

104 Cases Diagnosed

Six Specialists Give Time To Crippled Children Clinic

By FRANK N. DAVIS
Battalion Staff Writer

Characterized by smoothness and order, the Sixth Annual Kiwanis Crippled Children's Diagnostic Clinic, held in the basement of the college hospital, was completed yesterday afternoon after 104 children had been examined by six visiting specialists.

Reason for the effectiveness obtained this year was believed to be due to the return of a large number of people who had previously attended the clinic. Also, the procedure was planned in detail, employing knowledge gained from past experience.

Last year, the children were given refreshments before being examined by the visiting doctors. This year Coca-Colas, ice cream, and milk served after the examinations proved to be more effective.

Refreshments Served
Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Bryan, Lilly Ice Cream Company, and Sanitary Farm Dairies contributed the refreshments.

Children suffering speech defects, disfigurements caused by burns, shortened limbs and other physical limitations were diagnosed.

A child who had a birth mark on the side of her face, was advised to postpone treatment until reaching the age of seven.

In another case, a Negro girl who was examined four years ago with one leg about six inches shorter than the other, walked into the clinic almost normally. An extra thick sole on one shoe was the only thing that distinguished her from normal children.

Interviews Given
Fifteen children who had reached eighteen were interviewed by James B. Abercrombie, vocational rehabilitation, Texas Educational Agency. The interview was to discuss the possibilities of physical restoration and placement in suitable jobs.

"Do you plan to finish high school? Do you desire physical rehabilitation treatments? Would you be able to pay for such treatment?"

These were some of the questions Abercrombie asked.

All persons are eligible for free guidance and consultation. Those unable to afford necessary treatments are enabled to receive free aid from the Crippled Children's Division of the Texas Health Department.

Miss Imogene Smith of the Crippled Children's Division was on hand to interview children whose parents were unable to finance restoration treatments.

Specialists Attend

Visiting specialists were Dr. C. O. Haug, speech therapy; Dr. G. W. N. Eggers, orthopedic surgery; Dr. Herbert E. Hips, head of the Crippled Children's Hospital, Waco; Dr. P. W. Bailey Jr., neuro-psychiatrist; and Dr. Steven R. Lewis, plastic surgeon.

A dinner was given in the MSC for the visiting doctors by the local Kiwanis Club and Shriner's Club.

Although the clinic was started by the Kiwanis Club of College Station, it has since grown until today it depends upon the support of numerous local and state organizations.

Organizations which support the clinic include the Bi-County Medical Society, State Health Department, Women's Auxiliary of the Medical Society, Missionary Society, Brazos County Health Unit, and the Campus Study Club.

Diocese Officers

The newly elected officers of the Diocese of Texas Canterbury Clubs are Bob Stoltz, Provincial representative; Bob Schmidt, president; Pat Coyle, secretary; Virginia Haney, vice-president; and Bob Baxter, treasurer. Representatives from eight Texas colleges attended the two-day convention at St. Thomas Episcopal Chapel.

Episcopals Hold Texas Diocese Meeting Here

A Canterbury Club convention of the Diocese of Texas was held recently at St. Thomas Episcopal Chapel.

"The purpose of this convention was to give impetus to college work in schools of the Diocese of Texas through the Canterbury Clubs," said Orin G. Helvey, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal Chapel.

The principal speaker for the convention was the Rev. Canon Curtis Junker, Canon of St. Matthews Cathedral of Dallas. The Rev. Canon Junker is also in charge of the Canterbury House at SMU.

Four Diocesan officers and one Provincial representative were elected at the two-day convention. Bob Schmidt, of Baylor, was elected Provincial representative and Bob Stoltz, also of Baylor, was elected Diocesan president of the Canterbury Clubs.

Elected to the vice-presidency was Miss Virginia Haney of Texas University and Miss Marie Coyle of Rice was named secretary for the year. A&M's Bob Baxter was elected as treasurer of the group.

Schools attending the convention were TU, Rice, University of Houston, SHSTC, Baylor, SMU, Tyler Jr. College, and A&M.

right-hander, turned in a no-hitter as the businessmen shutout the Jr. AVMA, 8-0. The Society tallied three runs in the first frame, one in the second and four in the third, all off J. C. Hart, the starting and losing pitcher for the AVMA.

C Composite capitalized on the D Infantry fielding errors to defeat the infantrymen, 8-5. The winners tallied two runs in the first, one in the second, four in the fourth, and one in the sixth. The infantrymen scored two runs in the second and three in the final inning as they attempted to come from far behind but had their rally cut short.

A Signal scored five runs in the first inning and hung on to whip A Ordnance, 5-4. The Ordnance scored one in the first and three in the third but failed to muster enough batting strength to garner the tying or winning runs.
