Six Specialists Give Time To Crippled Children Clinic

By FRANK N. DAVIS Battalion Staff Writer

Characterized by smoothness and order, the Sixth Annual Kiwanis Crippled Children's Diagnostic Clinic, held in the basement of the college hospital, was completed yesterday afternoon after 104 children had been examined by six visiting specialists.

Reason for the effectiveness obtained this year was believed to be due to the return of a large number of people who had previously attended the clinic. Also, the procedure was planned in detail, employing knowledge gained from past experience.

Last year, the children were given refreshments before being examined by the visiting doctors. This year Coca-Colas, ice cream, thick sole on one shoe was the more different and order the clinic almost normally. An extra thick sole on one shoe was the more different who had reached cighteen were interviewed by James B. Abercrombie, vocational rehabilitation, Texas Educational Agency. The interview was to discuss the possibilities of physical restoration and placement in suitable jobs.

"Do you plan to finish high school? Do you desire physical relabilitation treatments?" These were some of the questions Abercrombie asked.

All persons are eligible for free guidance and consultation. Those unable to afford necessary treatments are enabled to receive free guidance and consultation. Those unable to afford necessary treatments are enabled to receive free guidance and consultation.

Episcopals Hold Texas Diocese Meeting Here

A Canterberry Club convention of the Diocese of Texas was held recently at St. Thomas Episcopal Chapel.

"The purpose of this convention was to give impetus to college work in schools of the Dio-cese of Texas through the Canter-berry Clubs," said Orin G. Helvey, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal

The principal speaker for the convention was the Rev. Canon Curtis Junker, Cannon of St. Matthews Cathedral of Dallas. The Rev. Canon Junker is also in charge of the Canterberry House at SMU.

Four Diocesan officers and one Provincial representative were elected at the two-day convention. Bob Schmidt, of Baylor, was elected Provincial representative and Bob Stoltz, also of Baylor, was elected Diocesan president of the Canterberry Clubs.

Elected to the vice-presidency was Miss Virginia Haney of Texas University and Miss Marie Coyle of Rice was named secretary for the year. A&M's Bob Baxter was elected as treasurer of the group. Schools attending the convention were TU, Rice, University of Houston, SHSTC, Baylor, SMU, Tyler Jr. College, and A&M.
