Serums Prevent Many Fatal Ills

Many of the dreaded diseases of yester years are no longer a serious threat. Whooping cough which at one time took a heavy toll, especially among infants, is being stamped out. Likewise, scarlet fever is being whipped, the State Morbidity report shows. Last week only one case of whooping cough and scarlet fever were reported in the Bryan-College area. Serums used both as a treatment and preventive of these diseases are causing their extinction. Whooping cough preventative serum is administered to infants the first few months of life, ac-ording to Dr. David E. Brown, director of the Brazos County Health Unit. In some cases, children are given a booster dose when they start school, he added. The microscopic streptococcus germ which caused scarlet fever is also combated with a new preventative serum. Scarlet fever, like the measles, is spread by direct contact with infected persons. In the case of the measles, however it is still flooding the state. Again this disease leads the list, with 68 cases reported. Last week there were a like number of cases in the Bryan-College area. There were no cases of influenza reported. Strep throat is also without victims. Other diseases reported were pneumonia, four cases; tuberculosis, one; mumps, 16 and chickenpox, 11.

Senators Get Keys At Banquet-Meet

Members of the 1950-51 Student Senate were presented gold keys at their final banquet-meeting of the year last night in the MSC Assembly Room. Keys were presented by Bennie Zinn, assistant dean of men for student affairs, in behalf of the Student Activities department. In action after the banquet, the senators passed amendments to the constitution which established offices of recording secretary, corresponding secretary, and treasurer; and required that the Senate president not be an academically classified senior at the time he takes office.

Constitution Tie Stopped
A motion by Joe Fuller to accept an amendment which would unite the constitution of the student body—under which the Senate functions—and that of the Student Life Committee was defeated, 15-10. The amendment, had it passed, would have permitted either body to alter that portion of the constitution which pertained to its work, and would have required both groups to alter any part which affected both.

Vote of Confidence
Karl Meyers reported on the mascot committee's progress in obtaining a German shepherd. The committee received a vote of confidence upon its work after debate arose over whether or not a "handler" should be named for the dog after he is brought to the campus. Senator Jimmy Onstatt reported that four of the six civilian dormitories had contributed $10 each from their funds to repay Texas University for damages done there by A&M students. The two remaining dormitories will be contacted soon, Onstatt said.

Allan Eubank announced a total of $1,800 in the Campus Chest fund, with any profits from final 75th Anniversary Medallion sales still to be counted. The Chest committee had previously been empowered to apportion the money between the Twelfth Man Scholarship and the Foreign Student Scholarship.

Medallion Sales Climb
One hundred and twenty-three medallions were sold in the MSC over the weekend, Bill Sky-Eagle reported. He lauded Senators Doyle Griffin and Lloyd Manjeot for their efforts in seeing that a large number of medallions were sold both in their dormitories and over the campus.

A motion by Duane Vandenberg to commend the Senate officers and committee chairmen for their work during the year was passed unanimously. President Bill Parris and Senator W. D. "Pusher" Barnes told the Senate of the discussion scheduled tonight at 7:15 in the MSC on A&M's student government and proposed changes.

Four Juniors Added
Four juniors were added to a committee which will meet with athletic department officials concerning the possibility of moving either the athletic dormitory to the New Area or the athletes individually to "regular outfits."

Guests at the banquet, which preceded the meeting, included Gibb Glechrist, chancellor of the A&M System; Dr. M. T. Harrington, president of the college; Dr. J. P. Abbott, dean of arts and sciences; Dr. H. W. Barlow, dean of engineering; Dr. I. G. Boughton, dean of veterinary medicine; Dr. C. N. Sheppard, dean of agriculture.

Dr. Ide P. Trotter, dean of the graduate school; W. L. Penberthy, dean of men; Col. H. L. Boatner, PMS&T and commandant of the college; Col. E. W. Napier, PMS&T; Lt. Col. M. P. Bowden, assistant commandant; Zinn; C. G. "Spike" White, assistant to the dean of men for student activities; and M. W. "Pet" Hardesty, Student Activities business manager.

Baccalaureate Sermon Will Be Given Sunday

On Sunday, May 20, A&M Consolidated seniors and friends will gather at the A&M Presbyterian Church for the annual Baccalaureate sermon.

The sermon, entitled "The Road Ahead," will be delivered by the Rev. Norman Anderson, pastor of the A&M Presbyterian Church.

A sextet from A&M Consolidated will sing, "Christ is There" by P. I. Tschalkowski. Mrs. J. T. Dawson, music teacher at A&M Consolidated, will direct the group.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. with organ meditation by Mrs. Luther Jones. The Rev. O. Byron Richardson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, College Station will give the invocation.

The Rev. James F. Fowler, pastor of the Church of Christ, College Station will close the service with his benediction.

Commencement for the 19 graduating seniors will be held Friday, May 25, in Guion Hall. Col. H. L. Boatner, PMS&T and Commandant, will be the principal speaker.
