1. The Infantrymen scored the winning run in the final inning of play when Hitchcock crossed the plate with the deciding run.

E FA slaughtered D Vets 18-0 in a three inning contest. The Artillery hurler pitched a no-hit, no run game against the Vets while the artillerymen were teeing off on Martin Schrank the Vet hurler for 12 runs in the initial inning. They scored four runs in both the second and third innings.

New Coach Should Follow Present Aggie Style—Irvin

The successor to Harry Stiteler as head football coach will be a man who follows the Aggie style of play, Athletic Director Barlow Irvin said today.

Irvin removed himself as a possibility for the job. He said "the set-up here at A&M does not permit such an arrangement." Plans are to keep the entire coaching staff as it now stands.

Irvin had been reported in line for the post vacated Monday by Stiteler, who resigned after admitting that he had not told the facts about an attack on him at Houston in December.

Stiteler was beaten up by a man he had said he did not know. But Monday he declared that he did know his assailant, that it was a personal affair long since settled. The college accepted his offer to resign.

"Our plans now are to keep the entire coaching staff, thereby causing as little change as possible through this season," Irvin said. "We are looking for a coach who follows our style of play to avoid undoing all the work of Spring training completed last week."

He declared that the college would not be partial in its search for a coach, looking both inwardly and off the campus for the mentor.

Stiteler's resignation leaves Ray George as line coach, Gilbert Steinke as backfield coach, Bill Dawson as end coach Dalton Faircloth as B team coach. Klepto Holmes was hired three weeks ago as freshman coach.

"We are not going to let this change in coaches alter our vigorous athletic program," Irvin said. "We are going to work doubly hard this Fall to see that the football team has every chance to succeed."

The hunt for a new coach begins Monday when Athletic Council Chairman D. W. Williams returns from an inspection tour of Australia.

Sharpshooters

Members of the Air Force Rifle team line up outside the Rifle range after a day's practice firing. The team won the 14th Air Force ROTC Interscholastic championship. The Aggie team fired 7,582 out of a possible 8,000. They fired from the sitting, prone, kneeling and standing

Ag Baseballers Meet Brooke Medics in Two Game Series

The A&M baseball team goes to San Antonio today and again tomorrow for a return two-game series with the Brooke Army Field Medics.

The Aggies won their first game here with the Comets 8 to 7 on a ninth inning home run by catcher Al Ogletree. The Medics turned the tables the following day, defeating the Cadets 2-1 in the second game.

The Comets are loaded with young big leaguers having players who belong to the Houston Buffs, the San Antonio Missions and the St. Louis Browns. Russell Mays, the third sacker, is a former Aggie, playing for the Cadets in 1948.

So far this season the Aggies have lost their one road game. Saturday, they played the University of Houston on the Cougars' home field, dropping the game 3-7.

Probably starting on the mound for A&M will be Pat Hubert, talented senior right hander, and Yale Lary will be on first base. Joe Erette will hold down second base; Henry Candelari will be on third, and team captain Guy Wallace, all Southwest Conference last year, will be in the hot spot.

Outfield will consist of Charles Russell, Bill McPherson and Holis Baker with Blanton Taylor due to see plenty of action.

Aggies Play First Game Of NCAA Meet Tonite

The Aggies will again face a fast-breaking ball club when they play the University of Washington Huskies tonight at Kansas City in the NCAA playoffs.

The Washington quintet, winner of 22 games this past season and loser of five, will feature William "Tippy" Dye's own special brand of fast break and backboard control. The Pacific Coast team wrapped up its crown in convincing style by nearly running UCLA to death before defeating the Bruins 70-51 and 71-54.

Although A&M will be out-matched by taller men, Coach John Floyd considers the Aggies anything but underdogs.

The Washington Huskies won all nine of their non-conference games, 11 of their 15 conference games and both of their playoffs. A&M, by comparison, won six non-conference tilts and dropped six, won eight of its 12 conference battles, and captured three of its four playoff games.

Probable Starters

A&M will probably start 6-8 Walter Davis at center, 6-5 John DeWitt, and 6-4 LeRoy Miksch at the forwards, and 5-9 Jewell McDowell and 5-8 Raymond Walker at the guard posts.

Washington will probably field 6-7 Bob Houbregs at the central spot, 6-3 Frank Guisness and 6-4 LaDon Henson as forwards; and 5-10 Louis Soriano and 6-1 Mike McCutchen at the guards.

Number 1 substitutes for A&M will be 6-3 Marvin Martin, forward; and 5-10 Don Heft, guard. The Huskies have first string ready today.

Texas Underdog In Swimming Meet

Austin, March 22—(AP)—Texas will be an underdog in the first event of the Southwest Conference swimming meet which starts here today.

Arden Amerine of SMU will be in the favorite's role when he defends the 1500-meter free style crown he won last year. Challenging Amerine will be John Parnell of A&M and Wynant Wilson and Eddie Gilbert of Texas. More entries are expected Thursday.

A&M Track Team To Meet Rice, UH

The devastating A&M track team engages Rice and the University of Texas Friday at Houston in what should be another decisive win for the Aggies.

The Aggies won the Border Olympics with 77 1/3 points to Texas' 39 and humiliated the Longhorns in a dual meet last Saturday 91 1/2-44 1/2.

With explosive Darrow Hooper, soph weight ace, as the Cadet's leading performer, Coach Frank Anderson will take a 30-man squad to Houston. This will include as many as four entries in many events.

serve power in 6-7 forward Doug McClary and 6-5 Duane Enochs, a center. If McClary starts the ball game, then A&M will be outmanned in height at one forward position and both guard spots.

The A&M team left Tuesday evening by train. The Cadets are staying in the Muehlbach hotel, getting in one practice period Wednesday on the court. Washington and A&M are scheduled to meet at 9:45 p. m. tonight.
