Glass--Held Over

This display, featuring a punch bowl with a hollow base made by the Williamsburg Co., is part of the MSC glass display being held over in the Social Room until Mothers' Day. A new display of glass from the Viking Co. has been received and will be put on show, according to Mrs. Helen Atterbury of the MSC.

Red Cross Nurses Urged to Register

WE'RE STILL bubbling with enthusiasm over the success of the first Bluebonnet Ball and thrilled over the selection of Virginia Hendricks as Mrs. Texas A&M College. The only Grads Begin cloud was that each of the finalists couldn't have had the high honor. All of them—Myrtle Schick, Peggie Young, Eula Talbert, Ida Goff and Rosie Goats—were equally deserving, as were any one of several hundred other Aggie wives.

Then the judges—Clayton Selph, Leigh Crozier, Carl Molberg, dated High School Seniors, accordiated High School Seniors, according to the Managaret Price—met and selected the finalists.

This was done on the basis of length of time at A&M, employment and outside interests, special training and interests, children and the amount of help each wife had been to her husband. From these finalists—the judges saw the girls when they entered the dance Friday night—the winner was chosen.

We are especially grateful to College Station and Bryan merchants—Black's Pharmacy, Pruitt's Beauty Shop, Orr's Food Center, Sankey Park Jewelry Store, Lester's Smart Shop, Hotard's Cafeteria, Norton-Newman Printing Co., Caldwell's Jewelry Store, Beverley Braley's, Immie's Children's Store, Central Texas Hardware Store, Stiles Florists, and A. M. Waldrop and Co.—for making possible such a lovely array of gifts to our winner.

Cooperation from all sources was wonderful—from The Battalion all its associates, the MSC dance committee, the candidates, the es, the merchants and those who came. By this means we extend arsonal vote of thanks to each of you who had something to do

Dowell stressed that this list will not be used unless an emergency arises. She cited several instances where, when disaster struck, nurses had to be called from surrounding towns because no local lists were available.
