

Campus Wide Chest Drive Opens Next Week, Goal $2,500

The Campus Chest drive, which last year made possible the first 12th Man Scholarship, will begin next week with a goal set at $2,500. This year the money will be divided three ways. A second $1,600, 12th Man Scholarship will be given, a $600 foreign student scholarship will be sponsored, and $300 will be contributed to the College Station Community Chest.

Two years ago, the idea for a 12th man scholarship originated in the Student Senate. A means of financing the fellowship worked out. Then last year the campus chest drive had its birth.

First Winner
Carroll Phillips, Henrietta, Texas was the first high school senior to receive aid. After a competitive examination given by the former students Development Fund, Phillips entered A&M as a pre-dental student. He now has a grade point ratio of 2.33.

In a campus wide election held in February, the student body elected Norway to receive the benefits of the foreign student scholarships.

Purpose of the fellowship is to tell Norway about America by instructing one of her students, said L. E. "Monty" Montgomery, co-chairman of the Campus Chest Committee.

Because of aid given polio victims, the Senate voted to contribute to the College Station Community Chest. Four student's children and three faculty members were stricken with polio last year, according to Montgomery.

In the 1950 chest drive, $2,400 was collected. Besides the $1,600 scholarship, $500 was given the World Student Service Fund.

Purpose of the WSSF is to aid reconstruction of foreign schools and poverty stricken students.

A Contingent Fund containing $300 was not used, according to Montgomery. The fund was intended to be used in case a person connected with A&M were suddenly impoverished.

Members of the Campus Chest Committee are Allan Eubank, in charge of solicitations; Montgomery, advertisement; Bill Dalston, Bob Dunn, Brad McAllister, and Hans Kinningstad.

Killingstad is in charge of writing letters to all faculty and staff members inviting their participation in the drive. Posters will be handled and distributed by McAllister.

Actual collecting in the dorms will be done Wednesday and Thursday night of next week. The senator from each dorm will, with three aids, enter individual rooms beginning at 10 p. m.

A&M Debators Speak Before Local Kiwanis

"Resolved: That the non-communist nations should form a new international organization," was the subject for the debate presented before the College Station Kiwanis Club yesterday at their weekly meeting.

The debate was given by the A&M debating team composed of James Farmer and Dan Davis, speaking for the affirmative, and Joe Riddle and Berthold Weller, arguing for the negative side of the question. Farmer and Davis are both juniors while Riddle and Weller are sophomores.

Before the debates began, Harrison Hierth, debate squad coach and member of the English Department, issued cards to the Kiwanis with instruction to indicate their personal stand on the question before and after the debates. In this manner, it is possible to detect both weaknesses and strong points on the question and also discover the effectiveness of the speakers.

Approximately 18 members of the A&M Consolidated High School baseball team were guests last Sunday of the J. C. Culpepper Realty Co. and the Kiwanis on a round-trip to Houston to see the exhibition baseball game between the New York Yankees and the Houston Buffs. The team was accompanied by Coaches Othel Chafin and Jim Bevans and Kiwanians H. J. Johnson and R. A. Orr.

Next week's meeting will hear H. P. Smith of the Agricultural Engineering Department speak about his recent trip to Turkey. Smith will illustrate his talk with movie slides picturing both his work over there and the general living conditions of that country.

Local Civic Leader Resigns From Staff

C. W. "Bill" Manning, well-known civic leader of College Station and Agricultural Experiment Station staff member since 1941, is resigning from the Station, effective April 30, to accept a position with the Stoneville Pedigreed Seed Co., Stoneville, Miss.

Manning will work to improve the varieties of cotton produced by the seed company. This work will include breeding work with oats and four varieties of cotton, and later he will initiate a program in soybeans.

A&M Press Manager Suffers Cracked Ribs

J. W. Hall, manager of the A&M Press, suffered a broken collar bone and four cracked ribs when he was thrown from a horse Monday afternoon at his farm in Kurten.

Hall is hospitalized at St. Joseph in Bryan.

Netter

"DeBerry has a very good chance to be seeded this year in the Southwest Conference Meet," said Dowell. "This meet is one which judges the individual, not the team, and I think that he will make a good showing," Dowell concluded.

"R. G. didn't show up with the best of records last year, but I would credit this to the fact that he was in bad company. It was his first year in SWC competition and he met some of the best. However, he came out at the last of the year with a nice record and some invaluable experience.

Also to be credited in last year's performance was DeBerry's defeating the U of H's Jason Morton, one of the top mens' singles players in the state.

DeBerry considers his greatest improvement made while at A&M is his doubles playing. He also has developed a two-handed backstroke, which is the only one in the SWC. This style is patterned after the great pro tennis player, Pancho Segura.

"I am thinking seriously about turning professional after I graduate," said DeBerry. He also added that he gained his interest for the game from his father who taught him many of the finer points of tennis.

Calendar Plans For '51-'52 Completed

Plans for a social calendar for the 1951-52 school year were tentatively made Monday night at a meeting of club presidents and other organizations sponsoring social events.

The calendar of events, according to C. G. "Spike" White, dean of men for activities, will be printed during the summer when all contracts and contracts are completed.

White said the calendar would be large enough for a student to make insertions of dates, quizzes and anything else he may desire, to keep himself informed.

"It will probably be distributed during registration this Fall," White added, at no cost to the student.

Clubs Open to All

The Gymnastics Club has done, several shows were presented between halves of the home basketball games.

Emil Mamaliga, diving coach and PE prof, is the sponsor of the weight lifting club.

Paul Andrews of the PE Dept. sponsors the Soccer Club. This organization is made up mostly of Latin-American students whose national sport is soccer. They play this game on the same level as is football and baseball played in this country.

Big Time Wrestler
The Wrestling Club is sponsored by Jim Griffith, also a PE instructor. This year is the first time A&M has had a wrestling instructor with the background of Griffith. He wrestled for Oklahoma A&M where his father is now coach of wrestling.

Herman Segrest is the Handball Club sponsor and Barney Welch sponsors and coaches the softball team.

Tomorrow morning, Murray Cox, farm director of WFAA in Dallas will lead a discussion on "New

Scouts Offer Sitter Service

Calling all frustrated mothers! Mothers, do you desire an evening's freedom from your daily maternal cares? Babies, are you anxious to be rid of mother's reproachful eyes when you are busily redecorating the living room furniture with your new tool chest?

If so, take advantage of the service now offered by the College Station Girl Scouts of Troop 11. These girls are willing to spend an evening with young Bratley, for a price, thus giving mother a chance to "get away from it all."

For further details about this service, Miss Louise Street may be contacted at 4-8319.

Remember the Girl Scout motto—Be Prepared! And mothers and babies to "Be Prepared," call the Girl Scouts.

sible to 150,000,000 American people, "and in a job as important as this he has to have a man who will cooperate fully."

The Oklahoma senator's indication that the fight will be carried to the country was backed by another administration Democrat, who didn't want his name used.

The cabinet member's chief congressional critic, Senator McCarthy (R-Wis), called MacArthur's removal from command "a black day for America and a great day of rejoicing and victory for Communism."

Agreeing with Knowland that Acheson has won another victory within the administration for his policies, McCarthy called MacArthur "the last bulwark in the East against Communism and for America."

"To destroy him is treason," the Wisconsin senator declared.

Senator Jenner (R-Ind) contended that "our struggle in Korea is finished—there is nothing to do now but bring our boys home."

"In his action in striking down General MacArthur in the dead of night, President Truman has given the Soviet Union the greatest victory it could have imagined," Jenner said.

"The release of General MacArthur from command in Korea is a political action which constitutes the greatest military disaster in American history."

than by just "being different" in small, insignificant points.

(In fact, we could become so different—if the entire student body carried this thought—that we could cease to function on a level equal with other colleges.

You have struck an excellent point—although we doubt you realize it—in your last paragraph. The important part of the change would be that the Senate President (or President of the Student Body) would represent the student body directly by their vote. The name change, while quite desirable, is actually of less importance to us.
